THE COLLEGE

Barnard is a selective liberal arts college for women, affiliated with Columbia University and integrally related to its hometown of New York City. Barnard is committed to the liberal arts and sciences—a commitment reflected in its curriculum and in the atmosphere of learning and scholarship that permeates its campus.

As a university college in an international city, Barnard offers an education enriched immeasurably by the vast social and cultural resources of New York and the academic resources of Columbia, located just across the street.

More than 50 years ago, Virginia C. Gildersleeve, dean of Barnard from 1911 to 1947, said of New York City, “It is a wonderful place in which to run a college...its museums, its theatres, its concert halls, its operas, its government agencies, its business marts, its great public institutions of a hundred kinds...form laboratories and adjuncts to academic halls.” Today the city remains an extension of the campus, used by every department to enhance the relationship of learning to living.

The College seeks women who will benefit most from the Barnard experience: a diverse group of motivated and curious young women who will draw from its deep well of opportunity and contribute to its stimulating community.

BARNARD'S HISTORY

Barnard College was among the pioneers in the late 19th-century crusade to make higher education available to young women.

The College grew out of the idea, first proposed by Columbia University's tenth president, Frederick A.P. Barnard, that women have an opportunity for higher education at Columbia. Initially ignored, the idea led to the creation of a “Collegiate Course for Women.” Although highly qualified women were authorized to follow a prescribed course of study leading ultimately to Columbia University degrees, no provision was made for where and how they were to pursue their studies. It was six years before Columbia's trustees agreed to the establishment of an affiliated college for women. A provisional charter was secured and Barnard College was named in honor of its most persistent advocate.

In October 1889, the first Barnard class met in a rented brownstone house at 343 Madison Avenue. Fourteen students enrolled in the School of Arts and twenty-two “specials,” lacking the entrance requirements in Greek, enrolled in science. There was a faculty of six.

Nine years later Barnard moved to its present site on Morningside Heights. In 1900 Barnard was included in the educational system of Columbia University with provisions unique among women's colleges: it was governed by its own Trustees, Faculty, and Dean, and was responsible for its own endowment and facilities, while sharing instruction, the library, and the degree of the University.

BARNARD TODAY

From the original 14 students, enrollment has grown to 2,200, with over 28,000 Barnard students awarded degrees since 1893. Barnard's faculty of 250 men and women are teacher-scholars whose paramount concern is the education of undergraduate students, and whose professional achievements bring added vitality to the classroom.

Barnard's liberal arts education is broad in scope and demanding. The curriculum includes a series of general education requirements—a program of courses the Faculty believes provides a stimulating and thorough education, while remaining flexible and varied enough to suit a student's own interests, strengths, and talents. Classes vary in size. Those in which student participation is important are small. There are opportunities for independent study and students are often invited to work on research projects with faculty members.

In 1988 Barnard College and Columbia University amended and extended the long-standing agreement for cooperation between the institutions. Barnard stands as an independent college for women with its own curriculum, faculty, admissions standards, graduation requirements, trustees, endowment, and physical plant. At the same time, Barnard and Columbia share resources, thereby giving students open access to the courses, facilities, and libraries of both schools. Barnard and Columbia students also share in a variety of extracurricular activities and social lives.

From its inception, Barnard has been committed to advancing the academic, personal, and professional success of women. Students benefit from an atmosphere in which over half of the tenured faculty are women, and women are well represented in the administration. The College is led by Judith R. Shapiro, anthropologist and former provost of Bryn Mawr. At Barnard, women are given the opportunities and the freedom to lead both in and out of the classroom, and to develop the skills that will equip them to lead throughout their lives.

Barnard's unique ties to several of Columbia's graduate schools, and to premier New York City institutions, including the Juilliard School, the Manhattan School of Music, the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, and Teachers College, give students an unusual range of educational options. Academic organizations within and beyond the University also offer vital opportunities for research, study, studio experience, internships, and community service.

Barnard has a high student retention rate, an indication of student satisfaction with college experience. Barnard students also enjoy leaves for study, travel, and internships. Every year Barnard admits about 100 transfer students who come to take advantage of the educational opportunities available to Barnard women.

Every year the Office of Career Development collects and summarizes information about post-baccalaureate study and employment. In the first year after graduation, almost one-third of Barnard graduates enter full-time graduate or professional schools, with the largest proportions opting to study medicine, law, or business. The rest obtain employment in business and industry, the arts, communications, teaching, social services, and many other fields.

ACCREDITATION

Barnard College is accredited by the Commission on Higher Education of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools, 3624 Market Street, Philadelphia, PA 19104, 215-662-5606. The Commission on Higher Education is an institutional accrediting agency recognized by the U.S. Secretary of Education and the Commission on Recognition of Postsecondary Accreditation.

THE CAMPUS

The Barnard campus occupies four acres of urban property along Broadway between 116th and 120th Streets. At the southern end of the campus, four residence buildings, including the College's newest building, Sulzberger Hall, form an enclosed quadrangle.

Barnard Hall is just north of the "Quad" and contains seminar rooms, classrooms, and faculty offices, as well as a gym, a swimming pool, and dance studios. The Sulzberger Parlor on the third floor is used for meetings and small social events.

Adele Lehman Hall contains the Wollman Library and two floors of faculty offices and classrooms. The library includes the reserve room and the Lehman Computer Center on the first floor; the reference area, periodicals, microforms, and open book stacks on the second floor; and on the third floor, audiovisual facilities and more open stacks. Computer facilities for the Economics and Political Science departments are also located in Lehman. The building overlooks a lawn surrounded by trees and shrubs.

Helen Goodhart Altschul Hall and the Millicent McIntosh Center face each other across an open plaza. The 14 stories of Altschul Hall are devoted primarily to the sciences and mathematics. Herbert H. Lehman Auditorium is on the first floor. The headquarters for student activities, a snack bar, and a lounge are located in the McIntosh Center, as well as student mailboxes, music practice rooms, a bowling alley, and the Jean T. Palmer Room for conferences.

Milbank Hall occupies the northern end of the campus and houses administrative and faculty offices, classrooms, a greenhouse, and the Minor Latham Playhouse, a small, well-equipped modern theatre. The language departments maintain social and reading rooms in Milbank Hall.

In the immediate neighborhood, Barnard maintains additional residence halls, including Plimpton Hall and Elliott Hall, and 600, 616, and 620 West 116th Street, all apartment buildings. The College also rents additional spaces at 601 West 110th Street.

Columbia University is directly across the street on Broadway.

WOLLMAN LIBRARY AND OTHER LIBRARY RESOURCES

The Wollman Library occupies the first three floors of Adele Lehman Hall; the Archives is located on the tunnel level. The Library's collection of more than 170,000 volumes contains books and periodicals intended to serve the curricular needs of the undergraduate students at Barnard. The Library's Media collection includes over 1,500 instructional videocassettes as well as audio materials and musical scores. In addition, the Library provides access to a variety of indexes and texts in electronic format. Reserve materials required for course reading are located on the first floor.

Special collections in the Library include the Barnard Archives, a historical collection of official and student publications, documents, letters, and photographs from Barnard's founding in 1889 to the present; an Alumnae Collection of selected works by former Barnard students; the personal library of Nobel Prize-winning Chilean poet Gabriela Mistral; the Overbury Collection of 3,300 books and manuscripts by and about American women authors, and a small rare book collection. The Library has an especially strong collection in women's studies which is supplemented by the resource collection of the Barnard Center for Research on Women. A separate Chemistry Reading Room is located in Altschul Hall.

During the academic year the Library is open seven days a week, providing a full range of services. The Reference Department offers an ongoing instructional program, including workshops, in-class lectures, and individual consultations designed to help each student develop efficient library and research skills.

In addition to the standard print research materials, the Library provides access to many electronic information sources. CLIO is a computerized catalog containing the holdings of the entire Columbia University Library system, including Barnard, from 1981 to the present, with earlier materials being added on an ongoing basis. Students can also perform on-line searches of a wide variety of periodical indexes as well as of NEXIS, the comprehensive full-text on-line news and legal database. Among the Library's other electronic resources are: Video Encyclopedia of the 20th Century, a laserdisc collection of historic news-reel footage dating from 1893-1988; electronic texts such as the complete works of Shakespeare, the Bible, and the Constitution; hypertext programs such as Culture 2.0, Darwin on Disk, Poesia Hispanamericana; and more.

Barnard students also have access to all Columbia University libraries, with more than 6 million books, 3.5 million microforms, over 58,000 serials and periodicals, and a variety of CD-ROMs, as well as to the libraries of Teachers College and Union Theological Seminary. In addition, students may use the many libraries and collections in the metropolitan area, either through public access or special referral.

INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY SERVICES

The Office of Information Technology Services provides computing resources to all Barnard students. We maintain the Barnard computer network and operate three student computer centers. The main center, located at 112 Lehman Hall, houses PC's, Macintoshes, and laser printers. Student consultants are available in the Lehman center to assist students with any questions or problems they may have. Additional facilities are located in Sulzberger and Brooks' residence halls. All computers in the labs connect to CLIO (on-line library information) and the Internet.

THE BARNARD CENTER FOR RESEARCH ON WOMEN

The Barnard Center for Research on Women, located in 101 Barnard Hall, was founded in 1971 to deepen Barnard's longtime commitment to women's equality and to express its enthusiasm for the new women's movement. The aim of the Center, articulated by its founding charter, is "to assure that women can live and work in dignity, autonomy, and equality."

Today, the Center continues to pursue that goal in many ways: by promoting inquiry and advancing knowledge about women; by helping to keep women's issues at the intellectual forefront of college life; by seeking to increase ties among diverse groups of women; and by reaching out to students, faculty, administrators alumnae, and women and men in the community outside of Barnard's gates.

The Center sponsors a wide range of programs, conferences, lectures and seminars. Our series Speaking of Women each week brings scholars, and activists to the Center for multifaceted discussions on women's issues. The annual Helen Reid Lectureship honors distinguished women in public life and the arts who have shown a significant commitment to improving the lives of all women. The Scholar and the Feminist Conference joins activists, scholars, and interested members of the public in a day-long exploration of significant questions in women's lives.

The Center's Resource Collection and reading room are open to members of the Barnard community and the general public. The Resource Collection contains thousands of books concerning women and gender, and subscribes to over one hundred and twenty feminist periodicals. Collections of published articles, unpublished articles, newspaper clippings, special newsletters and reports, information on local, national, and international women's organizations, and information about internships round out the collection. Students regularly use the Center as a meeting and study place, as do faculty and staff.

STUDENT LIFE

Barnard students soon discover that their classmates are among the principal resources of their undergraduate years. Cosmopolitan in nature, the student population includes residents of nearly every state and some 50 foreign countries as well as those who live within commuting distance. Diversity is one of the few generalizations that can be made safely about Barnard students; a mingling of economic, regional, ethnic, and cultural groups is evident in campus life. Nine out of 10 students live in college housing and participate in the educational programs, cultural events, and social activities of their residence halls.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT AND CAMPUS ORGANIZATIONS

Student participation in the governance of the College and in shaping student life on campus is a time-honored tradition at Barnard. College committees, on which students, faculty, and administrators serve, recommend policy and procedural changes in such areas as curriculum, housing, and college activities. Students are the majority members on Honor Board and Judicial Council. Two students serve as representatives to the Board of Trustees.

All Barnard students are members of the Student Government Association, which elects a representative government and sponsors extracurricular activities and special events reflecting the range of cultural, political, pre-professional, and academic interests of the student body. These groups, more than 80 in all, include theatre and vocal music groups, ethnic organizations, language clubs, community service groups, and yearbook and literary magazine staffs. The student newspaper, Barnard Bulletin, is published weekly. Students with a variety of talents collaborate to produce Winter and Spring Festivals featuring concerts, theatre and dance performances, art exhibitions, and social events.

Student activities emanate from McIntosh Student Center, which houses the offices of College Activities, Student Life, the Student Government Association, and other clubs and organizations. The Center also includes the student mailroom, a snack bar, the commuter lounge, music practice rooms, darkroom, computer publications room, pottery studio, bowling alley, radio station, and the student store. The McIntosh Ticket Booth offers students the opportunity to attend professional dance, theatre, opera, and sports in New York at reasonable prices. Students in many academic disciplines supplement course work with department-sponsored programs, lectures, and performances during the school year.

In the residence halls, Student Hall Councils elected by the residents, plan social events and establish certain policies and procedures for use of public spaces and rules of conduct for residents, other members of the community, and guests.

Cooperation among Barnard and Columbia groups is common. Many activities such as the University's chorus and its orchestra, its radio station, and a community service program enlist members from both campuses. Religious organizations and activities with headquarters on the Columbia University campus at Earl Hall encompass nearly every faith and are open to all Barnard students. Urban New York, a joint Barnard-Columbia program, offers unusual opportunities for students, faculty, and staff to experience together the cultural, political, and social life of the city.

SPORTS AND ATHLETICS

The Columbia University/Barnard College Athletic Consortium (Division I of the NCAA) sponsors 11 women's varsity teams, including Archery, Basketball, Crew, Cross Country, Fencing, Soccer, Swimming and Diving, Tennis, Indoor and Outdoor Track and Field, and Volleyball. The Athletic Consortium is just one of three in the nation and the only one on a Division I level. Women students at Barnard College along with women enrolled at the undergraduate divisions of Columbia University have the opportunity to compete on all university-wide teams. Scheduled competition includes schools in the Ivy League, the Seven Sisters, the metropolitan area, and the eastern region. Individuals and teams have the opportunity to advance to state, regional, and national competition.

For students interested in less competitive programs, the Physical Education Department offers an extensive program of intramurals, recreation, and club sports. The program features basketball, indoor soccer, volleyball, open gym time, recreational swimming, sports clubs, open weight room hours, and special events.

Barnard facilities include a swimming pool, gymnasium, running track, fencing and dance studios in Barnard Hall, and tennis courts just one block away in Riverside Park. Barnard students have access to all recreational and athletic facilities of the University as well. The Dodge Fitness Center includes the Levien Gymnasium, with a seating capacity of 3,499; the eight-lane Uris Swimming Center; 17 squash and handball courts; a well-equipped training room; and locker rooms and sauna. Women's intercollegiate and club teams also use outdoor facilities at Baker Field, a 26-acre complex at the northern tip of Manhattan that includes a new 20,000-seat stadium with an eight-lane, all-weather NCAA-regulation running track and practice fields. There are seven composition tennis courts and a modern tennis clubhouse, facilities for crew, and a spacious field house.

STUDENT CONDUCT

The Honor Code, instituted at Barnard in 1912, governs all aspects of academic life and is enforced by an Honor Board that has a membership of students and faculty members, advised by the Dean of Studies. The Judicial Council of undergraduates, faculty, and administrators recommends disciplinary action for non-academic offenses and acts on appeals of academic disciplinary sanctions determined by the Honor Board. A more complete explanation of the system may be found in the College Calendar and Student Handbook.

Each student who registers at Barnard agrees to maintain the Honor Code, which states:

We, the students of Barnard College, resolve to uphold the honor of the College by refraining from every form of dishonesty in our academic life. We consider it dishonest to ask for, give, or receive help in examinations or quizzes, or to use any papers or books not authorized by the instructor, or to present oral or written work that is not entirely our own, except in such a way as may be approved by the instructor. We consider it dishonest to remove without authorization, alter, or deface library and other academic materials. We pledge to do all that is in our power to create a spirit of honesty and honor for its own sake.

Library regulations and independent study courses are also governed by the code.

Policies and regulations concerning student conduct are recommended by student, faculty, and administrative committees to the appropriate administrators, the President, and the Board of Trustees. Hearing and appeal procedures are also outlined in the College Calendar and Student Handbook.

Enrollment in the College, award of academic credit, and conferral of the degree are subject to disciplinary powers vested by the Barnard Board of Trustees in appropriate officers of instruction and of administration and in College committees.

RESIDENTIAL LIFE

Barnard maintains a diversified residence program. Residence options include traditional residence halls, a variety of suite arrangements, and apartments in College-owned buildings on or adjacent to the campus. In a cooperative exchange with Columbia College and the School of Engineering and Applied Sciences, a number of coeducational arrangements are available. In addition, some students live in independent housing they secure in the campus vicinity. The College offers all incoming first-year students the opportunity to elect to live in campus housing. In all, about 90% of the student body live in College housing, the rest choosing to commute. Policies regarding eligibility for housing and manner of assignments are formulated by the College Housing Committee, with a membership of students, faculty, and administrators.

FACILITIES

The College provides in its residence halls supervision under the direction of the Dean of Student Life. This includes directors, graduate and undergraduate student assistants, 24-hour desk attendant coverage, and regular security guard patrols.

Brooks, Hewitt, Reid, and Sulzberger Halls, or the “Quad,” at the south end of the campus, are operated as a single complex with space for about 930 students. Sulzberger Hall, opened in 1988, completed this residential complex and provides community amenities as well, including computer rooms and a café. The first eight floors of Sulzberger Hall, Reid, Brooks, and Hewitt house first-year students, who are assigned to double, triple, and quad rooms. The Tower and all other single rooms are for upper-class students. There are also eight wheelchair-accessible modified rooms located in the Quad. The “Tower,” floors nine through 16 of Sulzberger Hall, houses upper-class students in suites with lounges and kitchenettes.

“616” West 116th Street, an apartment-style residence directly across the street from the Quad, provides housing for 207 students in suites of single and double rooms. Each suite has a kitchen and bath.

“600” and “620” West 116th Street are College-owned buildings comprising a majority of student apartments of one to five single or double rooms with kitchen and bath, and some apartments for community residents.

Elliott Hall, a renovated building adjacent to the west side of campus, houses 131 students. Rooms are on common corridors in suites with shared baths, kitchenettes, and lounges.

Plimpton Hall, an apartment-style residence hall on Amsterdam Avenue and West 121st Street, a short walk from the main campus, but adjacent to Columbia and Teachers College, provides housing for 280 students in suites of five single rooms. Each suite has a kitchen and bath.

601 West 110th Street has housing for at least 30 Barnard students (mostly juniors and seniors) who live in suites and studios. This option provides independent living with an active residential life program.

ELIGIBILITY

Eligibility criteria have been established in order to assign available space on an equitable basis. These regulations may be changed as needed at the discretion of the College, but insofar as possible, the following criteria will determine eligibility:

1. A student must be registered for a full academic program. Exceptions may be made upon review of appeals submitted to the Dean of Studies and the Dean of Student Life.
2. A student receives “Resident” classification if the principal residence of her parent or legal guardian is in the geographic area classified by the College as beyond commuting distance.
3. A “Commuter” is a student whose permanent residence is within the geographic area classified by the College as within commuting distance. Commuters are eligible for campus housing when they enter as first-year students. Rooms are reserved for commuters for occasional overnight accommodation. Per diem fees are charged for these rooms.

ASSIGNMENTS

Returning upper-class resident students are assigned rooms in College residences on the basis of a lottery and room selection. Rules about eligibility for and priority in the room selection process are determined by the Housing Committee. Incoming first-year students, readmitted upper-class students, and transfer students are assigned rooms by the Housing Office.

REQUIREMENTS

The rules and regulations regarding housing deposits, payments and refunds, and the use and occupancy of rooms are in the “Terms and Conditions of Student Residence in Barnard College Housing,” which is given to students selecting College housing and which must be agreed to before they may accept an assignment.

BOARD

The College offers all students meal plans, which include points that may be used in the recently renovated Hewitt cafeteria, McIntosh snack bar, and Quad café. Meal plans (not points) may also be used at Columbia’s John Jay cafeteria for some meals. All first-year students and most residents of the Quad (Brooks, Hewitt, Reid, and Sulzberger Halls) are required to be on a meal plan for the full academic year.

MARRIED STUDENTS

Married students, as a rule, will not be allowed to remain in the College residences. They will be subject to financial obligations which pertain to any student who withdraws from the residence halls or from the College during the term.

FINANCIAL AID FOR ROOM AND BOARD

Commuter students do not normally receive financial aid for living and eating in College residences. Only resident students who choose to live in College housing may receive financial aid for room and board. Resident students who decide to live off-campus or commute from home receive reduced aid packages which reflect the costs of commuters.

ADMISSION

The Committee on Admissions selects young women of proven academic strength who exhibit the potential for further intellectual growth. In addition to their high school records, recommendations, and standardized test scores, the candidates' special abilities and interests are also given careful consideration. While admission is highly selective, no one criterion determines acceptance. Each applicant is considered in terms of her individual qualities of mind and spirit and her potential for successfully completing the course of study at Barnard.

Barnard seeks students from diverse educational and cultural backgrounds and from all geographic regions. However, no preconceived profile of an ideal student population limits the number of applicants accepted from any one group. The College admits students and administers its financial aid and loan programs, educational policies and programs, recreational programs, and other College programs and activities without regard to race, color, creed, national origin, sexual orientation, or disability.

FIRST-YEAR APPLICATION PROCEDURES

Students are admitted to the first-year class in September and, in limited numbers, in January. They must be at least 15 years of age.

Application for admission to the first-year class should be made by January 15 for entrance in September of the same year. Application forms may be obtained by writing to the Office of Admissions. Barnard accepts the Common Application in lieu of its own form and gives equal consideration to both. Students may obtain copies of the Common Application from their high schools.

A non-refundable fee of $45 must accompany each application. Checks or money orders must be in U.S. funds drawn on a U.S. bank and made payable to Barnard College. Students with great financial need should request a fee-waiver from their high school counselor and send it with the application.

SECONDARY SCHOOL PREPARATION

Each candidate for admission must offer a college preparatory program from an approved secondary school or an equivalent education representing a four-year course of study. Academic preparation for admission should be based on the requirements for the A.B., or liberal arts, degree. A recommended program would comprise four years of work in English; three years in mathematics; three or four years in a foreign language (ancient or modern); two years in science with laboratory; and one year in history. An introduction to a second foreign language is generally useful. The remainder of the program would include additional work in the aforementioned subjects with the possible addition of music and art. Applications varying from this pattern are considered without discrimination if the candidate's records indicate genuine intellectual ability and high motivation.

FIRST-YEAR ENTRANCE TESTS

Barnard requires all candidates to take the College Board's SAT I and three SAT II Subject Tests, one of which must be in writing or literature. The ACT can be substituted for the SAT I and SAT II Subject Tests. We recommend that students take these standardized tests by the fall of their senior year. As early as possible, candidates should write directly to the College Board, Box 592, Princeton, NJ 08450 or the American College Testing Program, Box 168, Iowa City, IA 52240 for the Bulletin of Information containing descriptions of the tests, directions for filing applications, the dates on which examinations are administered, and a list of examination centers. Dates vary from year to year and applications to take the test must be received by the CB and ACT well in advance of the tests. Students who require non-standard administration of the tests should consult with their guidance counselors for testing accommodations.

It is the student's responsibility to direct the College Board or American College Testing Program to send official test scores to the Office of Admissions. The CB code number for Barnard is 2038. The ACT code number for Barnard is 2718.

Another important part of the application is the submission of three recommendations, one from the high school counselor and two from academic teachers of the candidate's choice. These recommendations give the Committee on Admissions additional information about the candidate's interests, character, skills, and aptitude, and should be as complete as possible.

INTERVIEWS

Although not required, an interview is recommended. For students who are able to visit the campus, interviews and tours can be arranged by writing or calling the Office of Admissions. Appointments are scheduled Monday through Friday from 9:30 A.M. to 12:00 P.M. and from 1:00 to 4:00 P.M., and on selected Saturday mornings. Applicants who are unable to visit the College may request an interview with a local Barnard Alumnae Admissions Representative (BAAR) or a telephone interview with a Barnard Student Admissions Representative (BSAR) by returning the Interview Request Card that is included with the application.

EARLY DECISION

Well-qualified high school seniors who have selected Barnard as their first-choice college may apply under one of two Early Decision Plans (EDPs). To be considered under Early Decision One, a candidate should submit her application and other required credentials (listed above under first-year application procedures) to the Office of Admissions by November 15. She will be notified of the Committee's decision no later than December 15. To be considered under Early Decision Two, a candidate should submit a completed application by December 15 for notification of the Committee's decision no later than January 15. Under either plan, a student may initiate regular applications to other colleges; she must, however, withdraw all other applications upon admission to Barnard. Notification of financial aid for those candidates who have demonstrated financial need will follow the admissions decision. To reserve a place in the first-year class, an Early Decision student must submit a non-refundable enrollment deposit; this deposit is applied toward tuition and fees for the first year.

The same criteria are used in the evaluation of applicants under both Early Decision Plans. The Committee on Admissions may choose to postpone a decision on an EDP application until the spring. In that event, the student is asked to submit a record of schoolwork from the first half of the senior year. Candidates admitted under the Early Decision Plan are obligated to attend Barnard and will not be allowed to defer their admission.

CENTENNIAL SCHOLARS PROGRAM

The Centennial Scholars Program offers a limited number of intellectually independent students an early opportunity to engage in challenging projects tailored to their individual interests. Centennial Scholars work with mentors, chosen in consultation with the Program directors, on the development, execution, and presentation of these projects.

The Program is limited to 15 students in any single class, approximately 8 to 10 to be chosen at the time of their admission with additional selections to be made in the following two terms. Admission of a first-year student to the Program is based on the Centennial Scholars Committee's review of her Barnard application, including her secondary school record, recommendations from her counselors and teachers, her personal statement, standardized test scores, and evidence of advanced preparation. Consideration of an enrolled first-year or sophomore requires recommendations of faculty members.

For further information about the Centennial Scholars Program, see page 39.

DEFERRED ENROLLMENT

An admitted first-year or transfer student who wishes to defer enrollment in Barnard for one year must obtain permission by writing to the Dean of Admissions explaining the reasons for the deferral request. Such a request is normally granted for purposes of work, travel, or pursuit of a special interest. Students admitted under the Early Decision Plan cannot defer their admission.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS

Barnard welcomes applications from international students. These students are expected to follow the same application procedure and present the same credentials as other candidates.

Knowledge of the English language is essential for admission. Those students whose native language is not English are required to take the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL). Information about registration for the test is obtained by writing the TOEFL Program, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey 08540. After enrolling at Barnard, international students receive assistance with academic placement from the International Student Adviser in the Office of the Dean of Studies.

TRANSFER STUDENTS

Barnard welcomes transfer students in the sophomore and junior classes of each year. Applications for admission in September will be reviewed according to the following schedule:

Deadline	Notification
March 1	April 15
April 1	May 15
May 1	June 15

Each candidate must submit an application and the following credentials: the secondary school record, the results of the SAT or ACT, and, if appropriate, the TOEFL, the official transcript of all college work, and a copy of the college catalogue in which the courses taken are clearly marked. Three recommendations are also required: one each from the high school counselor, a college faculty member, and a college dean or adviser.

A strong record at an accredited college, university, or equivalent institution is required. In some cases, advanced credit cannot be assigned until a student has had an opportunity to establish a satisfactory record at Barnard, but in general, credit is given for courses which are similar in content and depth to Barnard courses.

After acceptance, academic and general guidance is provided by the Advisers to Transfer Students in the Office of the Dean of Studies. For information on financial aid, students should consult page 23.

VISITING STUDENTS

Undergraduate students who are degree candidates at other colleges may apply for admission as visiting students for one or two semesters. In addition to the traditional visiting student program offered in the Fall semester, Barnard offers a unique program during the Spring semester. Students participating in the “Spring in New York” program combine the opportunity to study at Barnard with a guided internship program in their chosen field. Applicants to the Fall or Spring program must present a satisfactory college record and a letter of approval from the dean or major adviser from the degree-granting institution.

READMISSION (see pg. 50 Withdrawal and Readmission)

RESUMED EDUCATION PROGRAM

Former Barnard students who wish to return to the College after an absence of five years or more to complete the A.B. degree or for further study in new areas of interest after graduation may obtain applications from Dean Aaron Schneider in the Office of the Dean of Studies.

ADMISSION WITH ADVANCED PLACEMENT

Credit for advanced work completed in secondary school is determined on the basis of Advanced Placement (AP) scores and by the policy of the Barnard department concerned. Departmental policies are outlined below. As much as a year of degree credit (normally 30 points) may be granted.

Department	AP Score	Credit	Requirement Status
Art History	4 or 5	3 pts.	Exemption from ARH BC 1001
Biological Sciences	4 or 5	3 pts.	(4.5 pts. with review of lab notes) Exemption from BIO BC 1001
Chemistry	4 or 5	3 pts.	Exemption from Quantitative Reasoning (5 pts. with review of lab notes) and exemption from CHE BC 1601
Computer Science	4 or 5	3 pts.	Exemption from CSC W 1003
Economics	4 or 5	3 pts.	Exemption from either ECO BC 1001 or 1002
English	4 or 5	3 pts.	Exemption from ENG BC 1201
Foreign languages	5	6 pts.	Exemption
	4	3 pts.	Exemption
History	5	6 pts.
	4	3 pts.
Mathematics
Calculus AB	4	3 pts.	Exemption from Quantitative Reasoning and placement in IIA. If student takes and passes the placement test for IIS, she will receive 4 pts. of AP credit and may continue in IIS.
Calculus AB	5	4 pts.	Exemption from Quantitative Reasoning and placement in IIS.
Calculus BC	4 or 5	4 pts.	Exemption from Quantitative Reasoning and placement in IIS.

ADMISSION

Music	4 or 5	3 pts.
Physics	4 or 5	3 pts.	Exemption from Quantitative Reasoning (4 pts. with review of lab notes) and one term of two-term physics sequence.
Poli. Sci. (U.S. only)	4 or 5	3 pts.	No credit toward the major.
Psychology	4 or 5	3 pts.	Exemption from PSY BC 1001.

No credit will be granted for a college course equivalent to the AP course for which AP credit has been awarded.

OTHER DEGREE CREDIT

Students who have satisfactorily completed college courses before entering Barnard as first-year students may apply for a maximum of 15 points of degree credit. The courses must be intended primarily for college students and taught at the college by members of its faculty. With the exception of the aforementioned Advanced Placement courses overseen by the College Board, courses taught in a high school, either by specially trained high school teachers or by college instructors, will not be credited toward the Barnard degree.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

The costs of education at Barnard are met by tuition, income from endowment, current gifts from alumnae and other friends of the College, and grants from foundations, corporations, and government agencies. The College makes every effort to limit charges to students but must reserve the right to set tuition and fees at the level necessary for the maintenance of a high quality of instruction.

SCHEDULE OF ANNUAL TUITION AND FEES

The following tuition and fees are required from all students for the Academic Year 1996-97 and are subject to change without prior notice.

PAYMENT OF CHARGES AND FEES

All charges and fees (unless otherwise noted) are billed on a semester basis. The Autumn term tuition is due August 1. The Spring term tuition is due December 2. Payments received after these dates are subject to a late processing fee of $75. Registration for either semester will not be complete until all College costs have been paid. In addition, failure to complete registration and program filing on time imposes progressive late fees. Occupancy of an assigned dormitory room will not be permitted until charges have been paid in full as required. Students admitted after August 1 or December 2, respectively, must pay the balance due by the first day of registration.

Financial aid grants and any loans (less loan origination fees imposed by your lender) may be deducted from the semester charges before computation is made of the balance due.

Privileges of the College, including issuing of transcripts and diplomas, and administration of examinations, are not available to any student who is delinquent in the payment of her College bills. When bills are not paid in full by their due date or satisfactory arrangements for their payments have not been made with the Bursar, the student will not be allowed to register and may be required to withdraw from the College.

Delinquent accounts are referred to a collection agency. In addition to any outstanding tuition and fees, students are responsible for the costs of collection including interest, penalties, collection costs, and attorney fees. All charges and fees are subject to change at any time at the discretion of the Board of Trustees.

Checks or money orders in payment of tuition and fees must be in U.S. funds at a U.S. bank payable to Barnard College and should be made out for the exact amount of the payment due. A fee will be assessed for checks returned unpaid.

DEPOSITS

To obtain a place on the College roster for the ensuing academic year, each student who is currently enrolled must pay a non-refundable tuition deposit of $200 on or before May 6. An applicant for admission must pay a $400 non-refundable deposit upon acceptance of the offer of admission to Barnard College.

DEFERRED PAYMENT

For students and parents desiring to pay education costs in monthly payments, a choice of Barnard and outside payment plans is available. Information may be obtained from the Bursar's Office.

ADJUSTMENT OF TUITION FOR CHANGING PROGRAM OF STUDY

If a student changes her program and the tuition called for is lower than the amount she has already paid, she will be credited the excess only if the change in her program is made by the last day of program filing in each term. If the new program calls for higher tuition, the student is responsible for paying the additional charges promptly.

CREDITS FOR WITHDRAWAL

If a student withdraws during the College year, both the tuition deposit and the housing deposit are subject to forfeit. Withdrawal credits will be calculated from the last day of attendance. However, charges will be assessed by the College for housing and dining services based on the official date of withdrawal from those contracts. The appropriate cancellation forms are available in the Housing and Bursar's Offices, respectively.

Tuition credit percentages (withdrawal during the week of the term):

1st week	90%
2nd week	80
3rd week	80
4th week	70
5th week	60
6th week	60
7th week	50
8th week	40
9th week	40
After the 9th week	0

Items not subject to the credit calculation include:

- Lab fees
- Related course fees
- Medical insurance
- Academic computer fees
- Orientation fees
- Late payment, program filing, registration, or deferred payment fees
- Returned check fees
- Dormitory use fines
- Finance charges
- Non-refundable deposits to ensure matriculation or housing space.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Students will not be eligible for a refund until all Title IV funds and other scholarships, as required, are reimbursed, and any outstanding balances with the College are cleared.

In the event of withdrawal from housing while still enrolled in the College, a student will forfeit 80 percent of housing charges during the first two weeks of classes. Thereafter, the entire amount for the semester will be forfeited.

SAFEKEEPING OF STUDENTS' FUNDS

Barnard College is not able to receive funds from students for safekeeping or to cash personal checks or traveler's checks. To cover immediate expenses, a student should have traveler's checks, which can be cashed at a local bank, or postal money orders, which the Columbia University Station of the U.S. Post Office will cash upon presentation of a validated ID card. Validated ID cards are issued after students register at the beginning of each term.

FINANCIAL AID

Insofar as possible, Barnard assists qualified students who demonstrate financial need. Barnard does not discriminate against applicants for financial aid on the basis of race, color, creed, national origin, or disability.

Financial aid from the College consists of grants, loans, and opportunities for part-time employment. In addition to providing financial aid from its own funds, i.e., gifts, endowment, and general income, Barnard participates in the following Federal programs: the Federal Pell Grant Program, the Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant Program, the National Science Scholars Program, the Federal Perkins Loan Program, the Federal Family Education Loan Program, and the Federal College Work Study Program. Barnard also participates in the New York State Higher Education Opportunity Program (HEOP). Federal and state funds are administered by the College in accordance with government regulations and the College's general policies relating to financial aid. To supplement the above-mentioned financial aid sources, students are urged to investigate state loan and scholarship/tuition assistance programs and college tuition financing plans. The Controller's Office has additional information and applications for payment plans and long-term financing plans.

Any student who thinks she will need financial aid in order to attend Barnard is encouraged to apply for aid. The decision of the Committee on Admissions to admit a student is not affected by the fact that a student has applied for or demonstrated need for financial aid.

A detailed explanation of current College policies and awarding practices may be found in the brochure, Barnard College Financial Aid Policies and Procedures, available from the Office of Financial Aid.

FINANCIAL AID FOR ROOM AND BOARD

Commuter students do not normally receive financial aid for living and eating in College residences. Only resident students who choose to live in College housing may receive financial aid for room and board. Resident students who decide to live off-campus or commute from home receive reduced aid packages which reflect the costs of commuters.

ACADEMIC ADVISING

Academic advising is coordinated by the Office of the Dean of Studies (105 Milbank), which oversees the assignment of an adviser to each entering student. Although responsibility for the fulfillment of degree requirements (see page 32) rests with the student, her academic adviser is prepared to help her match her program of courses to her individual goals and priorities, to acquaint her with the full range of academic resources available at the College and the University, and to respond to her questions about the curriculum and academic policies and procedures. Also available for assistance are her Class Dean, the entire staff of the Dean of Studies, and the other members of the Barnard Faculty.

CLASS DEANS AND ADVISERS

Prior to her matriculation, each entering first-year student will receive a program form and the program guide from the First-Year Class Dean. The student selects courses for the Autumn term and returns the completed program form to the Class Dean for first-year students who, insofar as possible, schedules classes accordingly. Class schedules and registration materials are distributed when students arrive on campus in September. The Class Dean also assists the Dean of Studies in coordinating the academic advising of first-year students, participates in planning for first-year orientation with the help of a committee of upperclass students, and oversees other special programs for first-year students.

Assistance in planning courses of study is given to first-year students and sophomores by their academic advisers. Group meetings with advisers are scheduled during orientation; students are expected to schedule appointments for individual advising throughout the year. Group meetings with department chairs and other professors are arranged periodically to facilitate the selection of majors.

In the second semester of her sophomore year, each student chooses her major field in consultation with her Class Dean, her adviser, the academic department, and the Director of Career Services. During her junior and senior years, her major adviser guides advanced study for the undergraduate degree and is the principal source of information on preparation for graduate school. Also available to her for general academic guidance is her Class Dean.

While it is the student's responsibility to complete all degree requirements, the Registrar reviews each senior record and advises on graduation status. A senior handbook, sent to campus mailboxes at the beginning of the Autumn term, describes College policy on honors, application procedures for graduate or professional study, and deadlines for major examinations, GRE, LSAT, MCAT, and fellowship applications. The Senior Class Dean and the Coordinator for Commencement oversee the planning for commencement with the help of class officers and the Commencement Committee.

TRANSFER ADVISERS

Incoming transfer students are assisted by the transfer advisers in planning their courses of study and designating a major field. Group meetings are scheduled late in the summer and during orientation, and individual appointments may be arranged in the Office of the Dean of Studies throughout the academic year. Transfer students who enter with junior class standing are guided by both transfer and major advisers during their first Barnard semester.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT ADVISER

Advice on situations arising from international student status is available in the Office of the Dean of Studies from the deans designated to counsel international students.

ACADEMIC ADVISING

VISITING STUDENTS

Students who enroll for classes at Barnard as visitors who will graduate from another college must have approval from the degree-granting school for coursework to be completed at Barnard. Program filing and registration are guided by a designated dean in the Office of the Dean of Studies.

STUDY LEAVES

Students who wish to study for credit toward the Barnard degree at another accredited college, whether it be abroad or in the United States, are to apply for approval from the appropriate dean in the Office of the Dean of Studies early in the semester before the period of enrollment at the other institution. Information and forms are available at 105 Milbank.

PRE-PROFESSIONAL ADVISING

Students who are interested in post-baccalaureate professional training may consult the appropriate pre-professional dean in the Office of the Dean of Studies for help with programming, selection of schools, and submission of application materials. A student who plans to enter one of the health professions should seek advice in her first or second college year in order to discuss requirements and obtain a handbook. Consultation with the pre-professional advisers in the junior year is recommended for any student interested in law, social work, journalism, or business. The pre-professional assistant maintains recommendation files and forwards materials required for applications. (See page 30.)

GRADUATE SCHOOL ADVISING

Students interested in advanced study in the liberal arts and sciences or the performing arts may consult faculty members in appropriate departments and the Senior Class Dean. A student who plans to apply to graduate school should, in her senior year, establish a file with the assistant for graduate school recommendations in the Office of the Dean of Studies.

STUDENT SERVICES

OFFICE OF CAREER DEVELOPMENT

The Office of Career Development helps students and alumnae explore, define, and implement career plans. To provide this service the Office has developed programs enabling Barnard women to gain work experience and to become informed about different career opportunities. Both students and alumnae are seen for individual career counseling, and panels and group workshops are given on careers and related concerns. The Career Development Internship Program provides semester and summer offerings useful for students to clarify their vocational interests through valuable and often professional-level experience. A newsletter informs students about career programs, workshops, internships, community service, and special opportunities.

To aid students and alumnae in exploring career areas, the Office maintains a Contact File, which lists alumnae who are available to discuss their fields; a library of vocational materials; and a collection of graduate school catalogues. Workshops on specific concerns, such as résumé writing and interviewing skills, are conducted when the College is in session. Students and alumnae may establish permanent recommendation files in the office for future employment.

The Office of Career Development, which is open twelve months a year, has contacts with many potential employers who post full- and part-time jobs. The Federal Work Study Program is also administered by this office. Students use part-time and temporary job listings for both on- and off-campus jobs. The Jobseekers Newsletter, which highlights full-time job opportunities, is issued every two weeks and is mailed to alumnae who subscribe. During the spring semester, seniors are interviewed on campus by corporate and large non-profit organizations offering entry-level professional opportunities through the Recruitment Program. An annual not-for-profit career fair held each spring connects students with many employers and internship sponsors in that sector.

The Barnard Babysitting Service, the Barnard Bartending Service, and the Barnard Student Store are student-run agencies supervised by the Office. They provide excellent managerial experience and create jobs for many students.

PROGRAM FOR STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

In 1978, Barnard established a program to provide services for students with disabilities which enhance their educational, pre-professional, and personal development. The Office for Disability Services (ODS) serves students with visual, mobility, and hearing impairments and students with hidden disabilities such as chronic medical conditions, learning disabilities, and psychiatric/emotional disabilities. The ODS works with other administrators and members of the faculty to assist students with disabilities in participating in college activities, securing financial aid, scheduling classes and examinations, and planning careers. Mobility aides, readers, tutors, and note-takers are available on request. ODS publications include the Barnard College Policy on the Admission of Students with Disabilities and a services brochure, What ODS Can Do for You. The 504/ADA Access Committee works to reduce architectural, programmatic, and attitudinal barriers at the College. The Barnard LD Network offers outreach, peer support, and referral to students with learning disabilities; the BAID Network (Barnard Alumnae Involved with Disabilities) provides students with access to disabled alumnae in a broad range of careers.

The buildings on the contiguous campus interconnect and are wheelchair accessible. Maps of the campus showing special features and access routes are available at the Office for Disability Services.

STUDENT SERVICES

STUDENT HEALTH SERVICES

Student Health Services provides primary health care, short-term counseling, and gynecological services as well as specialist referrals for all registered Barnard students. They also support the Well-Woman Peer Education Program and other activities related to a variety of women's health and wellness issues. The medical staff consists of full-time and part-time physicians as well as nurses and nurse practitioners experienced in college health and women's health care practice. The Mental Health Service is staffed by psychiatrists, clinical psychologists, and clinical social workers. Advanced trainees in a number of clinical disciplines work at Barnard on a yearly basis. Entering students must submit medical history and physical forms, which become the basis of the medical chart.

Both the Health Services and the Mental Health Services are available to all Barnard students and are covered by the Comprehensive Fee. The Barnard Health Services close during college vacations and holidays, when Barnard students may use the Columbia University Health Services. A physician is on call nights and weekends when the College is in session and during winter and spring break for after-hours emergencies.

All Barnard students who have paid the Comprehensive Fee are covered for the Basic Accident and Sickness Plan benefits of the Barnard Student Insurance Plan. The insurance plan provides benefits toward the cost of the following services when ordered by a Barnard staff physician:

1) hospitalization for illness or accident; 2) laboratory tests and X-rays; 3) consultations. The following services are not covered: 1) home visits; 2) consultations when the College is not in session; 3) dental care (except for treatment of injury to sound natural teeth); 4) on-going treatment by outside physicians or other practitioners.

For additional information, students are encouraged to consult Barnard Health Service, A Student Guide, and the brochure describing the Barnard Student Insurance Plan, which are available at the Student Health Services.

RESIDENT ASSISTANTS

As part of the student support network, upper-class students in each residence hall are designated as Resident Assistants to be a campus resource for resident students, to provide liaison with and referrals to other services, and to aid in residential programming.

SERVICES FOR COMMUTERS

The Office of Student Life provides information about off-campus housing, transportation, carpooling, parking, and temporary on-campus accommodations, and supports educational, cultural, and social programs designed to enrich commuter life. The Skip-Stop Express is the student-run organization sponsoring events and support services for commuters. It has an office in McIntosh Student Center across from the Commuter Lounge.

RECOMMENDATIONS

Students may establish recommendation files for employment in the Office of Career Development, for graduate study with the recommendations secretary in the Office of the Dean of Studies, and for professional schools with the pre-professional secretary in the Office of the Dean of Studies. For procedures and policy, the appropriate office should be consulted.

STUDENT RECORDS AND INFORMATION

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 (the Buckley Amendment) stipulates that students may have access to their official files and that no transcripts may be issued without their written request. A further explanation may be found in the College Calendar and Student Handbook.

Also in accordance with the Buckley Amendment, Barnard has the right to make public, at its discretion and without prior authorization from the student, the following information: name, class, home or college address and telephone number; major field; date and place of birth; dates of attendance at Barnard; degrees; honors and awards received; and previous school most recently attended. The law also gives students the right to place limitations on the release of this information. A student who wishes to do so must file a special form with the Registrar, 107 Milbank, each year by September 15. In practice, the College does not indiscriminately release information about individual students.

THE CURRICULUM

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE A.B. DEGREE

Students are recommended by the Faculty of Barnard College to the Trustees of Columbia University for the degree of Bachelor of Arts, the only degree awarded to Barnard students. The degree requires the satisfactory completion of 120 points of academic work and two terms of physical education. All students must complete a major and must fulfill general education requirements.

MAJOR REQUIREMENTS

All students must complete the requirements of an approved major. The number of required courses for the major depends on the major chosen (see individual department and program curriculum statements), but a minimum of six semester courses must be completed while the student is enrolled at Barnard. A course graded D will not satisfy a major requirement.

The student registers her chosen major with the Office of the Registrar and with her major department or program, normally in the second term of her sophomore year. The major may be chosen from any listed in the Barnard Catalogue. A student may major in two fields by satisfying all the major requirements prescribed by each department, with no overlapping courses. If either of the fields qualifies for the distribution requirement, two of the courses in one field may count toward that requirement. A combined or special major may be designed in consultation with the chairs of the appropriate departments and with the approval of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing. Committee approval is not needed for the double major that comprises all the course requirements of two majors with one integrating senior project, but the form designated for such a double major must be filed with the Registrar and the two departments.

GENERAL EDUCATION REQUIREMENTS

Barnard's general education program is designed to provide direction and continuity while giving students opportunities to shape their own programs of study. Barnard offers a rigorous but flexibly structured set of requirements which afford students a range of choice in almost every instance. The requirements follow.

FIRST-YEAR SEMINAR

First-year students are required to take this one-semester course, which provides special opportunities to develop some of the intellectual skills and styles which will be central to subsequent academic work. The enhancement of writing and communication skills is emphasized, as is the group-discussion mode of intellectual inquiry and discourse. Seminars adopt major themes or issues, and participants read and discuss leading philosophical, historical, literary, or scientific statements of them. A full list of First-Year Seminars, with descriptions and the names of instructors, begins on page 150. Transfers are not required to take the First-Year Seminar.

FIRST-YEAR ENGLISH

First-year students must take the one-semester writing course ENG BC 1201 (First-Year English), designed to cultivate and develop prose writing and related tools of scholarship. Reading and writing assignments focus on major works of literature. This course may not be taken on a Pass/D/Fail basis. Some students may gain exemption from the course with an Advanced Placement (AP) test score of 4 or 5. International students are required to exhibit a degree of fluency before enrolling in this course. Transfers are not required to take this course but must have earned exemption or completed an equivalent course before graduation.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

Students must achieve basic competence in one ancient or modern foreign language. The requirement is fulfilled by completion of the fourth sequential semester or a more advanced course for which the fourth semester is prerequisite. (In Latin, both Latin V 1201 and V 1202 or their equivalents must be completed.) The faculty recommends that in general (i) the intermediate year be completed at Barnard; (ii) elementary courses be completed in the first year; (iii) courses be taken consecutively without interruption; and (iv) proficiency be established by the end of the junior year. Reenrollment without credit is required for students whose work in any of the first three semesters is graded below C.

Exceptions:

1. Completion of Spanish BC 1208x for Spanish-speaking students (taken only with the instructor's permission) will qualify on recommendation of the instructor.
2. Enrolled students who complete the third or fourth semester of French outside the Barnard department must take a departmental examination to qualify for fulfillment.
3. Enrolled students who wish to qualify in German are advised to take German BC 1204 at Barnard, or they will otherwise be required to take the German Department's placement examination on completion of the other-college course.

Exemptions:

1. Re-centered CEEB SAT II score of 781 or higher; re-centered CEEB SAT II score of 700 or higher in Hebrew only.
2. AP score of 4 or 5.
3. Departmental examination.
4. Students with native English who study in a high school where the language of instruction is not English (e.g., French, for alumnae of the Lycée Français).
5. For international students for whom English was not the primary language of instruction in high school, satisfactory completion of English BC 1201 or one satisfactory year at Barnard.

Placement:

1. Re-centered CEEB SAT II score of 680-780, fourth semester; 570-679, third semester; 400-569, second semester; below 400, first semester, for German.
2. Re-centered CEEB SAT II score of 690-780, fourth semester; 570-689, third semester; 420-569, second semester; below 420, first semester, for French and Spanish.
3. For languages other than French, Spanish, and German, placement will be determined by departmentally administered examinations.
4. For transfer students: the course following the level of the last satisfactorily completed semester course; however, formal withdrawal and reenrollment in a more suitable course may be required for students who are judged by the department to be inappropriately placed and in need of additional preparation or review. In such a case, transfer credit for the previous course is rescinded to allow the student to receive credit for the Barnard/Columbia course of equivalent level.

THE CURRICULUM

5. By departmental examination, if there is no CEEB score or previous college transfer work.

Please note that previous standards are in effect for students who took the College Board examination prior to re-centering in 1995.

Credit:

1. Credit is given for courses satisfactorily completed in residence at Barnard or, in the case of a transfer, at her previous college.
2. No prior assurance of degree credit is given for summer or transfer work in foreign language courses. For work completed at other colleges, credit is granted with departmental approval, or by examination, or on completion of the next level at Barnard.
3. No credit is granted for work equivalent to a level already completed and credited.
4. Although credit for the first semester of an elementary language is not normally granted unless a more advanced course is completed, a student is granted one exception maximum to this rule on written request to the Registrar.

LABORATORY SCIENCE

Students must complete one year of science (two semesters), with laboratory, in the same field. Acceptable courses must meet for at least three hours of lecture and three hours of laboratory per week. The student must pass both the lecture and the laboratory portion of the course, and the College strongly suggests that the two be taken concurrently. The following courses meet these requirements:

Astronomy	AST V 1753-1754 or AST C 1403-1404, both with the lab AST C 1903-1904
Biology	BC 1001-1002, 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004
Chemistry	BC 1601 and BC 1602 BC 1601 and BC 3230 with BC 3328 C 1403-C 1404 with C 1500 and one additional laboratory course, e.g., BC 1702, BC 3328, BC 3338, or C3543.
Environmental Science	BC 1001, BC 1002, GEY V 1001, 1011-1012, GEY S 1021D- 1022Q (CU Summer)
Physics	BC 1206-1208, F, V, or W 1201-1202, C 1021-1022, V 1301-1302, V 1305-1306, C1001, 1002 with BC 1091-1092
Psychology	BC 1105, BC 1108, BC 1117, BC 1123, BC 1127, BC 1130, BC 1136, BC 1156 (any two from different groups: see Major Requirements)

Students wishing to substitute a course sequence not given above, transfer students, and those with Advanced Placement should consult with the appropriate department chair for guidance with respect to fulfilling this requirement.

QUANTITATIVE REASONING

All entering students must take the Basic Math Skills test during their first week of matriculation. Students with scores lower than 11 out of 20 must take QUR BC 1001, Basic Math Skills, during their first year at Barnard before registering for any of the courses listed below that satisfy the Quantitative Reasoning Requirement. Basic Math Skills topics are arithmetic (including fractions, decimals, and percentages), exponents and logarithms, equations and graphs, and word problems.

In order to graduate, students must pass one of the courses listed below in which the major topics are mathematics, methods of empirical analysis using quantitative data, or the use of symbolic manipulation to solve problems. These courses can count both toward a major or distribution requirement and for the Quantitative Reasoning Requirement.

Students may fulfill the Quantitative Reasoning Requirement by securing Advanced Placement or transfer credit for a course listed below or for an equivalent course. A student who fulfills the Laboratory Science Requirement in Chemistry, Physics, or Astronomy simultaneously satisfies the Quantitative Reasoning Requirement.

Astronomy	V 1753, V1754, C 1403-1404
Biology	BC 3386
Chemistry	BC 1601, C 1403, C 1404
Computer Science	Any course carrying degree credit except W 1001 CU Summer S1021D, S1022Q
Economics	BC 2411
Environmental Science	BC 3015 and BC 3016 (Both courses must be taken.)
Mathematics	Any course carrying degree credit
Philosophy	V 3411, V 3415 (F 3410 does not fulfill the requirement.)
Physics	Any course carrying degree credit
Political Science	BC 3345
Psychology	BC 1101
Quantitative Reasoning	All courses carrying degree credit except BC 1001
Sociology	V 3212
Statistics	Any course carrying degree credit
Urban Affairs	UAF BC 3200 Methods and Case Studies

DISTRIBUTION

Note: It is possible to satisfy both Part A and Part B of the distribution requirement with the same courses, but all students must take two courses in the Humanities and two in the Social Sciences.

Part A:

Students must complete four one-semester courses outside the major, two in the Humanities and two in the Social Sciences. In each of these areas, only one of the two courses may be interdisciplinary.

The distribution requirement in the Humanities may be fulfilled by courses in Art History, Philosophy, Religion, Medieval and Renaissance Studies, any literature, the history or literature of music, the history of dance or theatre, or Humanities C 1001 or C 1002, and by designated courses in Asian and Middle Eastern Cultures or Women's Studies.

The distribution requirement in the Social Sciences may be fulfilled by courses in History, American Studies, Anthropology, Economics, Linguistics, Political Science, Sociology, or Contemporary Civilization C 1101 or C 1102, and by designated courses in Asian and Middle Eastern Cultures, Urban Affairs, or Women's Studies.

THE CURRICULUM

Part B (for first-year students entering in Autumn 1993 and all succeeding classes):

Students must complete four one-semester courses (transfers must complete three) chosen from the three categories listed below, with no more than two courses from any one category.

- I. Comparative Studies of Culture and Society
- II. Societies and Cultures of Asia, the Pacific, Africa, or the Middle East
- III. Societies and Cultures of Europe or the Americas

Courses taken for Distribution - Part B may also qualify to fulfill Distribution - Part A. Courses that qualify for the major or a minor may also qualify for Distribution - Part B.

Courses satisfying Part A are identified in this catalogue by the letter H (for Humanities) or S (for Social Sciences) on the last line of the course description. Courses satisfying Part B are identified by the Roman numeral I, II, or III (corresponding to one of the three categories listed above) on the last line of the course description. When a course satisfies both Part A and Part B, its description will be accompanied by both the letter H or S and the Roman numeral I, II, or III.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Students admitted as first-year students must complete two semesters of Physical Education at Barnard. One semester must be passed in the first year and the requirement must be successfully completed by the end of the sophomore year. Sophomore and junior transfers are required to complete one semester of Physical Education at Barnard.

Transfers are expected to complete their requirement by the end of junior year. Failure to complete the requirement by the specified deadlines will result in a failing grade. Physical Education courses are graded pass-fail based on attendance and participation. Studio Dance courses may be taken to fulfill the Physical Education requirement.

ELECTIVES

Apart from fulfilling general education requirements and major requirements, the student completes the remainder of the 120-point requirement with elective courses, either within or outside the major department, subject to the approval of the appropriate adviser.

No more than 18 points of studio, performing arts, or professional school courses (including film) may be credited toward the A.B. degree. Of these, a maximum of four arts studio courses may be credited. A student who takes more than two is required to validate each additional studio course with a course in art history. A maximum of six courses in instrumental instruction may be credited (except for Music majors and minors, who may take eight) and a student who takes more than two is required to validate each of the third and the fourth courses of music lessons with a course in music theory, history, or literature. See page 197.

One-point dance technique courses taken by non-dance majors for credit are also included in the existing 18-point maximum which may be credited toward the degree; a maximum of six courses in dance technique may be credited; a student who takes more than two one-point dance technique courses for credit is required to validate the third and fourth credit-bearing dance technique courses in each of the two semesters with a concurrent course offered by the Dance Department which does not contain a technique component.

Exceptions to this rule are allowed only for courses in the major field or for courses taken in fulfillment of requirements for double and joint degree programs with the professional schools of the University. A maximum of 24 points may be credited for studio or performance courses in the major field. A minimum of 90 points of traditional liberal arts courses is required for the student who majors in such a field; for all other majors, a minimum of 102 points of such courses is required.

LENGTH OF RESIDENCE

Students with no transfer credit are expected to be registered full-time (12 points minimum) for four years. Transfer students must complete at least 60 points and two years full-time in residence at Barnard to receive the degree (see below for additional information). Under certain conditions, it is possible for a senior to complete her work for the degree while registered in absentia, with the permission of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing.

REQUIREMENTS FOR TRANSFER STUDENTS

A student admitted to Barnard with fewer than 24 points of credit is considered a first-year student and is subject to all requirements for first-year students, including First-Year Seminar, two semesters of Physical Education, and four courses in Distribution-Part B. A student admitted with 24 credits or more is considered a transfer student. To receive the A.B. degree at Barnard, a transfer student must attend Barnard for at least four regular academic terms during which she must complete at least 60 points, including at least six courses in the major field (and three in the minor field, if a minor is elected). Additional major (and minor) courses, as well as general education requirements, may be satisfied by transfer courses. Exemption from the foreign language requirement may be attained on the basis of College Entrance Examination Board Achievement scores alone or by a combination of those scores and additional college work. Those who do not receive exemption must complete the normal language requirement (see page 33). Transfer students are eligible for general honors when both overall and Barnard averages meet the required academic standards.

TRANSFER CREDIT

Courses completed at other accredited colleges and universities which are similar in content and depth to Barnard courses may be submitted for transfer credit. Transfer courses are evaluated after a complete transcript is received in the Office of the Registrar. Students are asked to submit catalogues and course descriptions with their requests for transfer credit to the Registrar, who notifies them of the evaluation by mail.

Credit for approved work at another institution is applied to Barnard's 120-point graduation requirement with a maximum of 16 points per term. Credit cannot be granted for courses with grades lower than C minus. Acceptable transfer work does not usually include applied or professional courses or more than the equivalent of two Barnard studio courses. The first term of an elementary language course is not normally credited unless or until the second term or a more advanced course has been satisfactorily completed, but a student may request a single exception to this ruling.

Transfer students may apply for credit for previous summer courses under the regulations governing summer study (see page 41).

First-year students with a record of prior coursework taken as non-matriculants at an accredited college in the United States may request up to 15 points of transfer credit. Such work will be evaluated after the student has completed 12 points at Barnard. Grades for this coursework are included in the overall average.

CLASSIFICATION OF STUDENTS

Students are classified as follows:

Matriculated	Points completed
First year	fewer than 24
Sophomore	24-51
Junior	52-85
Senior	86 or more
Unclassified	transfer students who have not yet been assigned credit

Non-matriculated:

- Other college degree candidates (visiting students)
- Barnard alumnae auditing courses
- Barnard alumnae taking courses for credit
- Any other student who is not a degree candidate

A degree candidate (i.e., a student who is matriculated) is expected to be enrolled for at least 12 points each term and may not change her status to non-matriculated.

FILING OF DIPLOMA NAME CARDS

The Diploma Name Card, available in the Office of the Registrar, is the student's official notification to the Registrar that she expects to have completed all requirements for the degree and to receive the diploma on a particular graduation date. Degrees are granted in May, October, and February. The filing of the card sets in motion the processing of the student's academic records in preparation for graduation. It is the student's responsibility to file the Diploma Name Card before published deadlines (see College Calendar). Graduation ceremonies are held in February and May.

OTHER ACADEMIC OPPORTUNITIES

MINOR

The selection of a minor field of study is optional. A minor requires at least five courses (three of which must be qualifying Barnard or Columbia courses) that total a minimum of 15 points, and may be designated by any student having a major after completing a minimum of three courses in the minor field. Requirements depend on the minor chosen (see individual department curriculum statements); courses are selected in consultation with the department chair. Two of the courses taken for the minor may be used to fulfill the distribution requirement if the field selected qualifies for the requirement (see page 32). Courses for the major and minor may not overlap. To qualify for the minor, a course must be letter-graded A–C.

SENIOR SCHOLAR PROGRAM

The Barnard Senior Scholar Program allows a qualified student to undertake a single project for the entire senior year, or for one semester of the senior year (normally the second). The Program is intended for the student who is unusually well prepared in an academic discipline or in one of the performing arts. It offers the special advantages of concentration on one project, designation as Senior Scholar on the permanent transcript, and the amendment of some major requirements. Senior Scholars are allowed credit for no more than 30 points for the project. In the past, Barnard Senior Scholars have gained approval for a wide range of proposals.

A qualified student interested in the Senior Scholar Program should consult the Senior Class Dean in the Office of the Dean of Studies, who is coordinator of the program, in her junior year. Before the beginning of the senior year, the student should have completed all but the major requirements for the A.B. degree. Her written application for the Senior Scholar Program is submitted to the Committee on Honors for approval. The deadline for the application appears in the College Calendar.

CENTENNIAL SCHOLARS PROGRAM

The Centennial Scholars Program offers students of outstanding achievement and ability an opportunity to engage in challenging independent projects tailored to their individual interests. Supplementing the regular Barnard curriculum, the program enables Centennial Scholars to pursue individual objectives in specialized areas with the assistance of mentors chosen in consultation with the program directors.

Admission to the Centennial Scholars Program is based on evidence of intellectual creativity and advanced academic preparation. While many of the students in the Program are selected at the time of their admission to the College, the Program is also accessible to enrolled first-year students and sophomores who distinguish themselves during their first terms at the College.

The Program confers a maximum of 18 points of credit toward the degree. In the spring of the student's first year as a Centennial Scholar, she enrolls in CEN BC1889, "Working with Ideas," an interdisciplinary course designed to lay the foundation for the core of the Program, an extended apprenticeship with her mentor(s). Her project may extend over two or three semesters and may include a summer to accommodate travel or other particular needs. The Program culminates in the Centennial Scholars Symposium, which is devoted to the public presentation of the project in the term of its completion. Dinner lectures and outings to museums, artists' studios, and research laboratories and similar activities are additional features of the Program.

OTHER ACADEMIC OPPORTUNITIES

The Centennial Scholars Program is governed by a committee consisting of the following members:

Leslie Lessinger, Co-Director, Professor of Chemistry

Helene Foley, Co-Director, Professor of Classics

Dorothy Denburg, Dean of the College

Serge Gavronsky, Professor of French

Timothy Halpin-Healy, Associate Professor of Physics

Doris Davis, ex-officio, Dean of Admissions

Catherine Webster, ex-officio, First-Year Class Dean

WRITING FELLOWS PROGRAM

The Writing Fellows Program offers exceptional students with strong writing, reading, and communication skills an opportunity to become peer-tutors in writing. During their first semester in the program, students take a seminar and practicum in the teaching of writing (see page 138: The Writer's Process), usually in the Autumn term of their sophomore or junior year. As Writing Fellows, they go on to work in a number of different settings (e.g., The Writing Room, writing-intensive courses across the curriculum) with Barnard undergraduates at all levels and in all disciplines. Writing Fellows receive a stipend and are asked to make a commitment of three semesters to the program.

HIGHER EDUCATION OPPORTUNITY PROGRAM

The Higher Education Opportunity Program, a support service to meet the needs of New York State undergraduates from backgrounds that are disadvantaged economically and academically, provides counseling, tutoring, and financial assistance. During a summer program, all incoming HEOP students receive instruction in English, mathematics, research, and public-speaking skills. During the academic year, tutoring, workshops, and study groups are available in addition to academic and personal counseling.

PROGRAM PLANNING FOR STUDENTS INTERESTED IN HEALTH PROFESSIONS

The basic premedical and predental requirements are two semesters of introductory biology and one or two semesters of biology laboratory, all at the 2000 level or higher (BIO BC 2001, BC 2002, and laboratory BC 2003 and BC 2004); two semesters of general chemistry and one semester of laboratory (CHE BC 1601, BC 3232); two semesters of organic chemistry and one semester of organic laboratory (CHE BC 3230, BC 3231, BC 3328); two semesters of physics with accompanying laboratory (PHY V 1003-1004; V 1103-1104; BC 1206-1207); and two semesters of English. Highly recommended courses, required by some schools, are two terms of calculus or other college-level mathematics and one additional chemistry laboratory (CHE BC 3338 or BC 3340).

Students should become familiar with the most recent edition of Medical School Admissions Requirements, an annual publication of the Association of American Medical Colleges, and Barnard's own Handbook for Students Entering the Health Professions, copies of which are available in 105 Milbank. The latter deals with many of the health professions (nursing, optometry, podiatry, physical therapy, and public health) as well as medicine and dentistry.

Pursuing a major in the sciences is not necessary for premedical students, provided they include the aforementioned required courses in their programs. The science requirements should be completed in the year prior to the year of desired entry, at which time students are advised to take the Medical College Admissions Test, normally offered in April. The test is repeated in the early fall for those who wish to retake it or who, for compelling reasons, were unable to take it in the spring.

All students who are interested in the health professions should consult their advisers as early as possible and should start a file with the pre-professional assistant and consult the designated dean in the Office of the Dean of Studies by the junior year at the latest. Applications for the standardized tests, school catalogues, and other relevant materials are available in 105 Milbank.

PROGRAM PLANNING FOR LAW SCHOOL APPLICANTS

There are no specific course requirements for entry to law school, nor is there any specifically recommended major. Admission to law school is based largely on grade point average and Law School Admission Test scores, although other factors are taken into account. Students are encouraged to develop strong skills in writing and in speaking with precision and to take programs that require demanding critical analysis and effective study habits. Information about law schools and what makes a good lawyer can be found in the Official Guide to U.S. Law Schools, an annual publication of the Association of American Law Schools. Copies may be read in the Office of the Dean of Studies, 105 Milbank, which also maintains a library of current law school catalogues and other relevant information.

Students are encouraged to consult the designated dean in the junior year or earlier. The LSAT should be taken in June or October of the year prior to expected entry to law school; the June test is recommended because it allows for better planning. Applications for the LSAT and for the Law School Data Assembly Service (a required transcript analysis procedure) arrive in March each year and can be picked up in 105 Milbank any time thereafter.

PROGRAM PLANNING FOR STUDENTS INTERESTED IN JOURNALISM, SOCIAL WORK, AND BUSINESS

Curricular planning should be made with an eye to some of the specific requirements in each of these fields. Familiarity with professional school catalogues in these areas is recommended. Information and printed literature is available in the Office of the Dean of Studies and in the Office of Career Services.

CREDIT FOR SUMMER STUDY

Students are expected to complete the work for the degree in eight academic terms. The granting of course credit for summer courses taken at other accredited institutions (including Columbia) is treated as transfer credit and is subject to some additional regulations. The maximum number of summer points that can be applied toward the degree for course credit is 16, subject to the approval of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing. Although a student may not receive degree credit for summer courses exceeding this maximum, she may fulfill degree requirements with additional summer courses, subject to the approval of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing, and in some cases, subject to satisfactory performance on a Barnard placement examination. The full regulations on credit for summer study are available at the Office of the Registrar on the Application for Approval of Summer Session Courses. The student may learn in advance whether the courses she wishes to take in summer school meet the approval of the

OTHER ACADEMIC OPPORTUNITIES

Committee on Programs and Academic Standing by completing the form and submitting it to the Office of the Registrar well before the end of the Spring term. Although the application may also be retroactive, the student places herself at risk of being denied degree credit if she fails to receive prior written approval from the Committee. The student is advised to consult the application for the full regulations, some of which are listed below:

1. No more than eight points may be counted for one five- or six-week summer session.
2. To be eligible for credit, a course normally must meet for at least five weeks.
3. Grades for courses taken in summer school must be letter grades of C or higher; they are not included in the cumulative grade point average. These courses and grades will, however, be considered for admission to graduate or professional schools, which normally require the submission of an applicant's transcripts from all the colleges attended.

STUDY ABROAD

Several options for study abroad are available to academically qualified Barnard students. The Faculty has set the following guidelines for eligibility. By the time they plan to study abroad, students should:

- be competent in the language of instruction abroad, or, when the language of instruction is English, have some knowledge of the language of the host country;
- have completed all or nearly all of the basic requirements for the degree;
- have no outstanding Incompletes;
- have a good academic record;
- have worked out, in consultation with the major and study abroad advisers, a plan for the completion of all major and college requirements for graduation.

The educational interests of each applicant are of primary concern to the staff of the Dean of Studies in acting on a student's request to study abroad for degree credit. Interested students should begin the process of applying to study abroad by consulting the dean responsible for study abroad advising in the Office of the Dean of Studies during the first semester of the sophomore year. Students must obtain the approval of the study abroad adviser, the class dean, and the major adviser in order to receive the College's permission to study abroad for credit toward the Barnard degree.

Barnard offers opportunities for junior-year students to study in Great Britain at Oxford (St. Peter's and Somerville Colleges), Cambridge (Newnham College), The University of London (University College, London School of Economics, Queen Mary and Westfield College, and King's College), and the University of Warwick. Admission to these colleges is competitive.

Barnard students who wish to study for degree credit in Paris may apply to the Reid Hall program, which offers a varied and attractive curriculum in French language, literature, culture, art history, film studies, and women's studies. In addition to the courses offered at Reid Hall, students with sufficient preparation may, through this program, enroll in courses in the French university system in a variety of academic disciplines. To qualify for admission to Reid Hall, a student must have completed two years of college French with grades of B or better. It is possible to spend one term or an academic year in Paris. Each term, over 100 students take part in this program. Some are French majors, but most are not. The student body comprises undergraduates from Barnard and Columbia, as well as those from other colleges and universities. Reid Hall is owned and administered by Columbia University. It is located in the Montparnasse district of Paris, near Luxembourg Gardens. The administrative staff of Reid Hall assists students in planning academic programs and in finding housing accommodations.

Barnard students who wish to study for degree credit in Germany may apply to the Berlin Consortium for German Studies program, based at the Free University of Berlin. This program makes it possible for humanities, science, and social science majors who have completed at least two years of college German or the equivalent to become German university students for an academic year or semester. The program involves full immersion into the German language, enrollment directly into courses shared with German students, access to university libraries and student housing, internship opportunities during vacation periods, and maximum exposure to contemporary German cultural and political life. The program is administered by Columbia University and both a full-time academic director and resident director located at Free University assist students in planning academic programs.

Bulletins and applications for both Reid Hall and the Berlin Consortium are available in 303 Lewisohn Hall, and in 105 Milbank. Interested students should consult the dean responsible for study abroad advising in the Office of the Dean of Studies to discuss their plans and to have the dean review and sign their applications. To receive degree credit for courses taken at Reid Hall or the Berlin Consortium, the approval of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing is required on a special form available at the Office of the Registrar.

Barnard also participates in the program of the Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies in Rome. Students who have completed at least four semesters of Latin above the elementary course, and at least one semester of elementary Greek, are eligible to apply for admission to the program of the Rome Center for one or two semesters, preferably in the junior year. Courses taken at the Rome Center may be counted toward the major, and in some cases, toward the fulfillment of the distribution requirements.

Barnard is a Supporting Institution of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens and the American Academy in Rome, and certain privileges of those schools are available, without fee, to graduates of the College.

Barnard also offers the opportunity for study in Japan at the Kyoto Center for Japanese Studies through its participation with Columbia in a consortium organized by Stanford University and several other institutions, in Spain through the Boston University Program in Madrid, and in countries throughout the world as a result of Barnard's membership in the Council for International Educational Exchange.

Course credit for courses taken at institutions abroad other than the Barnard-Columbia programs in Paris and Berlin is generally treated as transfer credit (see page 37).

STUDY AT JEWISH THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

The Jewish Theological Seminary of America, located two blocks from the Barnard campus, offers opportunities to Barnard students for specialized study under a cooperative arrangement. Students may enroll in courses at the Seminary under any of three options: (1) individual courses; (2) a year's study in residence at the Seminary; or (3) a double degree program.

A student wishing to study at the Seminary should consult her adviser and obtain the written permission of the chair of her major department. Courses taken at the Jewish Theological Seminary are evaluated as transfer credit (see page 37 for rules on transfer credit). Students who wish to obtain simultaneously the degree of Bachelor of Arts from Barnard and Bachelor of Hebrew Literature from the Seminary must consult the appropriate dean in the Office of the Dean of Studies at Barnard and at the Seminary's List College and must be separately admitted to each institution.

Qualified Barnard students may request housing at the Seminary. Double-degree students who enroll in the Seminary College will be subject to both Barnard and Seminary tuition charges, adjusted on a pro-rata basis. Students taking individual courses pay the Seminary directly for those courses at an adjusted rate.

STUDY AT THE JUILLIARD SCHOOL

The Juilliard School at Lincoln Center offers opportunities to Barnard students for individual courses in music. For a five-year program leading to the Barnard A.B. and the Juilliard M.M., rigorous auditions are required for which early application must be made. Students interested in these options may obtain further information and audition dates by consulting Dr. Gail Archer, Coordinator of the Barnard Music Program (217 Milbank), at the time of admission to Barnard or as early as possible.

STUDY AT THE MANHATTAN SCHOOL OF MUSIC

The Manhattan School of Music is located one block to the north of the Barnard campus. Under a cooperative program of cross-registration, musically qualified Barnard students who pass required auditions have the opportunity to enroll in six semesters of private music lessons at the Manhattan School, subject to the regulations specified in the application form available at the Office of the Registrar. Majors and minors in Music may take eight semesters of lessons. Students must complete a Barnard approval form before receiving permission to enroll at the Manhattan School.

SPECIAL ACADEMIC PROGRAMS

Barnard offers a summer academic program for secondary school students, "Summer in New York: Barnard's Pre-College Program." Program information and applications are available in the Office of the Pre-College Program.

DOUBLE AND JOINT DEGREE INTRAUNIVERSITY PROGRAMS

Barnard offers double and joint degrees in coordination with other schools in the University system, including the School of International and Public Affairs, the School of Engineering, the School of Law, and the School of Dental and Oral Surgery. Details on specific programs are given below.

SCHOOL OF INTERNATIONAL AND PUBLIC AFFAIRS

Barnard College and the Columbia University School of International and Public Affairs offer a joint program leading to the A.B. degree at the end of four years and the M.I.A. (Master of International Affairs) after one additional year.

Application to this program is made through the Office of the Dean of Studies by March 1 of the junior year, but to ensure appropriate guidance and preparation, consultation is recommended in the sophomore year with the appropriate dean in the Office of the Dean of Studies at Barnard. Qualified students nominated by the Office of the Dean of Studies complete the application, which is sent to the School of International and Public Affairs. Finalists will be interviewed by an admissions officer at SIPA. The final decision on admission to the program rests with the SIPA Review Committee. Acceptance for the joint program is a provisional admission to SIPA for the M.I.A. degree. All provisionally admitted students will be required to submit a formal application to SIPA in the spring semester of the senior year. Formal applications for fellowship consideration are due by January 15; otherwise, applications are due by April 15.

A Barnard student's eligibility for the joint program with SIPA is governed by the following conditions:

1. A minimum grade point average of 3.3.
2. At least four semesters of matriculation at Barnard before enrolling in the joint program.
3. Fulfillment of all basic and distribution requirements before the senior year.
4. No more than four courses in the major to be completed during the senior year.
5. Completion of introductory courses in microeconomics and macroeconomics and a strong background in quantitative courses.

A Barnard student in the program must satisfy all Barnard degree requirements. Courses in the School of International and Public Affairs may be used to fulfill major requirements only with the written permission of the chair of the major department. As a senior, after consultation with a SIPA dean and her major adviser at Barnard, she will elect 15 to 18 points of SIPA coursework, including a substantial part of the SIPA Core "A" Requirement. A typical program would include most of the 12 points of coursework at the 4000 level or above in the following areas:

- International politics
- Foreign historical and political processes
- International law
- United States foreign policy
- International policy analysis and management
- Graduate-level economics

A grade of B or better is required in courses to be credited toward the M.I.A. degree.

GRADUATE PROGRAM IN PUBLIC POLICY AND ADMINISTRATION

Barnard College and the Columbia University Graduate Program in Public Policy and Administration offer a joint degree program (the M.P.A. program) leading to the Bachelor of Arts degree at the end of four years and the Master of Public Administration after one additional year.

Application to the program is made directly to the Graduate Program in Public Policy and Administration at the School of International and Public Affairs, but the designated dean in the Office of the Dean of Studies should be consulted before the application is filed, preferably as early as the sophomore year. Admission to the joint program does not constitute automatic admission to the M.P.A. program. The student in the joint program applies for admission to the graduate program in the autumn term of her senior year. Final admission is conditional upon the applicant's receiving the A.B. degree from Barnard.

A Barnard student in the joint program must satisfy all basic, distribution, and major requirements for the A.B. degree at Barnard. Courses in the graduate program may be used to fulfill major requirements only with the written consent of the chair of the department in which the student is majoring. During the junior and senior years she must complete at least 24 points of course work at the 4000 level or above, including the first-year required core courses specified in the Bulletin of the Graduate Program in Public Policy and Administration. An internship, usually during the summer between the fourth and fifth years, is also required. In the fifth year of the program, a student completes at least 30 points, including a workshop and policy specialization requirements.

SCHOOL OF LAW

Each year Barnard College has the option of nominating, in conjunction with the Columbia University School of Law, two juniors with outstanding records to enter the Law School under the Accelerated Program in Interdisciplinary Legal Education (A.I.L.E.).

Each student must submit a record of 90 points, 60 of which will have been completed at Barnard. She must have fulfilled all degree requirements except those for the major, which she must be able to complete together with the final 30 points at the Law School. Twelve of the 30 must be in the liberal arts and the remainder in appropriate law courses.

To be nominated, a student must have an outstanding academic record (3.6 average or above) and have taken the LSAT by March of her junior year with a score in keeping with the median level of accepted applicants to the Columbia Law School in that academic year.

Students interested in the program should consult the Pre-law Dean in the Office of the Dean of Studies early in the junior year and with the Senior Class Dean to ensure fulfillment of graduation requirements. LSAT applications are available in the Office of the Dean of Studies; the test is usually offered in June, October, December, and February.

SCHOOL OF DENTAL AND ORAL SURGERY

A limited number of qualified students may enter the Columbia University School of Dental and Oral Surgery after three years of undergraduate work at Barnard. To be eligible for this program, the student must have completed 90 points of academic work at Barnard and all of the prerequisite courses for the School of Dental and Oral Surgery. To be eligible for the A.B. degree, she must have completed 120 points, 30 of which may be taken at the School of Dental and Oral Surgery, and she must have completed all of the general and major requirements of Barnard College.

A student interested in this option should consult with the health professions dean in her sophomore year for early program planning. Before her admission to the School of Dental and Oral Surgery, she should consult with the Senior Class Dean to make certain that she will be eligible for the A.B. degree.

SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING AND APPLIED SCIENCE

Barnard College and the Columbia University School of Engineering and Applied Science offer undergraduate programs in the professional branches of engineering and in the applied sciences under a cooperative program. In addition to the general admission requirements, coursework in mathematics through trigonometry, physics, and chemistry is desirable for entering students interested in engineering or applied science.

The first three years of the five-year program leading to the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science are spent under the jurisdiction of Barnard College with a few courses taken in the School of Engineering and Applied Science. During the junior year the student applies for admission to the School of Engineering and Applied Science, where the remaining two years of more specialized engineering study are taken. Completion of the basic, distribution, major, and physical education requirements is required for the Barnard A.B. degree. A maximum of 30 points may be credited for engineering courses. Students interested in the program are encouraged to consult the designated dean in the Office of the Dean of Studies to plan an appropriate schedule of courses.

Details of specific entrance requirements are available from the Office of the Combined Plan at the School of Engineering and Applied Science (533 Mudd) and from the Office of the Dean of Studies at Barnard.

AUDITING

STUDENT AUDITING

Matriculated students may audit courses in special instances by arrangements with the instructors. Permission to audit a course is granted at the instructor's discretion. Courses audited do not appear on the student's program or transcript, are not graded, and may not be subsequently converted to credit courses.

ALUMNAE AUDITING

Many Barnard courses are open to alumnae for auditing. No credit is given; there is no charge. The only requirement is that permission of the instructor must be obtained. Those interested in this program should contact the Alumnae Office and request a copy of the current catalogue and information about procedures.

REGISTRATION

REGISTRATION FOR NEW AND CONTINUING STUDENTS

Instructions and materials for registration are enclosed in individual packets distributed to students on the days designated for registration.

Students are expected to register during the registration times published in the College Calendar. Permission to register may be refused to students who do not observe the deadline for registration. Those students who have permission to register late will be assessed additional fees, as posted at the Registrar's Office.

Bills for tuition and fees (see page 23) are mailed before the beginning of the semester, and payment must be received by the deadline published in the College Calendar. In addition, any outstanding debts to the College or University, including library fines, must be paid before the student may register.

The final stage of the registration process is program filing (see below), which must be completed by the deadline published in the College Calendar. If for some extraordinarily compelling reason a student must enroll in less than a full-time program, the written permission of her Class Dean in the Office of the Dean of Studies is required.

REGISTRATION FOR RESUMED EDUCATION STUDENTS

Resumed Education students are those Barnard students who have been away from the College for five years or more and are returning to complete the A.B. degree requirements and those Barnard graduates who are returning to the College to take additional course work. Resumed Education students are subject to regular registration procedures and deadlines.

REGISTRATION FOR COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY COURSES

Many courses offered in other divisions of the University are open to qualified Barnard students; those cross-listed in the Barnard Catalogue do not normally need special approval; all undergraduate courses listed in the Columbia College bulletin do not need special approval unless so indicated in the course description. Other courses not cross-listed in the Barnard Catalogue may require divisional or instructor's approval in addition to the approval of the student's academic adviser. Columbia University courses are entered on the Barnard program; specific instructions are enclosed in the registration packet. The student is expected to have reviewed the course description and prerequisites before consulting an adviser, to determine for herself whether she is eligible to enroll.

Certain Columbia courses are limited in enrollment. Barnard students wishing to register in such courses must take part in the limited-enrollment procedures.

Only students enrolled in the Education Program are eligible to take the Teachers College methods courses cross-listed in the catalogue. All Teachers College courses that are not cross-listed require approval of the Barnard Dean of Studies by submission of a petition form during the first week of the term, and also require payment of Teachers College tuition charges over and above Barnard tuition.

STUDENT PROGRAMS

PROGRAM FILING

The list of courses for which the student is registered each semester is known as the student's program.

Each student is required to schedule and attend a program-planning meeting with her adviser before the end of each semester (see College Calendar) and to consider carefully and seriously her selection of courses for the following semester.

During the program-planning period each student files her program for the following semester with the Registrar.

During the program-planning period, various departments post sign-up sheets for laboratory courses, sectioned courses, and limited-size courses. A student who wishes to enroll in such a course or courses must enter her name on these sheets to ensure a place for the following semester.

Between registration and the date for program filing a student is required to reach a final decision on the courses she will take for the term. The final program, signed by her academic adviser, is filed at the Office of the Registrar before the published deadline. There is no refund issued for courses dropped after the published deadline for program filing, and any part-time program filed after that date will be assessed full tuition.

Note: the deadline for submission of programs is separate from, and somewhat later than, the registration deadline (see College Calendar). Programs filed late must be approved by each instructor and the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing, and will be assessed additional fees, which will be posted at the Registrar's Office. A student who is allowed to add a course after the deadline will be liable for tuition charges for the added course as well as the courses on her filed program, even if she also drops a course. A student who neglects to file a program is subject to academic probation.

ADJUSTMENT OF FEES AND REFUNDS FOR CHANGING PROGRAM OF STUDY

If a student changes her program and the tuition called for is lower than the amount she has already paid, she will be refunded the excess only if the alteration of her program is made by September 13 (last day of program filing) in the Autumn term and by January 31 in the Spring term. If the new program calls for higher tuition, the student is responsible for paying the additional charges promptly.

SCHEDULE OF CLASSES AND ROOM ASSIGNMENTS

Class times and room numbers are published in the Schedule of Classes, available during registration. Final information on changes in Barnard-taught courses (class times and rooms) is posted at the Registrar's Office. Disabled students needing wheelchair-accessible classrooms should provide this information to the Registrar during program planning.

COURSES WITH LIMITED ENROLLMENT

Enrollment in certain courses is strictly limited and students are encouraged to indicate their intent to enroll in those courses well before registration by entering their names on sign-up sheets which are posted outside departmental offices and which list criteria for course enrollment.

ADDING COURSES

Courses may not be added after the deadline for filing academic programs. Up to that deadline, the student may add courses either on the program form, if she has not already submitted it, or by an Application to Add a Course, available at the Office of the Registrar. Adding a course requires the signature, on either the program or Add form, of the class adviser (for a first-year student or sophomore) or the major adviser (for a junior or senior).

REGISTRATION

DROPPING COURSES

Courses may be dropped by submission of an Application to Drop a Course, available at the Office of the Registrar. The form requires the signature of the class adviser (for a first-year student or sophomore) or the major adviser (for a junior or senior), and must be returned to the Office of the Registrar before the deadline published in the College Calendar. Courses dropped by the deadline will not be recorded on the permanent transcript. If withdrawal from a course is approved after the deadline to drop and by the deadline to withdraw, the course will be recorded on the permanent transcript with the notation W (Withdrawal). Action on any course which ends prior to the above dates must be taken before the last class meeting. No adjustment of fees (including any laboratory fees) is made for any course dropped after the deadline for program filing.

ATTENDANCE

Students are expected to attend classes regularly. Frequent or prolonged absences from classes may cause a student to forfeit the right to complete coursework or to take final examinations. A prolonged or serious illness is considered an excuse for absence only if the student files a statement signed by her physician with the Office of Health Services immediately upon her return to a regular attendance schedule.

POLICY ON RELIGIOUS HOLIDAYS

It is the policy of Barnard College to respect its members' observances of their major religious holidays. Conflicts with such holidays will normally be avoided in the scheduling of required academic activities and essential services, including registration deadlines that are part of the academic calendar, and final examinations.

In any instance of unforeseen or unavoidable scheduling conflict, student and instructor will work out suitable arrangements for satisfaction of academic requirements; in some instances, consultation with a dean or director may be appropriate. A listing of major religious holidays is distributed before the Autumn term to all faculty and administrators.

WITHDRAWAL AND READMISSION

A student not subject to discipline for infraction of College rules may withdraw from the College during the semester by submitting a "Notice of Withdrawal" form to the Office of the Dean of Studies with the signature of the parent or guardian before the withdrawal deadline. If the student withdraws during the semester without submitting the proper notification, the term's work is subject to a grade of UW. (For information on partial refund of tuition, see page 25.) A student who plans to withdraw following the completion of a term must also file the appropriate form in the Office of the Dean of Studies. Withdrawals should be discussed with a student's academic adviser and Class Dean in advance of submitting the form. Confirmation of the withdrawal, and procedures and conditions for readmission, will be sent to the student upon receipt of the Intention to Withdraw form.

Readmission of students who have withdrawn from (or been withdrawn by) the College for non-academic reasons including health or disciplinary reasons will be considered by the Committee on Evaluation, composed of representatives from the offices of Student Life, Dean of Studies, Health Services, and Disability Services.

Students who wish to request readmission to the College must submit a letter to the Dean of Studies, with reasons for the request, by April 1 for an Autumn term return and by November 1 for a Spring term return. A Health Services evaluation and recommendation is usually required for Committee consideration.

The Evaluation Committee also meets regularly throughout the academic year to discuss issues concerning students who are experiencing difficulties in academic, residential, and extracurricular life at the College. The Committee identifies available support services both on- and off-campus in order to assist students encountering difficulties. Finally, as needed, it considers the advisability of a student's withdrawal from the College for non-academic reasons. A description of the Committee and its procedures is available in the offices of the Dean of Studies and the Dean of Student Life.

EXCEPTIONS TO COLLEGE REGULATIONS

Requests by students for exceptions to college regulations governing the awarding of academic credit and requirements for the degree may be addressed to the Faculty Committee on Programs and Academic Standing. Petition forms are available at the Office of the Registrar and should be returned there. Requests which bear the appropriate signatures of advisers and instructors normally receive consideration within two weeks of their submission.

EXAMINATIONS

LANGUAGE PLACEMENT EXAMINATIONS

The foreign language requirement can be met by completing the required courses at Barnard (for individual languages see departmental curriculum statements), or by a College Entrance Examination Board (CEEB) score of 750 (700 or above in Hebrew), or, for transfer students, by having completed acceptable qualifying language courses.

Transfer Students

A transfer student who has a CEEB score is placed according to that score alone, if she has had no previous college language courses. The determination is made according to the provisions of an established scale (see page 33). A transfer student who has no CEEB score or previous college language courses must, if she wishes to continue with a particular language, take a placement test. Transfer students who are not required to take an examination are notified of language placement along with the evaluation of their transfer credit.

First-Year Students

First-year students are placed (or exempted) on the basis of their CEEB scores. Those with no scores who wish to continue languages studied in high school take placement examinations. The Class Dean advises all new first-year students of their language requirements.

Summer School Language Courses

Students, other than incoming transfer or first-year students, who take summer language courses and wish exemption or placement in their continuing language studies must take a language placement examination or secure departmental approval to receive degree credit and enter a higher level.

A student who does not wish to continue with a language in which she has been placed may begin the study of a new language.

Applications for Language Placement Examinations are available at the Office of the Registrar; the examination dates are published in the College Calendar. The examinations are evaluated and placement is made by the appropriate departments. Results are posted at the Office of the Registrar.

OTHER DEPARTMENTAL PLACEMENT EXAMINATIONS

Students may obtain exemption from or placement in certain courses by means of departmental placement examinations (for example, in the Mathematics and Physics departments). Information and applications for the examinations are available in departmental offices, and deadlines are particular to each department.

MAKE-UP EXAMINATIONS DURING THE TERM

Instructors are not required to give make-up examinations to students absent from previously announced tests during the term. An instructor who is willing to give a make-up test may request a report of illness or acceptable evidence of other extenuating circumstances from the appropriate class dean in the Office of the Dean of Studies.

FINAL EXAMINATIONS

No class meetings will be held on required reading days as set forth in the College Calendar. The dates for final examinations, given at the end of each term, are published in the College Calendar. Exact times and room numbers for individual examinations are sent to each student and posted on the bulletin board at the Office of the Registrar at least two weeks in advance of final examinations.

Barnard examinations are given under the Honor Code, which states that a student should not ask for, give, or receive help in examinations, nor should she use papers or books in a manner not authorized by the instructor. She should not present work that is not entirely her own except in such a way as may be approved by the instructor. The Honor Code further implies that any student or member of the faculty who has firsthand knowledge of a violation of these rules has an obligation to report it to the Dean of Studies or Honor Board.

A student who wishes to leave the room before the end of the examination period will submit her blue books to the instructor. If a student becomes ill during the course of the examination, she must notify the instructor and go to the College Physician, Brooks Hall, Lower Level. If less than an hour has expired, a grade of DEF will be recorded on the transcript and she will take a deferred examination. If a student remains for more than one hour of a three-hour examination, she will be graded on the work she has completed.

DEFERRED FINAL EXAMINATIONS

Deferred final examinations for Barnard courses, given in September and January (see College Calendar), are open only to those students who were absent from the regular examinations for reasons of illness or emergency. An instructor may decline to give a deferred examination to a student whose attendance has been unsatisfactory. Exceptions to these conditions can be made only by petition to the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing before the regular examination period begins.

Absence from final exams for reasons of health or other emergencies must be reported to the instructor and to the Office of the Dean of Studies in person or by telephone on the day of the examination. In case of an emergency, the Dean of Studies should be notified. For Columbia-taught courses, the instructor or the Columbia department must also be informed.

Examinations missed in December are to be taken the following January or, in cases of prolonged illness, in September of the same year. Those missed in May are to be taken in September of the same year. If a student absents herself without a compelling and valid excuse from a final or deferred examination, she will receive a grade of zero for that examination. Applications for Barnard deferred examinations are filed with the Office of the Registrar. A payment of a $10 handling fee for each examination must accompany the application. Arrangements for deferred examinations in other divisions of the University must be made by the student with the instructors, and examinations should be completed during the term following registration for the course.

EXAMINATIONS FOR STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

Individual arrangements can be made for disabled students unable to take examinations in the usual manner. Disabled students are normally expected to take their exams with the rest of the class, with disability-related modifications as needed. Students with disabilities who require nonstandard administration should consult with their instructors and the Director for Disability Services about reasonable accommodations. Students should obtain copies of the Test Accommodations Form in Room 7 Milbank and return them at the beginning of each semester.

GRADING AND ACADEMIC HONORS

GRADING SYSTEM

Academic standing and eligibility for graduation are determined by both the number of courses completed and the grades achieved. The system used at Barnard is as follows:

A+, A, A-	Excellent
B+, B, B-	Good
C+, C	Satisfactory
C-, D	Unsatisfactory but passing
F	Failure
P	Passed without a specific grade on student's election of P/D/F option
P*	Passed in a course for which only a grade of P or F is allowed
I	Incomplete
X	Absence from final examination
Y	For the first half of a two-semester course in which the grade for the second semester is the grade for the entire course
W	Approved withdrawal after "drop" deadline
UW	Withdrawal from a course without official notification to Registrar

Pass/Fail grades are recorded for all students in certain courses, e.g., physical education. Pass/Fail grades for individual students are subject to regulations described below.

Grades of I or X that were recorded in 1980-81 or before have been changed to NC (no credit) if the missing work was not submitted and the portion of the coursework that had been completed was passing; beginning 1981-82, the unsubmitted work has been calculated as zero in averaging the final grade. If the work completed is not of passing quality, the grade will be changed to F.

In the computation of grade point averages, marks for courses are awarded on the following scale:

A+ = 4.3	B+ = 3.3	C+ = 2.3	D = 1.0
A = 4.0	B = 3.0	C = 2.0	F = 0
A- = 3.7	B- = 2.7	C- = 1.7

In order to be recommended for the degree, a student must maintain a cumulative average of 2.0 (C) for 120 or more points completed with passing grades. At the end of each term all records are examined. Normally only those students who have completed 12 points with cumulative averages of 2.0 or above are permitted to remain in college. Students whose work falls below the cumulative average of 2.0 may be permitted to continue at Barnard with probationary conditions at the discretion of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing.

Courses in which the student receives the grade of D may not be counted toward the major requirement or the minor option. Required courses graded D that must be retaken for a higher grade to satisfy requirements for the major or minor will not receive degree credit when repeated.

GRADE REPORTS

The grade report for the Autumn term is enclosed in the student's registration packet in January. At the end of the Spring term, a cumulative grade report of all the student's work at Barnard is sent to her home address. The cumulative grade report is an unofficial transcript for which there is no charge. A student may request that her grade reports be sent to her parent(s) or guardian by filing a permission card with the Registrar. Parents who have established their daughter's status as a dependent may receive transcripts of her grades without her consent by writing to the Dean of Studies. If the student wishes additional transcripts, a charge of $3 per copy will apply (see Transcripts, page 56).

PASS/D/FAIL OPTION

A student may elect the Pass/D/Fail option by submitting a Request for Pass/D/Fail form in duplicate to the Office of the Registrar before the deadline published in the College Calendar. The forms are available at the Office of the Registrar about two weeks before the deadline. Under the Pass/D/Fail option the student is held responsible for fulfilling all course requirements. A passing letter grade of A, B, or C reported by the instructor is converted to P by the Office of the Registrar. A grade of D or F is not converted.

Some courses record Pass/Fail grades for all students enrolled, e.g., ENG BC 1202. Of the 120 points required for the degree, a maximum of 21 points of course work may receive a grade of Pass, whether elected or mandated (e.g., English BC 1202). The P/D/F option cannot be elected for First-Year English or any course designated to count toward the major or the minor.

No limitation is placed on the number of Pass grades that may be recorded in a single term, except those rules that apply to Dean's List, to eligibility for financial aid, and to the overall 21-point maximum.

Grades of P are not included in the grade point average. Grades of D or F, whether or not received under the Pass/D/Fail option, are computed. If the total number of points excluded from calculation in the grade point average exceeds 34, a sliding scale requiring higher qualifying averages is used to determine eligibility for general honors at graduation. (Like courses graded Pass, points credited for A. P., baccalaureates, some transfer work, and all summer courses are not calculated in the grade point average.)

The request for a course to be graded under the Pass/D/Fail option is irreversible. Subsequent change to a letter grade will not be allowed, and the option may not be elected retroactively.

INCOMPLETES

A student may for compelling reasons request from her instructor an Incomplete by means of written approval on forms available at the Office of the Registrar. The deadline for filing the Application for Incomplete is the last day of the reading period. However, in a course without a final examination, the deadline is the day before the final paper is due if that date precedes the last day of the reading period.

There are two Incomplete options. The "Early Incomplete" option requires submission of unfinished work to the Registrar soon after the end of the term by the date designated in the College Calendar and results in the removal of the "I" notation from the transcript. The second option extends the deadline to the first day of classes for the next Autumn term, but the "I" notation remains on the permanent transcript and is joined by the final letter grade. The full regulations that apply to Incompletes are listed on the Application for Incomplete form available at the Office of the Registrar. A student must have the permission of her instructor to qualify for an Incomplete, and she is required to use the form, which is a written guarantee of the terms set forth in it by the instructor.

ELIGIBILITY FOR STUDENT GOVERNMENT OFFICES

To be a candidate for election to a student government office, a student must be in good academic standing and free of disciplinary action for at least one year.

ELIGIBILITY FOR INTERCOLLEGIATE ATHLETICS

Any student at Barnard College, Columbia College, or the Columbia School of Engineering and Applied Science who is pursuing the undergraduate program or a combined program toward a first degree is eligible for intercollegiate athletics, provided that certain conditions are met. To be eligible for athletic activities, the student must

- be a candidate for a bachelor's degree;
- be registered for at least 12 points of credit per semester;
- be in satisfactory academic standing;
- have passed by the beginning of the academic year 24 points if in the second year, 52 points if in the third year, or 86 points if in the fourth year;
- have attended the University for not more than eight terms;
- not have completed the requirements for a bachelor's degree.

An eligibility form must be filed with the Director of Athletics. The completed form is sent to the Office of the Registrar, where eligibility is determined by examining the student's record. Questions about eligibility should be referred to the Dean of Studies.

DEAN'S LIST

The Dean's List, which includes the names of students who deserve special mention for superior scholarship, is compiled at the end of each academic year. To be eligible, a student must be enrolled at Barnard for both terms and complete at least 12 letter-graded points each term with a minimum grade point average of 3.4 for the academic year. (P-graded points are excluded.) Her grade point average will be based on all her letter grades in the A to F range.

TRANSCRIPTS

Transcripts are ordered by the student or alumna by written request to the transcript assistant in the Office of the Registrar. An official Transcript Request Form is available, but the request may also be made by letter, provided that the letter includes the following: student's name (including maiden and married names) and Social Security number, dates of attendance at Barnard, purpose of the transcript, number of copies desired, specifications as to whether the transcript should or should not be delayed until the latest semester's grades have been entered, name(s) and address(es) to which the transcript is to be sent, the student's full signature, and a $3 check or money order for each transcript ordered. Official copies of transcripts (those bearing the seal of the College) can be sent only to academic institutions, business organizations, and government offices. Unofficial copies of transcripts may be sent to the student. All copies of transcripts, official and unofficial, are sent only at the written request of the student, and are subject to the $3 fee. There is no charge, however, for a transcript sent to a division of the University. Barnard will not send copies of transcripts from other schools; they must be requested directly from the institutions attended.

HONORS

The Faculty awards honors to students who complete work for the degree with distinction (cum laude), with high distinction (magna cum laude), and with highest distinction (summa cum laude). Students whose records include study at other institutions will be eligible for honors if both the overall and the Barnard grade point averages meet the designated requirements. Grades for summer work are excluded from the grade point average. If the total number of points for summer credit, for courses graded P or P*, and for transfer grades that do not have Barnard equivalents exceeds 34 of the 120 points for the degree, the qualifying averages are computed on a sliding scale. Departmental honors are awarded to a small percentage of eligible graduates nominated by their departments for distinguished work in their major fields.

PHI BETA KAPPA

The Barnard section of the Columbia University chapter of Phi Beta Kappa was founded in 1901. Election to the national honor society is a recognition of scholarship, and Barnard students of exceptionally high standing are eligible. Junior election will require a minimum of 86 completed points, and senior election, 102. Questions concerning Phi Beta Kappa should be referred to the Registrar or the Office of the Dean of Studies.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

THE CURRICULUM

The Barnard curriculum consists of 37 departments and programs. At present, 24 departments and 13 interdisciplinary programs offer majors, and students may also elect minors if they wish. All academic programs listed are planned for 1995-96; their listing in this catalogue is not a guarantee of their availability, and the College may revise its degree requirements from time to time.

CLASSES

The usual schedule consists of 15 points each semester, but depending on a student's interests or departmental requirements, additional courses may be added. However, an additional fee is charged per point for a filed program exceeding 18 points even if some of the points are subsequently dropped (see page 23 for the fee schedule). Classes vary in size. Those in which student participation is important are small. Introductory courses and classes taught primarily by the lecture method are often divided into smaller groups for conference and discussion. Laboratory work in the sciences is conducted with modern equipment, and computer facilities are available at Barnard.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Course descriptions will be found in the following pages. Room assignments and all other registration information are published in a separate bulletin and distributed during registration.

Autumn term courses are followed by an x; Spring term courses are followed by a y.

Indivisible Barnard courses that run throughout the year are marked with a hyphen between the numerals (e.g., Spanish V1101-V1102). No credit is given for work in an indivisible course dropped at mid-year without the written consent of the instructor and department chair and the approval of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing. The first semester of elementary language, whether taken at Barnard or elsewhere, normally does not receive degree credit unless the second semester is completed. However, a single exception to this rule is allowed on written request to the Registrar.

Divisible Barnard courses, which run throughout the year, are marked with a comma between the numerals (e.g., Environmental Science BC 1001x, BC 1002y). The first half of such courses may be taken separately. Admission to the second half without completion of the first half is granted only with written permission of the instructor. Certain courses are offered in both Autumn and Spring terms (Economics BC 1001x, BC 1001y) and may be taken in either term.

The following alphabetical prefixes designate the division of the university for whose students the course is primarily offered or indicate joint courses. The aforementioned guidelines regarding hyphens and commas between course numbers for BC courses do not necessarily apply to courses offered by other faculties.

- BC – Barnard College
- C – Columbia College
- F – School of General Studies
- G – Graduate School of Arts and Sciences
- H – Reid Hall, Paris
- R – School of the Arts
- V – Joint undergraduate course (Barnard with Columbia College and/or the School of General Studies)
- W – Other inter-faculty course

The level of the course is generally as follows:

- 1000-3999 Undergraduate
- 4000-4999 Advanced undergraduate and first-year graduate
- 5000-8999 Graduate, normally not open to undergraduates

This program is supervised by the Committee on American Studies:

The American Studies Program offers an interdisciplinary major for students who want to study the society and culture(s) of the United States by focusing on a central subject, theme, or set of questions.

THEMES

In consultation with the program director, each student chooses an adviser from among several departments and works closely with the program director and her adviser to define a thematic concentration within the major. For example, a student might define her concentration as:

Gender and American Culture

The Asian-American Experience

The African-American Experience

Latino Studies

Culture and Politics

19th-Century American History and Literature

Community in American Society

Required courses in American history and literature, as well as the junior colloquium and senior seminar, offer a solid foundation for interdisciplinary study.

Prospective majors must see the program director for more information about structuring concentrations and for help in selecting an adviser. The program director can provide examples of possible programs and access to a file of syllabi from American Studies courses in other departments. Both Barnard and Columbia College courses will satisfy major requirements.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The American Studies major requires a minimum of 12 courses:

1. Two-semester sequence American History Survey, HIS BC 1051 and 1052. Majors are urged to complete this requirement by the sophomore year. This requirement may be waived for those with scores of 4 (waives one semester) or 5 (waives both semesters) on the Advanced Placement Exam. Those students should substitute upper-level American history courses.
2. One semester of the American Literature sequence (ENG BC 3179, 3180, 3181, 3182).
3. Junior Colloquium: Approaches to American Cultural History, AMS BC 3401 (offered only in Autumn term).

4. Senior Seminar (AMS BC 3703 and 3704). In some cases, a senior seminar sequence in one of the departments may be substituted for AMS BC 3703 and 3704.
5. A set of at least six courses organized around a theme or subject. One of the six courses must be a seminar or colloquium. The program director and adviser must approve both the theme and the set of courses the student selects for the concentration.

No minor is offered in American Studies.

This program is supervised by the Committee on Ancient Studies:

Assistant Professor of Classics (Columbia): Gareth Williams (Representative for Columbia)

Professor of Classics: Helene Foley (Representative for Barnard)

Associate Professor of History (Columbia): Richard Billows

Ancient Studies is designed to allow the student to explore various aspects of the ancient Mediterranean and Mesopotamian cultures while concentrating on one of these major civilizations. By studying these cultures in several academic disciplines the student will acquire a general knowledge and a context for her area of specialization. At Barnard and in the University a very large number of courses pertaining to antiquity are offered each year, and the program prepares an annual list to aid students in making their selections. This list may be obtained from the Representative for Barnard.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Each student, after consultation with the Representative for Barnard, chooses an adviser whose field is closely related to her own and with whom she will do her senior reading. The programs of all the students are reviewed by the Ancient Studies Committee, in order to maintain control and a sense of collective enterprise.

A total of 36 points are required in the major, including at least four courses in one geographical area or period; courses in at least three departments (to ensure proper interdisciplinary training and experience); the elementary sequence of a relevant ancient language; the appropriate history course; and at least the first semester of Ancient Studies V 3998, V 3999.

In some cases, a senior seminar in one of the departments may be substituted for Ancient Studies V 3998, V 3999. Ancient language courses may be used toward the major requirement; however, where a second ancient language is offered, one second-year sequence must be offered to gain credit for the first year.

No minor is offered in Ancient Studies.

ANC V 3997x, ANC V 3997y

Directed Readings in Ancient Studies

A program of readings in some aspect of Ancient Studies, supervised by an appropriate faculty member chosen from the departments offering Ancient Studies courses. Testing by a series of essays, one long paper, or oral or written examination(s). —Staff

Permission of the departmental representative required.
3 points. Hours TBA.

Directed Research in Ancient Studies

A program of research in Ancient Studies. Research paper required. For 3999y, the topic must be submitted to the departmental representative and the appropriate adviser decided upon by November 15 of the semester preceding that in which the student will be enrolled in the course. For 3998x, the corresponding deadline will be April 1 of the semester preceding that in which the student will be enrolled in the course. The student and the departmental representative will request supervision of the research paper from an appropriate faculty member in a department offering Ancient Studies courses. —Staff Permission of the departmental representative required.

3 points. Hours TBA.

A list of other relevant courses of instruction offered in 1996-97 may be obtained from the Representative for Barnard.

Anthropology is the study of the biological and cultural development of the human species and of the variety of human societies and their cultures. The student majoring in this field will acquire an understanding of humans and their ways that is not bound by her own time and culture. In doing so, she will find herself drawing upon the literature of such diverse disciplines as genetics, archaeology, ethnography, linguistics, and the social sciences. Students with a degree in anthropology may undertake graduate and professional study in anthropology; they may also enter upon careers in other fields, such as development, education, government, journalism, labor organization, law, medicine, or social work administration, where the value of a training in anthropology is becoming increasingly recognized. The practical and applied dimensions of anthropology have increased significantly in recent years, and the profession attempts to serve many non-academic needs both in American society and international organizations.

Several major museums and libraries in New York City offer exceptional opportunities for research. Various summer schools provide opportunities for research in archaeology and ethnography, and under certain circumstances such work may be credited toward the Barnard degree. Students interested in cultural anthropology are encouraged, whenever possible, to conduct research in the New York area, or, during their summer vacations, in other localities.

All courses, except those limited to majors, satisfy the College's distribution requirements. Courses listed as W 4000 are open to majors, non-majors, and interested graduate students.

The department also cooperates with related programs such as American Studies, Foreign Area Studies, Pan-African Studies, Urban Studies, and Women's Studies, and with other departments offering, as an option to their majors, a four-course cluster in Anthropology. Arrangements for combined, double, joint, and special majors are made in consultation with the chair.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Every major is urged to acquire a general knowledge of three of the four fields of anthropology (cultural and physical anthropology, archaeology, and anthropological linguistics) and of their interrelationship. To this end, the student's program should be designed in consultation with her adviser, and as soon as possible after the declaration of the major. Continuing and frequent meetings with the adviser are encouraged.

Ten courses are required for the major, including:

ANT V 1002 The Interpretation of Culture and two of the following:

ANT V 1007 The Origins of Human Society

ANTHROPOLOGY

ANT V 1008 The Rise of Civilization

ANT V 1009 Introduction to Language and Culture

ANT V 1010 The Human Species: Its Place in Nature plus:

ANT V 3011 Living in Society: Social Relations

ANT V 3041 Theories of Culture: Past and Present

and

BC 3871x-BC 3872y Problems in Anthropological Research

plus at least three other courses of the student's own choosing.

In consultation with advisers, programs will be designed so as to reflect the students' interests and plans—whether they intend to go on to graduate studies in anthropology, or expect to enter other fields.

It is strongly recommended that students who plan to major in socio-cultural anthropology take BC 3868y (Ethnographic Field Research in New York City) before their senior year. Many seniors choose to incorporate a fieldwork component in their thesis research, and having some experience of field methods is extremely important. Those interested in other subdisciplines may wish to take this or another "methods" course and should consult their advisers.

Senior Essay

All students majoring in Anthropology are required to submit an "Essay" of substantial length and scholarly depth. Such a paper will usually be written during the course of the Senior Seminar or, under special circumstances and with department approval, in one or two semesters of BC 3999x, y Individual Projects.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor consists of five courses: ANT V 1002; one of the following: V 1007, V 1008, or V 1010; plus three other Anthropology courses selected in consultation with the chair.

Pre-law and premedical students who wish to minor in anthropology should seek the advice and approval of the department chair.

GENERAL COURSES

ANT V 1002x,y

The Interpretation of Culture

The anthropological approach to the study of culture and human society. Using case studies from ethnography, the course explores the universality of cultural categories (social organization, economy, law, belief system, art, etc.) and the range of variation among human societies.

GRADUATE COURSES

Certain graduate courses given in the University are open to qualified majors with the consent of the department chair and the major adviser. These courses are described in the bulletin for the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences.

Senior Lecturer: Karen Fairbanks (Director)

Adjunct Assistant Professors: Joeb Moore, Taeg Nishimoto, David Smiley, Phil Parker

Other officers of the University offering courses listed below:

Adjunct Assistant Professors: Frederick Biehle, Alicia Imperiale, Paul Lewis, Edward Mitchell, Madeline Schwartzman, Michael Webb

Architecture majors experience and investigate the central aspects of the field. The major provides an inclusive program offering opportunities to explore historical and contemporary relationships among physical, social, and cultural forms and environmental contexts.

There are two tracks to the architecture major: the first, while incorporating lectures, seminars, and scholarly research, is more strongly studio based and is recommended for the student who thinks she will continue to do graduate work in architecture or design; the second, while incorporating studio components, is geared toward the history and theory of architecture and is more strongly allied with the art history department.

Students considering an Architecture major or minor should consult with the adviser before sophomore registration to develop the most appropriate sequence of studio and lecture courses. Those interested in graduate study in architecture should consult with the adviser in their junior year concerning their programs.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE STUDIO MAJOR

The studio major in Architecture is required to complete 14 courses, at least five of which should be Barnard courses:

Four Studio courses, to be taken one per semester (studio courses have limited enrollment and priority is given to Architecture majors, seniors, and juniors):

ARC V 3103	Architectural Representation: Perception
ARC V V 3101	Architectural Representation: Abstraction
ARC V 3201, V 3202	Architectural Design I and II

Five Lecture courses from the following list*

ARC BC	3117	Perceptions of Architecture
ARH C	3001	Introduction to Architecture
ARH V	3080	Pre-Columbian Art & Architecture
ARH V	3248	Greek Art and Architecture
ARH V	3250	Roman Art and Architecture
ARC A	6730	American Architecture before 1876
ARC A	4341	American Architecture 1876-1976
ARH W	3645	Twentieth-Century Architecture and City Planning
ARC A	4330, 4331	Urban History I and II
ARC W	4321	John Sloane and his Contemporaries
ARC W	3833	Architecture 1750-1890
ARC W	3180	Art and Architecture of Ancient Egypt
ARC F	3642	Monuments of New York

Two Seminars to be taken in the junior or senior year.*

ARC V	3901x, y	Senior Seminar
ARC BC	3443	Principles of Japanese Architecture

Three cluster courses are required, chosen in consultation with the adviser from an area of study related to architecture, such as Anthropology, Art History, Economics, Environmental Science, Geography, History, Philosophy, Physics, Political Science, Psychology, Sociology, Theatre, Urban Studies, or Studio Art.

*Each semester there are other applicable courses scheduled at the University that can be taken upon approval of the adviser. For the description of these courses, consult the listings of other departments.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE HISTORY AND THEORY OF ARCHITECTURE MAJOR

The History and Theory of Architecture major is required to complete 15 courses, at least five of which should be Barnard courses, plus a senior thesis.

Two studio courses, to be taken one per semester:

ARC V	3103	Architectural Representation: Perception
ARC V	3101	Architectural Representation: Abstraction

Seven Lecture Courses:

Three architecture lecture (see Lecture List and Note under Studio Major).
One of these must be ARC BC 3117 Perceptions of Architecture.

Four art history lectures above and beyond the prior three. Two of these must be ARH BC 1001, 1002 Introduction to History of Art.

Three Seminars to be taken in the junior or senior year. Two should be in Architecture (see Seminar List and Note under Studio Major); one in Art History.

Three cluster courses in an area of study related to architecture (art history or other; see description under Studio Major).

The Architecture program is a liberal arts major, not a professional degree program. It does not qualify students for a license in Architecture.

Students who wish to continue in graduate studies in Architecture for a professional degree are also advised to take:

ARC BC	3211	Architectural Design III
Physics V	1003	General Physics
Mathematics V	1100	Brief Calculus

Note: All studio, seminar, and upper-level courses require the permission of the instructor at the first meeting of the class.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor in Architecture consists of five courses, including V 3103 or V 3101, three history/theory courses, and a fifth course to be chosen in consultation with the adviser.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Art History, which is devoted to the study of the visual arts, is one of the broadest of the humanistic disciplines. It is concerned not only with the nature of works of art—their form, style, and content—but also with the social, political, and cultural circumstances that shape them. The introductory-level courses aim at developing in students a lifelong understanding and appreciation of works of art. The rest of the curriculum is geared to preparing majors either for graduate study leading to careers in university teaching and museums, or for positions in the art world, in galleries, publication, criticism, the visual media, art consultation, conservation, and the like. These courses also provide opportunities for correlated learning to students in other fields. The department, fortunate to be located in New York City, one of the world’s great art centers, takes full advantage of the rich resources of the city’s museums and galleries in its course of study.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The Department offers both a major in the History of Art and a major in Art History with a concentration in the Visual Arts. In each case the student chooses a faculty adviser who assists her in planning a program incorporating personal interests while meeting departmental requirements.

- Requirements for the major in the History of Art:
A minimum of ten Art History courses is required for the major, including:
1. Art History BC 1001, 1002, Introduction to the History of Art is strongly suggested as an introduction to the field unless a student has sufficient previous training. It is also recommended as a prerequisite to all upper-level courses. Each semester of BC 1001, 1002 counts as an elective toward fulfillment of the ten-course requirement, but neither this nor any other broad survey can be substituted for a course in number 2 below.
 2. At least five courses distributed among the following areas:
European: Ancient, Medieval, Renaissance, Baroque, and Modern Non-European: Chinese, Japanese, Indian, African, Mesoamerican, or Native American.
- The program must include at least one European course and at least one non-European course. No more than one course from each period or area may be counted toward the five-course requirement.

ART HISTORY

- 3. Two seminars which may be drawn from any area or period and may be used to satisfy the European and non-European requirements outlined on the previous page.
- 4. ARH BC 3970 Methods and Theories of Art History.
- 5. A senior essay. With the Chair's permission, seniors may elect Art History BC 3999 Independent Research for the senior essay, but the course may not be used to fulfill the seminar requirements. The senior essay may be an expansion of a seminar paper.

Courses in film are accepted as part of the major; studio courses are not.
Recommended: One or two studio courses should be taken by Art History students.

Students who plan to undertake graduate work should acquire a reading knowledge of at least two foreign languages in which the major contributions to the history of art have been made. Most graduate schools require a reading knowledge of French and German; the department strongly recommends taking German while at Barnard.

Requirements for the major in Art History with concentration in the Visual Arts:
Seven Art History courses, including:

- BC 1001, 1002 Introduction to the History of Art
- An advanced seminar in art history
- One course in 19th- or 20th-century art
- ARH BC 3031 Imagery and Form in the Arts
- ARH BC 3530 Advanced Studio

In addition, students must take a minimum of five studio art courses including BC 3530.

A senior project is required. This may take the form of a critical essay dealing with contemporary art or an exhibition of the student's work with an accompanying paper defining the artistic character of the work.

Requirements for the major in the History and Theory of Architecture:
See Architecture Program offerings.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor in Art History consists of five lecture courses, including BC 1001, BC 1002 and three courses in the following areas of which one must be non-European:

- European and American:* Ancient, Medieval, Renaissance, Baroque, and Modern
- Non-European:* Chinese, Japanese, Indian, African, Mesoamerican, or Native American

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

ARH BC 1001x, 1002y
Introduction to the History of Art
An introduction to the art of the past with an emphasis on the variety of perspectives from which it may be studied. Mainly dedicated to the art of Western Europe. It includes serious discussion of other cultures as well, and no attempt at comprehensive coverage. Artworks from different periods selected for discussion in depth. Members of art history faculty and other invited speakers lecture in their fields of specialization. Autumn term: Ancient, Medieval and Renaissance. Spring term: Baroque, Modern and Contemporary.

The primary aim of Asian and Middle Eastern Cultures is to introduce major Asian civilizations and their works and values as a means of expanding knowledge of the varieties and unities of human experience. The General Courses below are designed for any student, whatever her major interests, who wishes to include knowledge of Asian life in her education.

The satisfactory completion of one of the following courses offered in the departments of East Asian Languages and Cultures and Middle East Languages and Cultures satisfies the college requirements in the respective languages: Akkadian G 4204, Intermediate Akkadian; Arabic W 1122, Intermediate Arabic; Armenian W 1124, Intermediate Armenian; Central Asian W 1110, Intermediate Tajik; Central Asian W 1122, Intermediate Uzbek; Chinese C 1202 or F 1202, Intermediate Chinese (second stage); Hebrew W 1122, Intermediate Modern Hebrew; Hindi-Urdu W 1122, Intermediate Hindi-Urdu; Japanese C 1202 or F 1202, Intermediate Japanese (second stage); Iranian W 1122, Intermediate Modern Persian; Korean W 1202, Intermediate Korean; Nepali W 1122, Intermediate Nepali; Sanskrit G 6102, Intermediate Sanskrit; or Turkish W 1122, Intermediate Turkish.

Literature courses in the departments of East Asian Languages and Cultures and Middle East Languages and Cultures in which readings are in the original languages may be used to fulfill the Barnard distribution requirements only with the permission of the Chair of Asian and Middle Eastern Cultures.

Students who wish to enter Chinese, Japanese, or Korean language courses above the introductory level must pass a language placement test before registering. Placement exams are given during the week before classes begin—contact the Department of East Asian Languages and Cultures (407 Kent) for exact dates. For placement above the introductory level in

ASIAN AND MIDDLE EASTERN CULTURES

Arabic, Hebrew, Hindi, Persian, Sanskrit, Turkish, or Urdu, contact the Department of Middle East Languages and Cultures (602 Kent). All students wishing to enter the Hebrew language program or wishing exemption from the Hebrew language requirement must take a placement test. The test is administered Monday-Friday, 10:00-3:00 during August in 602 Kent Hall.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

A student who plans to major in Asian and Middle Eastern Cultures is advised to consult a member of the department in the Spring term of her first year.

To major in Asian and Middle Eastern Cultures, a student will choose to follow one of two tracks, East Asian or Middle East.

The East Asian Track

The requirements for the major are as follows:

- 1) Language Requirement:
Three years of Chinese, Japanese, or Korean (completion of the 4005-4006 level), or the proficiency equivalent (to be demonstrated by a placement examination).
- 2) Introductory Courses:

Asian Humanities and	V 3400	Colloquium on Major Texts
-------------------------	--------	----------------------------------

Two of the following survey courses:

Asian Civilizations-Middle East	V 2001	Introduction to Major Topics in Asian Civilizations: The Middle East and India
Asian Civilizations-East Asia	V 2002	Introduction to Major Topics in Asian Civilizations: East Asia
Asian Civilizations	V 2559	Introduction to the Civilization of China
Asian Civilizations	V 2361	Introduction to the Civilization of Japan
Asian Civilizations	V 2363	Introduction to the Civilization of Korea
- 3) Disciplinary Courses: Three courses. These are to be selected from a single academic discipline which each student must choose upon entering the major from the following: history, literature, philosophy, religion, art history, anthropology, political science, sociology, or economics. Normally, one of these courses will be a basic introductory or methodology course, and the other two will be in East Asia-related courses in the discipline. Courses in closely related disciplines may be substituted with the approval of the adviser. Those majors specializing in history should take Historiography of East Asia (East Asian W 4103), and those specializing in literature should take Critical Approaches to East Asian Literature (East Asian W 4101); these two courses are offered in the Spring semester and should normally be taken in the junior year.
- 4) Elective Courses: Two courses related to East Asia, to be chosen in consultation with the adviser.
- 5) Senior Paper: Each student is expected to prepare a research paper or an annotated English translation of an East Asian text. The paper should be in the chosen disciplinary field and will be written in consultation with an appropriate faculty adviser. The paper is prepared in two stages, first by enrolling in the Spring of the junior year in Research in East Asian Studies V 3999y, and then in the senior year in Senior Seminar: China (East Asian W 3901x-3902y); or Senior Seminar: Japan or Korea (East Asian W 3903x-3904y); or Senior Seminar: Korea (East Asian W 3905x - 3906y), or, with the adviser's approval, Asian Studies BC 3999, Independent Study.

Note that in all East Asian language courses, the minimum grade required to advance from one level to the next is B-.

The Middle East or South Asian Track

- A minimum of 12 courses is required, including:
- Asian Humanities V 3399 Colloquium on Major Texts
- Two of the following courses:
- Asian Civilizations-Middle East V 2001x Introduction to Major Topics in Asian Civilizations: The Middle East and India
 - Asian Civilizations-Middle East V 2003 Introduction to Islamic Civilization
 - Asian Civilizations-Middle East V 2008y Contemporary Islamic Civilization
 - Asian Civilizations-Middle East V 2357x Introduction to the Civilization of India
 - Asian Civilizations-Middle East W 4210 Indian Civilization
- Four to six courses of an appropriate language (Akkadian, Arabic, Armenian, Hebrew, Hindi-Urdu, Persian, Sanskrit, Turkish, or Uzbek), selected in consultation with the adviser. A minimum of six courses chosen as a concentration. The concentration may be in the languages and cultures of ancient Semitic, Arabic, Armenian, Central Asian, Hebrew, Indic, Iranian, or Turkish. The courses required in each of the concentrations and other details will be explained by the department chair. They will include one advanced course or independent study leading to a senior thesis, to be written under the supervision of an appropriate faculty member, chosen in consultation with the adviser.

The courses listed under Middle East below represent a selection among those required in one or another of the concentrations. Students should consult the Middle East department office in 609 Kent Hall for a complete list of course offerings. Also see the note on Graduate Courses at the end of this section.

No minor is offered in Asian and Middle Eastern Cultures.

Biology is a field which explores the structure, function, interactions, and evolution of living organisms. Some of the most exciting issues of our era, such as those relating to biotechnology, genetic engineering, environmental problems, and health, require a strong background in biology. At Barnard, courses cover molecular biology; the fine structure, development, and physiology of cells, tissues, and organs; the embryology, behavior, and structure of organisms; and the ecology and evolution of populations and communities.

Many students specialize in Biology in preparation for a career in medicine, dentistry, public health, or nutrition, while others anticipate graduate work in one of the many sub-fields of biology leading to a teaching and/or research career. Still others plan futures as scientific writers, illustrators, or photographers, or as researchers in industry, government, or environmental law.

Equipment available at Barnard includes an RCA 4B transmission electron microscope and an ISI SX-40 scanning electron microscope with accessory equipment, photomicrographic and darkroom instruments, microcomputers, a scintillation counter, an ultracentrifuge, an automated oxygen analyzer, a PCR thermocycler, a chemostat, and a computer-based neurophysiology data acquisition system. The facilities include an autoradiography facility, constant temperature rooms, darkrooms, an animal care facility, a workshop, and a greenhouse. A Biology Club, originated and governed by students and sponsored by the department, presents seminars and film programs of interest.

Students are encouraged to do summer work in biological laboratories or field stations. Financial assistance for such work may be awarded to qualified students through the Edna Henry Bennett Memorial Scholarship Fund, the Herbert Maule Richards Fund, the Maura Shannon Barrett '83 Internship Fund, or the Donald and Nancy Ritchie Fund. The department maintains a file of summer courses and research stations, and information on available funds can be obtained in the department office. Support for participation or assistance in the research of the Barnard faculty is available from research grants and program grants. Advanced students may also work as Teaching Assistants in introductory courses.

The Barnard Biology Department offers several options at the introductory level; students should select courses on the basis of their prior preparation and background in Biology. For students with little prior experience, BC 1001x provides an appropriate introduction to important concepts in the field. Biology BC 1002y expands upon that introduction with detailed discussions of three important topics. Both BC 1001 and BC 1002 include a laboratory component and together fulfill Barnard's laboratory science requirement (though neither course receives credit for the Biology major). Alternatively, a student who is interested in a broader treatment of the field in preparation for advanced study in Biology may enter the 2000-level sequence (BC 2001y) immediately after completing BC 1001x.

However, students who enter Barnard with a strong background in Biology should enroll directly in the 2000-level sequence. The four 2000-level courses (two lecture courses and two laboratory course) comprise an introduction that is suitable for potential Biology majors, majors in the other sciences, and students interested in the health professions. The 2000-level introductory courses are prerequisites for upper-level courses in the department. Either BC 2001 or BC 2002 may be taken first.

Students who have passed the Advanced Placement examination with a grade of 4 or 5 and evidence of satisfactory laboratory experience are exempt from BC 1001 and receive 3 points of AP credit. A laboratory notebook may be submitted to the department for a possible 1-1/2 points of additional credit. Students who receive AP credit with a grade of 4 or 5 may complete the science requirement with BC 1002. If a student anticipates further study of Biology or other natural sciences, she should instead enroll in the 2000-level sequence; completion of either BC 2003 or BC 2004 and either BC 2001 or BC 2002 will fulfill the science requirement for a student who receives AP credit.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The curriculum for Biology majors is designed to satisfy the needs of students who plan to engage in postgraduate study of Biology or medically oriented fields and to complement the general education mission of a liberal arts college. The minimum requirements for a major in Biology are listed below:

Introductory Biology. Students must complete a year of introductory biology, including the laboratory (BC 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004, or equivalent). Students who enrolled at Barnard before September 1992 are not required to take BC 2004.

Three Core Lecture Courses. One lecture course must be selected from each of the following three categories:

- | | | | | |
|------------|--------------------------|----|---------|---|
| 1. BC 3302 | Molecular Biology | or | BC 3310 | Cells and Tissues |
| 2. BC 3340 | Plant Physiology | or | BC 3360 | Mammalian Physiology |
| 3. BC 3370 | General Ecology | or | BC 3372 | Population and Community Ecology |
| | | or | BC 3380 | Evolution |

Three Elective Lecture Courses. Students must take three additional lecture courses in Biology. Any biology lecture course can be chosen, including core courses not used to fulfill that requirement. Courses should reflect the diversity of the offerings. At least one course in genetics and one in organismal biology are recommended. Courses numbered at the 3200 level are particularly appropriate for sophomores who have completed General Biology; courses at the 3300 level are more advanced and may require additional prerequisites.

Three Elective Laboratories. Students must complete at least three laboratories beyond Introductory Biology; at least one of the three must be a 3300-level course. Laboratories may require a lecture course as a corequisite or prerequisite; such requirements are specified in the course descriptions below. A student may count a Guided Research project (BC 3591) as an elective laboratory in accordance with the guidelines listed below; however, only one term of Guided Research will receive credit toward the major. Biology laboratories at Barnard require a lab fee of $40 per course. Appropriate biology laboratories at Columbia University may be used to satisfy the lab requirement, as may those taken at other institutions, the latter with permission of the department chair.

Senior Seminar or Individual Research with Seminar. Students must enroll in one section of the Senior Seminar (BC 3590) or complete a Guided Research project in the laboratory of a member of the Barnard Biology Department (BC 3591), including concurrent participation in the Research Seminar (BC 3595). If a student completes a Guided Research project in lieu of the senior seminar, she may not also use a Guided Research project to fulfill part of the laboratory requirement.

Chemistry Requirement. One year of Chemistry with laboratory, including one term of Organic Chemistry, is required (Chemistry BC 1601, BC 3328, and BC 3230).

The Graduate Record Examination is used as the major examination. The scores are also used, together with grade point average and faculty recommendations, to determine the recipients of departmental honors.

Participation in a special project (Biology BC 3591 or BC 3592) is highly recommended. These courses give the student an opportunity to conduct independent laboratory research. Both intradepartmental (BC 3591) and extradepartmental (BC 3592) projects require the approval of a faculty member in the department who serves as sponsor (intradepartmental projects) or as cosponsor (extradepartmental projects). All projects must involve planning, experimentation, and interpretation of results, and all require a formal report written in journal style. A Guided Research project (BC 3591) may be used in lieu of a Senior Seminar or an Elective Laboratory to fulfill Biology major requirements; however, Guided Research that is to be counted toward the major requires concurrent enrollment in the Research Seminar (BC 3595). Only one term of Guided Research will receive credit toward the major. Intradepartmental projects are graded by letter grade or Pass/D/Fail at the option of the faculty sponsor. Extradepartmental projects (BC 3592) earn only pass or fail grades; they do not fulfill any major requirements, but they do receive college credit.

Entering first-year students who plan to major in biology are encouraged to take these chemistry courses in addition to Biology BC 2001, 2002, 2003, and 2004 in their first year. Some upper-level biology courses require a second term of organic chemistry (Chemistry BC 3231, Organic Chemistry II). Students interested in attending graduate or professional schools should take additional chemistry courses (Chemistry BC 3232, Intermediate General Chemistry; BC 3338, Quantitative and Instrumental Techniques Laboratory) and in addition, one year each of calculus and physics; a course in statistics is also recommended. Students interested in behavioral biology may also wish to enroll in Physiological Psychology (Psychology BC 1117 or BC 1119); although the course does not fulfill any Biology major requirement, the grade for this course may be included in the Biology major average. Graduate work generally requires a working knowledge of one or more foreign languages.

Students interested in the health sciences should register with the Pre-Professional Office during their first two years and should take the MCAT exam at the end of their junior year.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

A minor in Biology must have one year of introductory biology (BC 2001, BC 2002, BC 2003, BC 2004), three additional lecture courses, and two additional laboratories. Biochemistry, Chemistry, Environmental Science, Physics, and Psychology majors need take only one advanced laboratory instead of two.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

BIO BC 1001x

Revolutionary Concepts in Biology

An exploration of the major discoveries and ideas that have revolutionized the way we view organisms and understand life. The basic concepts of cell biology, anatomy and physiology, genetics, evolution, and ecology will be traced from seminal discoveries to the modern era. The laboratory will develop these concepts and analyze biological diversity through a combined experimental and observational approach. (Course does not fulfill Biology major requirements or premedical requirements.) —P. Ammirato Enrollment in laboratory sections limited to 16 students per section.

4.5 points. Lecture M W F 9:00-9:50

BIOLOGICAL SCIENCES

BIO BC 1002y

Contemporary Issues in Biology

An exploration of modern biology as it pertains to contemporary issues. The first module examines the biology of viral pathogens of animal cells, in particular, the virus responsible for AIDS. The second module considers human physiology and health, focusing on major health issues. The third module explores population growth and resource use, emphasizing the uniqueness of human populations. Lab exercises introduce biological techniques for studying these topics. (Course does not fulfill Biology major requirements or premedical requirements.) —R.

BIO BC 3280y
Animal Behavior

Introduction to animal behavior; physiological bases of behavior (sensory systems, neurophysiology of behavior, appetitive and reproductive behavior), ethological approaches to behavior (communication, territoriality, dominance, and aggression) and evolution of behavior (behavior genetics, behavioral ecology, sociobiology). —Instructor TBA.
Prerequisite: BC 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004, or one year of psychology.
 3 points. M W F 10:00-10:50

BIO BC 3302x
Molecular Biology

An introduction to molecular biology. Topics include: genome organization, DNA replication, regulation of RNA synthesis, protein synthesis, macromolecular cell biology, and control of gene expression in development. —J. Mohler
Prerequisites: BC 2001 or the equivalent and a year of chemistry, including one term of organic chemistry with laboratory.
 3 points. M W F 9:00-9:50

BIO BC 3303y
Laboratory in Molecular Biology

An introduction to the use of molecular techniques to answer questions about subcellular biological phenomena. Techniques include isolation of genomic and plasmid DNAs, restriction enzyme analysis, DNA and protein electrophoresis, bacterial transformation, and plasmid subcloning. —J. Mohler Prerequisite or corequisite: BC 3302 or permission of the instructor. Limited to 18 students. Alternate years.
 3 points. Tu 1:10-6:00

BIO BC 3305y

Prerequisite: BC 3302 or permission of the instructor; Enrollment limited to 12 students. Alternate years.
 5 points. Not offered in 1996-97.

BIO BC 3307x
Project Laboratory in Plant Molecular Biology

Prerequisites: BC 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004, or the equivalent, and one semester of organic chemistry.

Upper-level laboratory recommend BC3321, 3343, or 3341 and permission of the instructor. Enrollment limited to 16 students. Offered in alternate years. 5 points. Not offered in 1996-97.

BIO BC 3310y Cells and Tissues

Structural, molecular, and physiological aspects of cells and tissues in vertebrate animals; electron microscopic studies of the structure of cell organelles; modern concepts of function. —J. Larkin
Prerequisites: BC 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004, or the equivalent, and one advanced biology course. A year of chemistry, including organic chemistry, is required. 3 points. M W F 9:00-9:50

BIO BC 3311y Laboratory in Cell and Tissue Biology

Correlated light microscopic and electron microscopic analyses of the structure of tissues and organs of vertebrate animals; demonstrations and practice in histochemical, light microscopic, and electron microscopic techniques. —J. Larkin
Prerequisite or corequisite: BC 3310 or the equivalent. Enrollment limited to 16 students. 3 points. Th 1:10-6:00

BIO BC 3320x Microbiology

Study of prokaryotic and selected eukaryotic microorganisms with regard to cell structure, physiology, and metabolism; genetic mechanisms and interrelationships in bacteria. Some aspects of applied microbiology, the role of microorganisms in natural processes, aspects of pathogenicity and immunity to disease. —J. Poindexter
Prerequisites: BC 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004, and one semester of organic chemistry. 3 points. M W F 12:00-12:50

BIO BC 3321x Laboratory in Microbiology

Provides experience in the isolation, cultivation, and preservation of pure cultures of microorganisms from natural populations. Methods used for study of cell structure, growth, physiology, and genetics of bacteria will be followed by a small independent project. —J. Poindexter
Prerequisite or corequisite: BC 3320. Enrollment limited to 16 students. Recitation and laboratory. 3 points. Tu 1:10-4:00 and Th 1:10-3:00

BIO BC 3340y Plant Physiology

Processes of metabolism, nutrition, growth, and development of green plants; photosynthesis, respiration, nitrogen and intermediate metabolism, water and solute uptake and transfer, translocation, plant growth regulators, tropisms and nasties, photoperiodism, vernalization, dormancy senescence, and death. —P. Ammirato

Prerequisites: BC 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004, or the equivalent, and one term of organic chemistry. 3 points. Tu Th 9:10-10:35

BIO BC 3341y Laboratory in Plant Physiology

Determination of water potential and transpiration rates. Solute uptake and mineral deficiency studies. The Hill reaction. CO₂ compensation points and respiration rates. Extraction, separation, and identification of amino acids, nucleic acids, and plant hormones. Bioassay procedures with whole plants and cell cultures. Studies of phytochrome controlled germination and photomorphogenesis. —P. Ammirato Prerequisite or corequisite: BC 3340. 3 points. W 1:10-6:00.

BIO BC 3342y Plant Development

Prerequisites: BC 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004, or the equivalent, and one semester of organic chemistry. Alternate years. 3 points. Not offered in 1996-97.

BIO BC 3343y Laboratory in Plant Development

Prerequisite or corequisite: BC 3342. Enrollment limited to 16 students. Alternate years. 3 points. Not offered in 1996-97.

BIO BC 3360x Mammalian Physiology

Physiology of major organ systems; function and control of circulatory, respiratory, digestive, excretory, endocrine, nervous, and immune systems in animals; emphasis on higher vertebrates and humans. —Instructor TBA.
Prerequisites: Three semesters of biology and one semester of organic chemistry. 3 points. M W F 10:00-10:50

BIO BC 3361x Laboratory in Animal Physiology

Physiographic recording of cardiac, respiratory, and muscle function. Other exercises include enzyme kinetics, active transport, and exercise physiology. —Instructor TBA.
Prerequisite: BC 3360. Enrollment limited to 16 students. 3 points. Recitation and laboratory Th 1:10-6:00

BIO BC 3362x
Neurobiology

Structure and function of neural membranes; ionic basis of membrane potential and action potential; synaptic transmission and neurochemistry; sensory transduction and processing; reflexes and spinal cord physiology; muscle structure and function; neuronal circuitry; nervous system development. —B. O’Gara
Prerequisites: BC 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004, or the equivalent, and one semester of organic chemistry. BIO BC 3360 or PSY BC 1117 or BC 1119 is recommended.
3 points. Tu Th 9:10-10:25

BIO BC 3363y
Laboratory in Neurobiology

Introduction to techniques commonly used in current neurobiological research, including intracellular and extracellular recording of action potentials, neuroanatomical methods, and computer simulation of the action potential. —B. O’Gara
Prerequisites or corequisites: BIO BC 3362.
Enrollment limited to 16 students.
3 points. Tu 1:10-6:00

BIO BC 3370x
General Ecology

Effects of selected physicochemical environmental factors on organisms in populations and communities; characteristics of major terrestrial and aquatic ecosystems; human influences on the environment. —Instructor TBA.
Prerequisites: BIO BC 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004, or the equivalent. A course in general chemistry is recommended. Alternate years.
3 points. Not offered in 1996-97.

BIO BC 3372x
Population and Community Ecology

Introduction to evolutionary ecology; life history strategies, population growth, competition, predator-prey interactions, population regulation, species diversity, community organization, biogeography. Lectures integrate theory with empirical studies. —P. Hertz Prerequisites: BIO BC 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004, and any additional Biology course. Alternate years.
3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50

BIO BC 3373y
Laboratory in Ecology

The definition of ecological problems in experimentally tractable ways; the design of experiments and analysis of ecological data; class projects on population ecology. Students conduct individual projects during last month of term. —P. Hertz Prerequisite or corequisite BC 3370 or BC 3372.

Enrollment limited to 16 students. Alternate years.
3 points. M 1:10-6:00

BIO BC 3374y
Epidemiology

Principles of epidemiology and the application of epidemiologic methods to the study of populations. Topics include study designs in epidemiology; determinants of exposure and outcome; analytic issues in acute, communicable, and chronic disease epidemiology; introductory genetic, molecular, and environmental epidemiology. —R. McChesney
Prerequisites: BC 2001, 2002, or the equivalent.
3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50

BIO BC 3380y
Evolution

A study of the process of evolution with emphasis on the mechanisms underlying evolutionary change. Topics include rates and direction of evolution, genetics of the evolutionary process, adaptive significance of sex and life history variation, coevolution. —H. Young Prerequisites: BC 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004, or the equivalent.
3 points. M W F 11:00-11:50

BIO BC 3386x
Biometry

Application of quantitative approaches and statistical methods to the analysis of biological problems; data collection, descriptive statistics, probability theory, inferential statistics. Computer applications for data analysis. Examples to be drawn from contemporary biology. —R. McChesney Prerequisites: BC 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004, college-level algebra, or the equivalent. Enrollment limited to 16 students.
4 points. M W F 11:00-11:50 plus two-hour required computer practicum TBA.

Senior Seminars in Biology

Required of all majors who do not select Guided Research (BIO BC 3591) to fulfill the senior requirement, these seminars allow students to explore the primary literature in the Biological Sciences in greater depth than can be achieved in a lecture course. Attention will be focused on both theoretical and empirical work. Seminar periods are devoted to oral reports and discussion of assigned readings and student reports. Students will write one extensive literature review of a topic related to the central theme of the seminar section.

Guided Research in Biology

Independent research in the department to suit the needs of the individual student in consultation with faculty sponsor. Participation in department Research Seminar (BC 3595) required.—Staff
Prerequisites: Three semesters of college biology and permission of a faculty sponsor. Corequisite: BC 3595. Graded with a letter grade or P*/D/F at the discretion of the faculty supervisor.
 4 points. Hours for research and seminar TBA.

BIO BC 3592x, y

External Research in Biology

Research projects conducted outside the department developed in consultation with a faculty member who serves as cosponsor. —Staff

Prerequisites: Three semesters of college biology and permission of a faculty cosponsor. 1-4 points. Hours TBA. NOTE: BC 3592 does not receive credit toward the biology major. Graded P*/D/F.

BIO BC 3593x-3594y

Research and Seminar in Biopsychology

Independent research under faculty supervision culminating in a research paper and oral presentation. Throughout the year, weekly seminars will be used to discuss research approaches, methodological difficulties, and data analysis. —Staff
Prerequisites: Six of the required courses for the biopsychology major.
 4 points. Hours TBA.

BIO BC 3595 x,y

Research Seminar

Discussions of approaches to research, methods of scientific communication, and the presentation of scientific data, culminating in a paper and oral report of the results of a research project guided by a faculty sponsor. —R. McChesney
Corequisite: BC 3591.
 1 point. Hours TBA.

NOTE: Students may take any of the following courses as elective lectures or elective laboratories in fulfillment of the major requirement. Prior permission must be obtained from the Chair of the Barnard Biology Department before other Columbia courses can be used to fulfill the Biology major requirement.

BIOPSYCHOLOGY

1203 Altschul Hall

854-2437

Advisers: Bruce O’Gara (Biological Sciences), Rae Silver (Psychology)

The program in Biopsychology is jointly administered by the departments of Biological Sciences and Psychology, and students should maintain contact with the advisers in both departments. A major in Biopsychology provides a strong background in the behavioral sciences and is intended for students who plan to pursue a research career in Biopsychology or Behavioral/Cognitive Neuroscience or related disciplines. Students electing this track are exposed to basic courses in Biology and Psychology and advanced courses necessary for the study of behavior. All students engage in two semesters of independent research in the senior year. Substitutions for required courses may be allowed with the approval of both advisers. To become a Biopsychology major, students must have completed at least two required courses in each discipline (Biology, Chemistry, and Psychology) before the beginning of their junior year with a B average in these courses.

The major examination consists of the Graduate Record Examination in either Psychology or Biology.

Students may also arrange interdisciplinary programs by electing a major in either Psychology or Biological Sciences and a minor in the other discipline, or by planning a double major. There is no minor in Biopsychology.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Psychology	BC 1001	Introduction to Psychology
Biology	BC 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004	Introductory Biology
Psychology	BC 1105	Psychology of Learning with Laboratory
Biology	BC 3280	Animal Behavior

Cognate Courses

The following chemistry courses are required: BC 1601, BC 3328, and BC 3230. Students are encouraged to take additional courses in chemistry, physics, and math if they intend to apply to medical or graduate schools.

Professors: Sally Chapman (Chair, Spring), Leslie Lessinger¹ (Chair, Fall)

Assistant Professors: Elise Megehee, Marco Pagnotta, Daniel Robie, Ann Shinnar

Director of General Chemistry Laboratories: Olympia Jebejian

Director of Organic Chemistry Laboratories: Heidi Reese

Associates: James Carter, Jean Donahue, Frances Feerst, Gauri Gupta, Toby Holtz, Colette Levi, Suqing Liu, Meenakshi Rao

¹Absent on leave Spring term

Chemistry is the study of the nature of substances and their transformations. In a three-year sequence of core courses, a chemistry or biochemistry major gains familiarity with the basic areas of the field: inorganic, organic, physical, and analytical chemistry. In addition, she acquires sufficient skill in the laboratory so that she is prepared for independent research.

Students who have taken the Advanced Placement Test may be given advanced placement and one semester's credit with scores of 4 or 5, if they present evidence of satisfactory laboratory experience.

The laboratories of the department are modern and well equipped both for coursework and for independent projects. Students may undertake independent research projects under the guidance of members of the department during the academic year or the summer; some student work has been published in chemical journals. Opportunities are also available for undertaking research projects with members of the staff of one of the many medical schools or research institutions in New York City, as well as with the Columbia faculty.

Students wishing to fulfill the minimum two-year chemistry requirement for medical school should take Chemistry BC 1601, General Chemistry; Chemistry BC 3328, BC 3230, and BC 3231, Organic Chemistry I and II with laboratory; and Chemistry BC 3232, Intermediate General Chemistry. The laboratory courses Chemistry BC 3333 and 3338 are recommended.

Credit will not be given for any course below the 3000 level after completing Chemistry BC 3230 or its equivalent.

The laboratory fee covers the cost of non-returnable items, laboratory manuals, chemicals, and other consumable supplies, as well as reasonable breakage. Enrollment is limited in all laboratories; students must sign up during the preregistration period.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Two majors are offered by the department: chemistry and biochemistry. A major examination is required for both chemistry and biochemistry; there is no senior essay required for either. Qualified seniors are invited to participate in the senior honors program in which they carry out a year-long research project leading to a thesis.

Chemistry

A student who is interested in chemistry should consult any member of the department during her first year. In the first year she should take Chemistry BC 1601, BC 3328, and BC 3230, and start or continue the study of calculus. It is then possible for her to fulfill the basic requirements for the major in three years and to take advanced courses in the senior year. After completing the undergraduate curriculum, students are encouraged to take graduate courses in chemistry or biochemistry at Columbia, and to undertake independent research projects.

Courses required for the chemistry major are:

Chemistry BC 1601	General Chemistry I
Chemistry BC 3328, 3230	Organic Chemistry I with Laboratory
Chemistry BC 3231	Organic Chemistry II
Chemistry BC 3335	Modern Techniques of Organic Chemistry Laboratory
Chemistry BC 3340	Quantitative and Instrumental Techniques Laboratory
Chemistry BC 3252	Introduction to Thermodynamics and Kinetics
Chemistry BC 3253	Structure, Bonding, and Spectroscopy
Chemistry BC 3254	Methods and Applications in Physical Chemistry
Chemistry BC 3271	Inorganic Chemistry
Chemistry BC 3365, 3368	Physical Chemistry Laboratory
Mathematics	Calculus I and II in any sequence (S, A, or honors)
Physics BC 1206, 1207 or V 1301, 1302 with V 1391, 1392, or C 1401, 1402 with C 1491, 1492	Calculus-based Physics with Laboratory

Recommended: Calculus III.

A list of major requirements, several possible course sequences, and information about the major examination may be obtained from any member of the department.

Research experience is strongly recommended for students planning graduate study. Students interested in taking Chemistry BC 3599 should consult with individual faculty members about the research problems currently being investigated.

Biochemistry

Courses required for the biochemistry major are:

Chemistry BC 1601	General Chemistry I
Chemistry BC 3328, 3230	Organic Chemistry I with Laboratory
Chemistry BC 3231	Organic Chemistry II
Chemistry BC 3333	Modern Techniques of Organic Chemistry Laboratory
Chemistry BC 3338	Quantitative and Instrumental Techniques Laboratory
Chemistry BC 3252	Introduction to Thermodynamics and Kinetics
Chemistry BC 3253	Structure, Bonding, and Spectroscopy
Chemistry BC 3254	Methods and Applications in Physical Chemistry
Mathematics	Calculus I and II in any sequence (S, A, or honors)

A 3-point elective course from a list of approved Biology and Chemistry courses.

A list of major requirements, including the courses from which the advanced laboratory and lecture electives are to be selected, and information about the major examination, may be obtained from any member of the department.

CHEMISTRY

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Courses required for the Chemistry minor are: Chemistry BC 1601, BC 3328, BC 3230, BC 3231, BC 3333, BC 3338, and BC 3232 or BC 3252. There is no minor in biochemistry.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

CHE BC 1601x General Chemistry I

Particulate nature of matter in various states; chemical transformations, especially of ionic substances; properties of gases; solutions; equilibrium; acid-base, precipitation, and oxidation-reduction reactions; thermochemistry; laboratory experience with both qualitative and quantitative techniques. —S. Chapman, E. Megehee, D. Robie, O. Jebejian, and associates

Prerequisite: Algebra (Math SAT I score of 600 or permission of the instructor for first-year students).
5 points. Lecture Tu Th 9:10-10:25
Recitation one afternoon M T W Th or F 1:10-2:00.
Laboratory same afternoon as recitation M Tu W Th or F 2:00-5:00, or F 9:00-12:00. Lecture and lab must be taken together unless permission of the instructor is given at the time of program filing.
Laboratory fee: $28.

CHE BC 1602y General Chemistry II

Kinetics and mechanisms of chemical reactions; nuclear chemistry and radioactivity; atomic and molecular structure; selected topics in environmental chemistry, organic chemistry, and biochemistry. —D. Robie

Prerequisite: BC 1601 or permission of the instructor. Students who have completed BC 3230 or its equivalent may not subsequently receive credit toward the degree for BC 1602. Primarily for majors in fields other than science.

5 points. Lecture Tu Th 9:10-10:25
Recitation one afternoon M or F 1:10-2:00
Laboratory same afternoon as recitation M or F 2:00-5:00. Laboratory fee: $28.

CHE BC 1702y General Chemistry II Laboratory

Laboratory portion of Chemistry BC 1602.

—M. Rao, O. Jebejian

Prerequisite: General Chemistry I with laboratory.
Corequisite: General Chemistry II lectures and permission of the instructor.

2 points.
Recitation one afternoon M or F 1:10-2:00
Laboratory same afternoon as recitation M or F 2:00-5:00. Laboratory fee: $28.

CHE BC 3328y Introductory Organic Chemistry Laboratory

Basic techniques of experimental organic chemistry. Principles and methods of separation, purification, and characterization of organic compounds. Selected organic reactions.

—H. Reese and associates

Prerequisite: BC 1601 or equivalent with grade of C or better, or BC 1601 and BC 1602 or equivalent.

Corequisite: BC 3230 or equivalent.

2.5 points. Lecture one afternoon M Tu W Th or F 1:00-1:50. Laboratory same afternoon as lecture M Tu W Th or F 1:50-5:30, or W or F 8:00-12:00.
Laboratory fee: $35.

CHE BC 3230y Organic Chemistry I

Atomic and molecular structure; introduction to aliphatic and aromatic chemistry with emphasis on modern theories; organic reaction mechanisms, stereochemistry, and spectroscopy. —M. Pagnotta

Prerequisite: BC 1601 or equivalent with a grade of C or better, or BC 1601 and BC 1602 or equivalent.

Credit will not be given for any course below the 3000 level after completing Chemistry BC 3230 or its equivalent.

3 points. Lecture Tu Th 9:10-10:25

Problem section F 12:00-12:50

CHE BC 3231x Organic Chemistry II

Continued treatment of the topics of Organic Chemistry I with extensions and an introduction to biological compounds and bio-macromolecules.

—M. Pagnotta

Prerequisite: BC 3230.

3 points. Lecture M W F 10:00-10:50

Problem section Tu 12:00-12:50

CHE BC 3232y Intermediate General Chemistry

Selected aspects of general chemistry, primarily for premedical and biological science students without the background for Chemistry BC 3252.

Thermodynamics, equilibrium, kinetics, complex ions and coordination compounds, and radiochemistry, with applications to analytical chemistry and biochemistry. —E. Megehee

Prerequisites: BC 1601 and Organic Chemistry I.

BC 3230 may be taken as a corequisite with permission of the instructor. Optional parallel laboratory work: BC 3338. Chemistry C 1404 is not an acceptable equivalent for BC 3232.

3 points. Lecture M W F 10:00-10:50

CHE BC 3333x

Modern Techniques of Organic Chemistry Laboratory

Introduction to qualitative and quantitative organic analysis and to advanced techniques, emphasizing instrumental and chromatographic methods. Selected reactions. —M. Pagnotta

Prerequisites: BC 3230 and BC 3328. C 3543 is not acceptable. Corequisite: BC 3231.

3 points. Lecture Th 1:10-2:00

Laboratory one afternoon Tu 1:10-5:30 or Th 2:10-6:00 or F 12:10-4:30. Laboratory fee: $35.

CHE BC 3335x

Modern Techniques of Organic Chemistry Laboratory

Identical to BC 3333, plus a library problem, a short project, and additional preparative experiments. —M. Pagnotta

Prerequisites: BC 3328 and BC 3230. C 3543 is not acceptable. Corequisite: BC 3231.

5 points. Lecture Th 1:10-2:00

Laboratory two afternoons Tu 1:10-5:30, Th 2:10-6:30. Laboratory fee: $35.

CHE BC 3337x

Modern Techniques of Organic Chemistry Laboratory

Prerequisite: BC 3333x.

2 points.

Laboratory one afternoon Tu 1:10-5:30 or Th 2:10-6:30 or F 12:10-4:30

Note: CHE BC 3333x + 3337x = 3335x

CHE BC 3338y

Quantitative and Instrumental Techniques Laboratory

Quantitative techniques in volumetric analysis, radiochemistry, spectrophotometry, and pH measurement. Applications of computers.

—S. Chapman and O. Jebejian

Corequisite for students not majoring in chemistry or biochemistry: BC 3232 or BC 3252.

3 points. Lecture Tu 1:10-2:00

Lab one afternoon Tu 2:10-6:00 or Th 1:10-5:00

Laboratory fee: $35.

CHE BC 3340y

Quantitative and Instrumental Techniques Laboratory

Identical with BC 3338, but with a greater variety and number of experiments. —S. Chapman and O. Jebejian

Corequisite for students not majoring in chemistry or biochemistry: BC 3232 or BC 3252.

5 points. Lecture Tu 1:10-2:00

Laboratory two afternoons Tu 2:10-6:00 and

Th 1:10-5:00. Laboratory fee: $35.

CHE BC 3342y

Prerequisite: BC 3338y.

2 points.

Laboratory one afternoon Tu 2:10-6:00 or

Th 1:10-5:00

Note: CHE BC 3338y + 3342y = 3340y

CHE BC 3252y

Introduction to Thermodynamics and Kinetics

Introduction to the laws of thermodynamics; application primarily to ideal systems. Free energy and equilibrium. Kinetics: rate laws and mechanisms, experimental techniques. —D. Robie

Prerequisites: CHE BC 3231, Physics I (Mechanics), and Calculus II.

4 points. Lecture M W F 10:00-10:50, F 12:00-12:50

CHE BC 3253x

Structure, Bonding, and Spectroscopy

Introduction to quantum chemistry. The structure of atoms and molecules. Energy levels and spectra. —L. Lessinger

Prerequisites: Physics II and Calculus II.

4 points. Lecture M W F 11:00-11:50, M 12:00-12:50

CHE BC 3254y

Methods and Applications in Physical Chemistry

Applications of thermodynamics to real systems; activities, electrochemistry. Transport properties. Kinetic theory of gases. Radiochemistry. Solids and crystallography. —L. Lessinger

Prerequisites: CHE BC 3252, 3253

4 points. Lecture M W F 11:00-11:50, M 12:00-12:50

CHE BC 3271x

Introduction to Inorganic Chemistry

Structure and reactivity of inorganic compounds: bonding, reaction mechanisms, selected main group chemistry, transition metal chemistry, organometallics, clusters, catalysis, and bioinorganic chemistry.

—E. Megehee

Prerequisite: CHE BC 3230y.

3 points. Lecture Tu Th 9:10-10:25

CHE BC 3282y

Biological Chemistry

Detailed introduction to biochemical building blocks, macromolecules, and metabolism.

Structures of amino acids, lipids, carbohydrates, nucleic acids. Protein structure, allostery, enzyme mechanisms, and kinetics. Membranes. Catabolism and anabolism with emphasis on chemical intermediates, metabolic energy, catalysis by specific enzymes. Nucleoside and polynucleotide structure. Special topic: site-directed mutagenesis and protein engineering. —A. Shinnar

Prerequisite: One year of organic chemistry, one year of biology.

3 points. Lecture M W F 9:00-9:50

CHE BC 3355x

Biochemistry Laboratory Techniques

Fundamental techniques used in the isolation, characterization, and study of biomolecules. Homogenization, centrifugation, solvent extraction, salt fractionation, chromatography, electrophoresis, chemical and enzymic assays, enzyme kinetics, and simple genetic cell transformation methods. —A. Shinnar

Prerequisites: One year of Organic Chemistry, one year of Biology, four semesters of Chemistry and Biology laboratory, and CHE BC 3282 or Biology-Chemistry C 3501 or Biochemistry G 4021.

5 points. Lecture Tu 1:10-2:00

Laboratory Tu 2:10-6:00 and Th 1:10-5:00

Lab fee: $45.

CHE 3357x

Biochemistry Laboratory Techniques

Identical to BC 3355, but experiments are modified to be accomplished in one laboratory period per week. This course may be of particular interest to biology and chemistry majors. —A. Shinnar

Prerequisites: Same as BC 3355.

3 points. Lecture Tu 1:10-2:00

Laboratory Tu 2:10-6:00 or Th 1:10-5:00 Lab fee: $35.

CHE BC 3365x

Physical Chemistry Laboratory

Experiments in kinetics, thermodynamics, and electrochemistry using instrumental methods; preparation and characterization of inorganic compounds; some computer applications. —D. Robie

Prerequisites: BC 3252 and BC 3338 or equivalent.

3 points. Lecture Tu 12:00-12:50

Laboratory M W 1:10-5:00. Schedule TBA.

Lab fee: $35.

CHE BC 3368y

Physical Chemistry Laboratory

Experiments in various types of spectroscopy.

—E. Megehee

Prerequisites: Identical to those for BC 3365.

3 points. Lecture Tu 12:00-12:50

Laboratory M W 1:10-5:00. Schedule TBA.

CHE BC 3598x, 3598y

External Problems in Chemistry

Individual research projects at other institutions. —Staff

Prerequisites: Completion of laboratory courses BC 3333 and BC 3338. Mandatory pass/fail grading. Permission of the instructor (a Barnard professor who will act as liaison) is required.

4 points.

Problems in Chemistry

Individual research projects at Barnard. —Staff

Prerequisites: Completion of laboratory courses BC 3333 and BC 3338. Permission of the instructor required.

4 points. Eight hours by arrangement.

Laboratory fee: $35.

Senior Honors Thesis

Guided research in Chemistry or Biochemistry, under the sponsorship of a faculty member, leading to the senior thesis. Weekly seminar. —Staff

Enrollment restricted to seniors, by invitation of the department.

4 points. F 2:00-2:50 and 8 hours research TBA.

SUMMER RESEARCH

A number of fellowships for summer research within the department are available. Individual members of the department should be consulted, early in the spring semester, about the availability of projects.

The objective of the department is to provide students with a knowledge of the language and an understanding of the literature and civilization of the ancient Greeks and Romans. The close cooperation of Barnard and Columbia in planning and implementing the curriculum offers students a wide range of specialties from which to construct a sound and coherent program of studies according to their individual interests. All members of the Barnard department are available as advisers and should be consulted as early as possible in the planning of a major program.

Students may fulfill the foreign language requirement in Greek by completing Greek V 1201 and V 1202, or in Latin by completing Latin V 1201 and V 1202, or by completing one semester of study above Greek V 1201 and V 1202 or Latin V 1201 and V 1202, or by passing an exemption examination with a sufficiently high grade. This examination tests the student's knowledge of grammar and her ability to translate written Greek or Latin.

The Classics Department is the beneficiary of the Matthew Alan Kramer Fund, whose principal purpose is the support of the production of plays in Ancient Greek and Latin. In recent years students of the department have produced Antigone, Medea, Alcestis, Persians, Eumenides, Cyclops, Electra, Clouds, Trojan Women, Rudens, Helen, Trachiniae, Bacchae, and Hippolytus, which have not only proved satisfying in themselves, but have provided an exciting and different learning experience for the participants.

Barnard College participates in the program of the Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies in Rome. Majors in Classics or Ancient Studies are eligible to apply for admission to the program of the Rome Center for one semester, preferably in the junior year. Courses taken at the Rome Center may be used in the major and, in some cases, may be used to satisfy distribution requirements. Barnard College is a Supporting Institution of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens and the American Academy in Rome, and certain privileges of those schools are open without fee to graduates of the College.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR IN GREEK, LATIN, AND GREEK AND LATIN

The major in Greek or Latin requires a minimum of eight courses above the elementary level.

In Greek, this would be fulfilled by taking

Greek W 4139 Elements of Greek Prose Style

Greek W 4105-W 4106 History of Greek Literature and five others, including Greek V 3996x Major Seminar.

In Latin, this would be fulfilled by taking Latin W 4139 Elements of Latin Prose Style
Latin W 4105-W 4106. History of Latin Literature and five others, including Latin V 3996x Major Seminar.

Greek or Latin V 3998 may be substituted for a semester of the survey, but students planning to go on to graduate study in classics are strongly urged to take both semesters of W 4105, W 4106.

In addition, two semesters of ancient history appropriate to the major are required. For one of these, however, a relevant course in ancient art, classical civilization or literature, ancient philosophy, or religion may be substituted.

Majors in Latin, especially those who have begun their study in high school, are strongly advised to take at least two semesters of Greek.

A student may elect to major in both Greek and Latin by completing the major requirements in one language and five courses above the elementary level in the other.

Note: For the requirements for the major in Ancient Studies, see Ancient Studies.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor in Greek or Latin requires five courses above the elementary level.

CLASSICS IN TRANSLATION

There are no prerequisites for the Classical Literature or Classical Civilization courses unless specially noted.

Classical Literature CLL V 3123x
Greek Drama and Its Influences

Evolution of various types of tragedy and comedy from the 5th century B.C.E. in Athens to the 1st century C.E. in Rome; relation of these forms to later European dramatic forms; theories of comedy and tragedy including those of Aristotle; the production of plays.
3 points. Not offered in 1996-97. III H

Classical Myth

Survey of major myths from the ancient Near East to the advent of Christianity, with emphasis upon the content and treatment of myths in classical authors (Homer, Hesiod, Aeschylus, Euripides, Sophocles, Vergil, Livy, Ovid). —S. Said
3 points. M W 2:40-3:55 III H

Classical Literature CLL V 3135y
The Ancient Novel

3 points. Not offered in 1996-97. III H

Classical Literature CLL W 4300y
The Classical Tradition

Social, political, intellectual, and religious contexts in which epic, lyric, tragic, and comic poetry originally developed in Greece; Roman adaptations and their influence on modern authors. —N. Worman

3 points. M W 6:10-7:25 III H

Classical Literature CLL W 4100x
The Reception of Antiquity

3 points. Not offered in 1996-97. III H

Classical Literature CLL W 4115x
Tragedy and Performance

An intensive study of issues relating to the interpretation and performance of Greek and Roman tragedy, including modern stage versions. Special consideration will be given to staging, the changing role of actors and chorus, Aristotle's Poetics and the reception of ancient tragedy, as well as to social and philosophical issues, including gender conflict. —H. Foley
3 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55 I H

Classical Civilization CLC W4110y
Gender and Sexuality in Ancient Greece

Sophomore standing or permission of the instructor.

Classical Civilization CLC V4100y
The Handwritten Book

3 points. Not offered in 1996-97. III H

Classical Civilization CLC V 3158x
Women in Antiquity

The role of women in ancient Greek and Latin literature; the portrayal of women in literature as opposed to their actual social status; male and female in ancient Mediterranean cosmologies; readings from ancient epics, lyric drama, history, historical documents, medical texts, oratory, and philosophy, as well as from contemporary sociological and anthropological works that help to analyze the origins of the Western attitude toward women. —H. Foley

3 points. Tu Th 11:00-12:15 I H

Classical Civilization CLC V 3162x
Ancient Law

Greek and Roman legal systems; archaic law in its social context; philosophy of law; development of private law in Rome. —J. Zetzel
3 points. Tu Th 9:10-10:25 III S

Classical Civilization CLC V 3164y
The Emperor Nero and the Roman World

Literature and society in the reign of Nero: the impact of the emperor on life and the arts. Readings mainly in primary sources, including Petronius, Seneca, and Tacitus. —A. Feldherr

GRE V 1221y
Intensive Intermediate Greek

Covers the content of Greek V 1201 and 1202 in one term. Readings from Lysias, early elegiac and lyric poetry, and the Iliad. —J. Farr
Prerequisite: V 1101-V 1102, or V 1121.
4 points. M W F 9:10-10:25 H

GRE V 3309x
Selections from Greek Literature: Prose

Contents of this course changes from year to year; it may be taken in consecutive years. Topic for 1996-97: Selections from Thucydides —J. Coulter Prerequisites: Greek V 1201-1202, or their equivalents.
3 points. M W 11:00-12:15 H

GRE V 3310y

Selections from Greek Literature: Poetry

Content of course changes each year; it may be taken in consecutive years. Topic for 1996-97: Selections from Greek lyric. —N. Worman
Prerequisite: Greek V 1201-1202, or their equivalents.
 3 points. M W 2:40-3:55 H

Major Seminar

Required for all majors in classics and classical studies. The topic will change from year to year but will always be broad enough to accommodate students in the languages as well as those in the interdisciplinary major. Topic for 1996-97: Tragedy. Readings in Greek, Latin, and English translation as appropriate, weekly presentation of short papers and discussion, one long paper. —G. Williams

Prerequisites: Junior standing

4 points. Th 4:10-6:00 H

GRE V 3997x, GRE V 3997y

Directed Reading

To be tested by a series of short papers, one long paper, or an oral or written examination. —Staff
Permission of the department chair required.
 3 points. Hours TBA.

GRE V 3998x, GRE V 3998y

Supervised Research in Greek Literature

Program of research in Greek literature, with the composition of a paper embodying results. —Staff
Permission of the department chair required.
 3 points. Hours TBA.

GRE W 4009y

Selections from Greek Literature: Prose

Content of course changes from year to year; it may be taken in consecutive years. Topic for 1996-97: Detailed readings from Plato's Gorgias. —L. Tarán Prerequisites: GRE V 1201-1202, or their equivalents.

COMPARATIVE LITERATURE

226B Milbank Hall

854-4317

The program is supervised by the Committee on Comparative Literature.

Professors: Helene Foley (Classics, Co-chair), Richard F. Gustafson¹ (Slavic, Co-chair), Marcia Welles (Spanish)

Associate Professors: Christopher Baswell (English), Irene Bloom (Asian and Middle Eastern Cultures), Catharine Nepomnyashchy (Slavic)

Assistant Professors: Antonella Ansani (Italian), Sigrid Berka (German), Peter T. Connor (French)

Advisory Board: Elizabeth Dalton (English), Serge Gavronsky (French), Maire Januus (English), Lydia Lenaghan (Classics), Mirella Servodidio (Spanish)

¹Absent on leave 1996-97

The program enables the student to pursue the study of at least two literatures in two different languages and to explore the possibilities and methods of literary study both historically and across national boundaries. In consultation with her adviser, the student will shape a program that will give her a firm foundation in her two central literatures and in one major period, genre, theme, or theoretical issue.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

To enter the program a student must normally have completed the required sequence necessary for entry into the advance literature courses of her major program. This varies from language to language; students should consult the chair. Each student, after consultation with the chair, chooses an adviser from one of her two literature departments. This adviser guides her in developing a sequence of courses appropriate for her goals in the major. All students are required to take Comparative Literature BC 3001 and 14 courses normally to be chosen from the following categories:

One course in appropriate classical texts chosen from The Classical Tradition (CLL W 4300), Introduction to the Hebrew Bible (REL V 3201), Introduction to the New Testament (REL V 3202), Asian Humanities (AHU V 3399 or V 3400), or other courses with approval of the adviser.

One course in literary theory, such as ENG BC 3194, FRE BC 3048 (x or y), CPLT C 3114, C 3415, LIT G 4002, 4003.

Three courses from each of two literary traditions studied in the original languages. Foreign literature courses must be beyond the introductory level.

Five elected courses in literature or literary theory (studied in the original or in translation) related to the student's individual program.

One course, either an appropriate seminar or a tutorial, for the writing of a senior thesis. The Senior Thesis must deal with material from at least the two central literatures in the student's major. In addition this thesis must treat, at least in part, the one period, genre, theme, or theoretical issue that has shaped the student's program. The choice of topic for this senior essay and the appointment of a second adviser are determined in consultation with the area adviser and the chair of the program.

Students who wish to major in Comparative Literature, but who for valid reasons wish to pursue a program at variance with the above model, should consult the chair.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

CPL BC 3001xIntroduction to Comparative Literature: Representation and Encounter

Introduction to the study of literature from a comparative and cross-disciplinary perspective. Readings will be selected to promote reflection on such topics as the relation of literature to the other arts; nationalism and literature; international literary movements; post-colonial literature; gender and literature; and issues of authorship, influence, originality, and intertextuality. —P. Computer science is the study of how to communicate and transform information. Developments in the field over the past few decades have profoundly changed society, and this effect is likely to accelerate in the future. Information processing techniques are being applied increasingly in the fields of medicine, business, law, science, and finance. The goal of the theoretical side of computer science is to characterize the inherent complexity of computations, including the issue of what problems are solvable. The goal of the applied side of the field is to design cost-effective computer systems that are easy and pleasant to use, including the possibility of “intelligent” systems that mimic some aspects of human behavior.

The bachelor of arts degree in Computer Science encourages students to obtain broad exposure to the arts, humanities, and social sciences while at the same time providing them with the appropriate Computer Science background necessary for graduate study or a professional career. Computers have an impact on nearly all areas of human endeavor, so the department also offers several courses intended for students who plan a Computer Science major concentration.

The Computer Science major offers maximum flexibility by providing students with a range of options for specializing their degree programs. Students study a common core of fundamental topics, supplemented by a “track” that identifies specific areas for deeper study. The theory track prepares students for advanced work in fundamental theoretical and mathematical aspects of computing, including analysis of algorithms, scientific computing, and complexity of problems. The computer systems track prepares students for immediate employment in the computer industry as well as advanced study in such areas as software engineering, operating systems, programming languages, user interfaces, and computer architecture. The intelligent systems track provides specialization for students interested in artificial intelligence, natural language processing, computer vision, and robotics. A self-defined track is available to students who wish to pursue their own courses of study under the guidance of a faculty adviser. A student planning a self-defined track should be aware that one additional Computer Science course is required to complete this option.

Academic computing needs are met by University computing facilities, which include a variety of networked workstations, such as SUN, HP, and NeXT machines. Students can also work in a PC or MAC environment. Qualified majors often serve as consultants at the Computer Center.

In addition to taking traditional classes, students sometimes assist faculty members on research projects, opting for either independent study or a senior thesis.

The department has well-equipped lab areas for research in robotics, computer vision, distributed and mobile computing, computer graphics, natural language processing, programming environments, and parallel architectures. Departmental facilities include numerous SUN 4 servers, SUN, HP, Digital, IBM, and NeXT workstations, and an HP parallel cluster, plus state-of-the-art experimental equipment. Specialized equipment includes various robotic arms, a UTAH-MIT dextrous hand, an Aspex PIPE (an 8-stage parallel pipeline, low-level image processor), Turbo VRX, HP CRX48Z, and SGI Indigo2 Extreme 3D graphics workstations with true 3D input (via a Cricket) and a StereoGraphics stereo display system, a locally built see-through head-mounted display, a high-resolution color scanner, and experimental packet-radio-based workstations. The department network is gatewayed to a campus-wide backbone network as well as to Internet and USENET. Their research facility is supported by a full-time staff of professional systems programmers and engineers, aided by many part-time student technicians.

There are several different introductory courses in computer programming. Students may elect only one of them for degree credit. First-year students considering a Computer Science major should take W 1007. By taking an introductory course early in their college years, non-majors are able to use the computers more effectively in their upper-level studies in other departments.

The primary programming language for the undergraduate majors is C. This is taught in CSC W 1007 and is heavily used thereafter. LISP is used for many courses in the Intelligent Systems track.

NOTE: Students majoring or minoring in Computer Science should take Computer Science W 1007 and W 3139, rather than Computer Science W 1003 and W 3131. Students who have taken Computer Science W 1003 before Autumn 1989 or W 3131 before Autumn 1990 may still count these other courses toward a major or minor, or use them to satisfy the prerequisites of advanced courses.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Students who plan to major in Computer Science should see a Program Consultant by the start of the sophomore year.

COURSES: 40 or 43 points. Required CSC courses, 19 points: CSC W 1007, CSC W 3139, CSC W 3156, CSC W 3203, CSC W 3261, CSC W 3824. Required mathematics course, 3 points: one semester of calculus. Each student must also fulfill the track elective requirement by selecting either a 12-point "area track" or the 15-point "self-defined track" option. Supplemental elective requirement, 6 points: any 6 points chosen in CSC courses numbered 3000-level or higher, with the exceptions of 3101 and 3131, not including those courses used to fulfill the track selection. The faculty adviser may approve one upper level, highly relevant non-CSC course to fulfill part of the supplemental elective requirement.

THEORY TRACK, 12 points: for students interested in theoretical aspects of computer science, including algorithmic analysis, problem complexity, and computational modeling: the three courses CSC W 4231, W 4236, and W 4241, and either CSC W 4203 or W 4205.

COMPUTER SYSTEMS TRACK, 12 points: for students interested in the design and implementation of software and/or hardware systems: four CSC courses numbered CSC W 41nm, W 38nm, or W 48nm, at least one of which is CSC W 41nm and at least one of which is either CSC W 38nm or CSC W 48nm. (CSC/Phil W 4801 and CSC/Phil W 4802 are not acceptable in this track.)

INTELLIGENT SYSTEMS TRACK, 12 points: for students interested in the design and implementation of systems that are capable of modifying their own behavior or of providing a human-like interface: either four of the courses (several of these will be offered each year) CSC W 4701, W 4705, W 4721, W 4725, W 4731, W 4733, and W 4771, or three of those courses and one additional course from among CSC W 4111, W 4160, W 4999: Computing and the Humanities, CSC W4165, and W4501.

N.B.: Occasionally a section of CSC W 4995 and/or W 4996 will qualify as a substitute within a track, if the relevant track adviser approves.

SELF-DEFINED PROGRAM OPTION, 15 points: any 15 points chosen in CSC courses from W

COMPUTER SCIENCE

3823 or those numbered at the 4000-level (except CSC W 4901), for which the student is able to obtain the support of a faculty member willing to serve as that student's program sponsor and adviser. Finding such a sponsor/adviser is the responsibility of the student.

N.B.: A second semester of calculus is prerequisite to some courses in some tracks. It is also a typical admissions requirement for graduate degree programs in Computer Science and for some forms of professional education, including but not limited to Medicine and Business.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Courses: 22 points. Required CSC courses, 19 points: CSC W 1007, CSC W 3203, CSC W 3139, CSC W 3156, CSC W 3261, and CSC W 3824; plus any 3 points chosen from CSC W 3823, CSC W 3902, CSC W 3998, or courses numbered 4000 or higher. Complete descriptions and course listings are available at <http://www.cs.columbia.edu> or in the Computer Science Department.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

CSC W 1001x, y

Introduction to Computers

An introductory course in computer science intended primarily for non-majors and targeted at humanities students. Use of computers for communications and for problem solving. Work is grounded in humanities applications, demonstrating how computers can be used for subjects as diverse as literature, foreign language, history, math, and science. Topics include the Internet, use of existing tools for problem solving, and programming, starting from a problem or task and arriving at a program which provides a solution. Taught in the Scheme dialect of LISP. —Instructor TBA.

DANCE

204 Barnard Hall Annex

854-2995

Professor: Sandra Genter (Chair)

Associate Professor: Donlin Foreman

Senior Lecturer: Janet Mansfield Soares

Assistant Professor: Ellen Graff

Adjunct Professor: Deborah Jowitt

Associates: Mary Lisa Burns, Katie Glasner, Katiti King, Elena Kunikova, Gloria Marina, Neta Pulvermacher

Technical Director for Dance: Rhonda Rubinson

The Barnard Dance Department seeks to develop technical versatility in dance performance, skill and originality in choreography, and critical understanding of the art of dance as a part of history and culture. Emphasis is placed on performing opportunities in ballet and modern idioms each semester, and on the encouragement of each student's growth as a creative artist.

Studios and theatres in New York City provide Barnard students opportunities to study and view an array of dance, while major libraries and dance institutions offer rich possibilities for research. The Dance Department regularly invites guest artists to teach and choreograph throughout the year.

All dance courses except Senior Seminar are open to students who meet the prerequisites. Barnard College Dance Department is an accredited institutional member of the National Association of Schools of Dance.

Students contemplating a dance major should consult with a member of the department in their first year. Declaration of the major requires departmental approval.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

A minimum of 13 courses are required for the dance major. In addition, majors normally take two technique courses per semester. A Senior Major Project must be completed either in a research thesis or a performance in dance under the supervision of a chosen department adviser.

I. Nine required courses must include:

DAN BC 2561	Kinesiology
DAN BC 2562	Movement Analysis
DAN BC 2563	Dance Composition: Form
DAN BC 2564	Dance Composition: Content
DAN BC 2565	History of Dance I: Multicultural Perspectives
DAN BC 2566	History of Dance II: Renaissance to the Present
DAN BC 3571	Performance Styles
DAN BC 3572	Repertory in Production
DAN BC 3591	Senior Seminar for Dance

II. Two courses elected from the following:

DAN BC 2555	Ensemble Dance Repertory
DAN BC 2567	Music for Dance
DAN BC 3574	Seminar on Contemporary Choreographers and Their Works
DAN BC 3576	Dance Criticism
DAN BC 3577	Performing the Political

- III. Two non-department courses to be elected in pursuit of the historical and cultural contexts of dance which will fulfill both the major and distribution requirements. Courses in art, philosophy of art, cultural history, music and theatre history, anthropology, and religion may be chosen with permission of department chair. One of these will fulfill distribution as well as major requirements. ARS BC 3031 Imagery and Form in the Arts is highly recommended.
- IV. A minimum of six points of dance technique courses.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Six courses constitute a minor in Dance. Normally, three history/criticism and three credit-bearing performance/choreography courses are taken. Courses are to be selected on the basis of consultation with the department chair.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

DAN BC 2561x

Kinesiology

Focus on physical sciences that relate to human movement, with an emphasis on functional anatomy. Topics include skeletal structure, physics of dance, muscular balance, and improving movement potential. —S. Genter
3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50

DAN BC 2562y

Movement Analysis

Study of the nature of human movement concentrating on the basic elements of space, time, and body dynamics through readings, viewings, experimentation, and discussion. Learning descriptive movement language and analytical skill from the concepts of Rudolph Laban and other movement theorists. Includes written and performance projects. —S. Genter

DANCE TECHNIQUE COURSES

Level I courses, except for Dance Styles courses, receive a P/D/F grade and have no prerequisite. All others will receive a letter grade and require a placement audition (at the first meeting) or permission of the instructor. All courses listed below may be taken for 0 credit to fulfill the physical education requirement. One-point dance technique courses taken by non-dance majors for credit over and above the physical education requirement are included in the existing maximum of 18 points of studio, performing art, or professional school courses which may be credited toward the degree; a maximum of six courses in dance technique can be credited. A student who takes more than two one-point dance technique courses for credit beyond the physical education requirement is required to validate the third and fourth dance technique courses in each of the two semesters with a concurrent course offered by the Dance Department which does not contain a technique component.

Modern Dance

The study of contemporary dance based on the work of 20th-century innovators, including Cunningham, Graham, Humphrey, Limón, and others. Aesthetic principles of modern dance will be taught with increased technical demands required at each successive level.

The Department of Economics offers a broad course of study in economic theory and applied economics. The study of economics is an important foundation for a student’s general understanding of modern history and society. Barnard’s major programs in economics also prepare students for graduate work in economics, business, law, public administration, and international relations and related fields, as well as for careers in business, finance, and government. The aims of the programs are: (i) to foster a critical understanding of economics and its relation to other disciplines; (ii) to develop students’ mastery of modern economic theory and its tools of analysis.

Students planning to major in economics or political economy should complete both intermediate macro- and microeconomic theory by the beginning of their junior year. Before they are allowed to register for the senior essay, students must have completed all of their required courses for the major, as well as those of their upper-level electives with intermediate micro- or macroeconomic theory as a prerequisite and, for Political Economy track majors, the upper-level political science course.

Students with a score of 4 or 5 on the Advanced Placement Examination in either macroeconomics or microeconomics will receive a total of three points of credit.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

There are two tracks for the major in economics equal in rigor, but different in scope and focus. The track in Economics teaches students the theory and the analytical and mathematical tools now expected of entering graduate students in economics and useful for graduate study in related fields such as business. The track in Political Economy emphasizes the roots of modern economics in the history of economic thought and the interconnections between social forces, political institutions, and economic power. This track constitutes an excellent preparation for a variety of professional schools and careers.

Prospective majors should discuss their programs with any member of the department no later than the second semester of their sophomore year. At the time of declaring the major, the student also chooses a major adviser, who will advise her as to choice of program and courses and help in the choice of a senior essay topic and adviser.

Students who wish to complete a double or joint major that includes economics should consult the chair of the department as early in their planning as possible.

Economics

The Economics track major requires one semester of calculus—a second semester is strongly recommended— and nine courses in economics, including:

ECONOMICS

ECO BC 3018	Econometrics
ECO BC 3033	Intermediate Macroeconomic Theory
ECO BC 3035	Intermediate Microeconomic Theory
ECO BC 3041	Theoretical Foundations of Political Economy;

one of the following:

ECO BC 2411	Statistics for Economics
STA W 1111	Introduction to Statistics
STA W 1001	Introduction to Statistical Reasoning; two electives with intermediate micro- or macroeconomic theory as a prerequisite; and

ECO BC 3061-3062	Senior Research Seminar.
------------------	---------------------------------

Political Economy

The Political Economy track major requires 11 courses, including:

ECO BC 3033	Intermediate Macroeconomic Theory
ECO BC 3035	Intermediate Microeconomic Theory
ECO BC 3041	Theoretical Foundations of Political Economy;

three electives with intermediate micro- or macroeconomic theory as a prerequisite;

two electives in economics (excluding introductory economics) or a related discipline;

one upper-level course in political science*; and

ECO BC 3061-3062	Senior Research Seminar.
------------------	---------------------------------

*The following political science courses are not considered upper level:

BC 3001	Dynamics of American Politics;
V 3505	Introduction to Comparative Politics;
V 3611	International Politics;
BC 3013	Political Theory.

Both Economics and Political Economy track majors must file the “Major Requirements Declaration” form—available from the department office—no later than at registration for the first semester of their senior year. This form must be approved by the chair before a student will be allowed to register for the senior thesis, BC 3061-3062.

We recommend that all Political Economy track majors — especially those who plan to go on to business school or to graduate school in public administration or international relations — take one semester of college-credit math (either pre-calculus or calculus) and Economics BC 2411. Political Economy track majors who plan to go on to graduate school Ph.D. programs in economics should take two years of mathematics, including one year of calculus and statistics and econometrics.

Mathematics Training for the Major

The department expects all majors to have a working knowledge of arithmetic, high-school algebra, and the fundamentals of analytic geometry.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor in economics requires five courses, including an introductory course in economics, BC 3033 or BC 3035, and three electives, one of which has an intermediate micro- or macroeconomic theory course as a prerequisite.

This program is supervised by the Committee on Economic History.

Economics: Linda Barrington (Program Adviser), Alan Dye

History: Deborah Valenze

The Economic History Program seeks to develop an understanding of the historical process from an economic perspective. The program combines a solid background in economic analysis with an in-depth study of history. Majors in this program will be prepared to enter graduate programs in law, business, public policy, or administration, as well as economics and history.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

A major in Economic History must complete the following 11 courses or their equivalents:

ECO BC 2013	Economic History of the United States
ECO BC 3041	Theoretical Foundations of Political Economy

Two of the following:

ECO 3033	Intermediate Macroeconomic Theory
ECO 3035	Intermediate Microeconomic Theory
ECO 2411	Statistics for Economics

ECH BC 3066 Colloquium in Economic History
(Students must have completed all the course requirements listed above ECH 3066 before taking the Colloquium.)

Four History courses (three within a single concentration) selected in consultation with the major adviser.

Two semesters of Senior Research Seminar in Economics or History.

(Students must have completed all the requirements for the major before they will be permitted to register for the Senior Research Seminar.)

No minor is offered in the Economic History Program.

COURSE OF INSTRUCTION

ECH BC 3066y
Colloquium in Economic History

Analytical and empirical methods in economic history through intensive study of one subject area, drawn from American and European economic history in alternate years. Specific topic to be determined by the instructor. —A. Dye

Prerequisites: ECO BC 2013, 3041, and two of the following: ECO BC 3033, 3035, 2411 or equivalent.
4 points. Tu Th 1:10-2:25

Economics Department Representative: Duncan Foley
Mathematics Department Representative: David Bayer

The Economics and Mathematics major provides the student with a grounding in economic theory comparable to that provided by the general economics major and exposes the student to rigorous and extensive training in mathematics. The program will be particularly useful for students planning to do graduate work in economics, which frequently demands greater mathematical training than that acquired through the minimum requirements of the basic economics degree.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

A major in Economics and Mathematics must complete the following 14 courses or their equivalents:

Economics: (7 courses)

ECO BC 3018	Econometrics
ECO BC 3033	Intermediate Macroeconomic Theory
ECO BC 3035	Intermediate Microeconomic Theory
ECO BC 3041	Theoretical Foundations of Political Economy
ECO BC 3062	Senior Research Seminar (two semesters of the Senior Research Seminar are optional)

Two electives with an intermediate micro- or macroeconomic theory course as prerequisite.

Mathematics: (7 courses)

MAT V 1105	Calculus IS
MAT V 1106	Calculus IIS
MAT V 2010	Linear Algebra
MAT W 4061	Introduction to Modern Analysis or
MAT V 2500	Analysis and Optimization
STAT-IEOR W 4150	Introduction to Probability and Statistics (this replaces ECO BC 2411 Statistics for Economics)

Two electives above the 2000 level.

Calculus IA, IIA, and IIIA or Honors Calculus may be substituted for IS, IIS with permission from the economics and mathematics department representatives. Students must obtain approval from each department representative before selecting electives. In exceptional cases, these may be from related fields.

854-2117, 5408, 7072, 7160

Senior Lecturer: Susan Riemer Sacks (Program Director)

Senior Associate: Katherine Knight Wilcox

Associate: Christine Valenza

This program is supervised by the Committee on Education:

Professor of English: Elizabeth Dalton

Professor of Spanish: Mirella Servodidio

Professor of Psychology: Peter Balsam

Associate Dean of Columbia College: Kathryn Yatrakis

Dean of Students, School of General Studies: Rick Ferrero

The Barnard Education Program is open to Barnard, Columbia, and General Studies students who are interested in teaching children or adolescents on the elementary or secondary level, who are considering working with young people or adults in human service agencies, or who are preparing for careers related to education. The Education Program concentration is taken in conjunction with a major in an approved field of study and may constitute a minor. Courses counted toward a major may not be doubly counted for a minor.

Interested students should consult with the Education Program faculty in 336 Milbank and obtain an information packet and application, along with the Admissions Policy. Enrollment for student teaching is limited. Applicants are accepted on the basis of good academic standing, evidence of interest in the field of education, and capacity for growth in areas vital to the teaching-learning experience. Students may apply for admission during the sophomore year and no later than the first Monday in October in the autumn term of the junior year. See Admissions Policy.

The Education Program is approved by the New York State Education Department. Graduates of the Program are recommended for New York State Provisional Certification, which makes them eligible for membership in the Interstate Certification Agreement, a reciprocal certification arrangement among thirty-one states. Consistent with the program requirements, certification is based on demonstration of competency in both academic and field settings. Students must pass the New York State Teacher Certification Examination as part of the certification process.

Elementary School Program

This program leads to the New York State Provisional Common Branch Certificate (pre-K–6). Students participating in the elementary program must complete 16 credits as follows:

One Psychology course, chosen from among:

Psychology BC 1105 or BC 1107

Psychology BC 1127 or BC 1129

Psychology BC 1130 or BC 1132

Psychology BC 2134

Psychology of Learning

Developmental Psychology

Human Memory and Learning

Educational Psychology

One Foundations course, chosen from among:

Philosophy V 3758

Sociology V 3225

Education BC 2032

History BC 3461

Philosophy of Education

Sociology of Education

Contemporary Issues in Education

Education in American History

A third course from either of the above categories, and the methods course with practicum:

Education BC 2052	Seminar in Methods of Elementary School Teaching
Education BC 2055	School Practicum

During the Spring term of their junior year, all students entering the elementary education program take Education BC 2052 and corequisite Education BC 2055. BC 2052 and BC 2055 are prerequisites to elementary student teaching.

Secondary School Program

Programs leading to the New York State Provisional Secondary Certificate (7–12) are offered in the fields of English, Foreign and Ancient Languages, Mathematics, the Sciences, and Social Studies. Students participating in the secondary program must complete 12 credits from the following course of study:

One Psychology course, chosen from Psychology BC 1105 or BC 1107; BC 1127 or BC 1129; BC 1130 or BC 1132; or BC 2134; and

The methods course with practicum:

Education BC 2062	Seminar in Secondary School Curriculum Development
Education BC 2055	School Practicum

All students entering the secondary education program take this methods course, which covers principles and methods for teaching English, Social Studies, the Sciences, Mathematics, and Ancient and Foreign Languages; and School Practicum, a classroom internship each week. Education BC 2062 and Education BC 2055 are prerequisites to secondary student teaching.

All senior students in the Elementary or Secondary Education Program enroll concurrently in the following two courses for four credits each:

Education BC 3063	Teaching in the Elementary or Secondary Schools
Education BC 3064	Seminar in the Teaching-Learning Process

Education BC 3063 is the field-based student teaching experience which places students in a classroom five mornings a week for one semester. Student teaching provides the opportunity to develop curricular materials and, with close supervision, to implement them through practice teaching.

Education BC 3064 is a weekly seminar which provides a forum for discussions of the principles and practices of classroom teaching. The student examines the teaching experience and the interrelationships between the subject area, child and adolescent development, the role of the school in society, and the teacher as a decision-maker.

Student teaching and the seminar should be registered as Education BC 3063x and BC 3064x in the Autumn term, or Education BC 3063y and BC 3064y in the Spring term. No more than two other courses should be taken in addition to student teaching and the seminar, and student with incompletes may not student teach.

Senior year student teaching may conflict with other training opportunities at Barnard (e.g., Psychology BC 3465, BC 3466, assisting at the Center for Toddler Development). Students with these interests should arrange their schedules appropriately.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor requires a minimum of six courses: Education BC 3063, Education BC 3064, a methods course and the practicum course, and two others from those courses cited above but not counted toward the major.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

The offering in English is designed to foster good writing, effective speaking, and heightened understanding of texts that enrich our culture.

Students majoring in English are encouraged to develop their responsiveness to the literary imagination and their sensitivity to literary form through disciplined attention to language and to critical and scholarly methods.

Non-majors may satisfy the distribution requirement in the Humanities (Part A) and in Culture and Societies (Part B) by electing appropriate courses listed under Language and Literature.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

A major program consists of at least 10 courses in sequence:

1. In the sophomore or junior year, the student will complete three required courses: an introduction to the methods of literary analysis (BC 3193, Critical Writing), and an introduction to literary works of the Renaissance and the Enlightenment (BC 3159-BC 3160, The English Colloquium); for possible substitutions, see BC 3159, below.
2. In addition, she will complete five advanced courses so distributed as to extend her knowledge of English and American literature of different periods. At least two of these must be in literature before 1900 (ETR BC 3136, 3137, BC 3140y, Sec.1; BC 3141, BC 3154-BC 3180). She may select two of the five from courses BC 3103-BC 3145.
3. As a senior, she will complete advanced work in two seminars (BC 3997, BC 3998). Seniors concentrating in Theatre or Writing will normally substitute the Special Project in Theatre or Writing (BC 3996) for one of the required seminars. Other qualified senior majors may request permission to substitute Independent Study for one of the seminars (see BC 3999, below).

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

A minor consists of at least five English courses: one from either Chaucer (BC 3154 or BC 3155), Shakespeare (ETR BC 3136, ENG BC 3163, or BC 3164), or Milton (BC 3167); two additional courses in literature before 1900 (ETR BC 3137, BC 3140y, Sec. 1; BC 3141; and BC 3154-BC 3180); and two electives.

CONCENTRATIONS IN THE MAJOR

American Literature

In addition to ENG BC 3159, 3160 (or appropriate substitutes) and 3193, an American concentration consists of either 3179 or 3180, either 3181 or 3182, one other American literature course, and one senior seminar with a focus on American literature. (The department requires two senior seminars for the major.) Of the remaining electives, one must be in English literature before 1900.

Theatre

Students interested in a Theatre concentration should consult Professor Partridge (Room 506 Milbank) or Professor Denison (Room 412 Barnard). A Theatre concentration consists of four courses: three courses, either two in History of Theatre (THR BC 3150-3151) and one Seminar (ETR BC 3135-3137, THR 3140) OR one in History of Theatre and two Seminars; a fourth course that is either Special Project in Theatre (ENG BC 3996) or Senior Project: Performance (THR BC 3997), or Thesis Course: History, Dramaturgy, Criticism (THR BC 3998). These four courses will count in place of two electives and one Senior Seminar in the regular English major.

Writing

Students interested in a writing concentration should submit a portfolio of their work to Professor Gordon by the end of their junior year. A writing concentration consists of at least four courses: two writing courses (BC 3105-3113); a third course in writing combined with a Special Project in Writing (BC 3996) or Independent Study (BC 3999); and a fourth course, either a literature course (in English or an other language), a creative writing course, or ARS BC 3031. These four courses will count in place of two electives and one Senior Seminar in the regular English major.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Environmental Science provides a scientific basis for management of earth systems. It focuses on the interaction between human activities, resources, and the environment. As human population grows and technology advances, pressures on earth's natural systems are becoming increasingly intense and complex. Environmental Science is an exciting field where science is used to best serve society.

The curriculum recognizes the need for well-trained scientists to cope with balancing human requirements and environmental conservation. Majors acquire an understanding of earth systems by taking courses in the natural sciences, as well as courses investigating environmental stress. Students learn to critically evaluate the diverse information necessary for sound environmental analysis. Courses foster an interdisciplinary approach to environmental problem-solving.

Students are encouraged to participate in internships and field programs leading to preparation of their senior thesis. Opportunities are available for research projects with staff at research institutions in the New York area. Advanced students may also work as Teaching Assistants for the department.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Class of 2000: See department for revised requirements.

Existing Majors: Requirements follow:

- I. Two of the following: Environmental Science BC 1001, BC 1002, GEY V 2100, GEY V 2200; Advanced Courses in Environmental Science or another related science may be substituted for this requirement with permission of the chair.
- II. At least one course in Chemistry and five other courses in the natural sciences (Biology, Chemistry, Geology or Physics). At least two of these must include labs.
- III. Four courses to be selected from the following:

ENV BC 3014	Field Methods in Environmental Science
ENV BC 3015	The Earth's Carbon Cycle
ENV BC 3016	Environmental Measurements
ENV BC 3017	Environmental Data Analysis
ENV BC 3019	Energy Resources
ENV BC 3021	Forests and Environmental Change
ENV BC 3024	Oceanography
ENV BC 3025	Hydrology
ENV BC 3030	The Atmosphere: Meteorology and Air Pollution
ENV BC 3032	Global Land Use and Habitability
ENV BC 3033	Waste Management
ENV BC 3035	Environmental Hazards and Disasters
ENV BC 3040	Environmental Law, Policy, and Decision-Making
ECO BC 3039	Natural Resources and Environmental Economics

IV. Graduating seniors are required to submit a thesis. This should be done in conjunction with the Environmental Science Senior Seminar ENV BC 3800. Environmental Research ENV BC 3997, 3998 may be used for extended thesis research investigations.

Majors in Environmental Science are encouraged to take courses in the social sciences in order to become familiar with the languages and approaches of these disciplines to environmental issues.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Class of 2000: See department for revised requirements.

Existing Minors: Requirements follow:

Five courses are required: Environmental Science BC 1001x, BC 1002y, and electives that form a coherent program in conjunction with the student's major field.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

ENV BC 3025y

Hydrology

Structure and properties of water and the hydrologic cycle, including atmospheric waters, lakes, rivers, glaciers, groundwater. Availability and demand for freshwater resources. Environmental problems associated with the contamination of drinking water. —M. Stute

Prerequisites: One year college science or permission of the instructor. Alternate years.

3 points. M W 4:10-5:25

ENV BC 3030x

The Atmosphere: Meteorology and Air Pollution

Introduction to atmospheric science. Provides an understanding of basic processes controlling the structure and dynamics of the atmosphere, general atmospheric circulation, and weather. Present sources, transport, and effects of air pollution on regional and local scales. —A. Del Genio

Prerequisite: One year college science and mathematics through algebra, exponential functions, or permission of the instructor. Alternate years.

3 points. Offered in 1997-98.

ENV BC 3032y

Global Land Use and Habitability

Human transformation of the terrestrial environment since Paleolithic times. Physical process involved in human-environment interactions.

Guidelines for sustainable development using present and past examples of environmental use and abuse. —C. Rosenzweig

Alternate years.

3 points. Hours TBA.

ENV BC 3033y

Waste Management

Liquid and solid waste management. Cradle-to-grave analysis of product and waste streams.

Municipal solid waste, landfills, incineration and recycling, hazardous waste, sewage, and sewage treatment. Increase in waste generated by growing populations, international equity in generation and disposal of waste, public health, and environmental risks of different disposal methods. Restrictions on disposal options, rising disposal costs. —P. Bower

Alternate years.

ENV BC 3035x

Environmental Hazards and Disasters

Prediction and avoidance of catastrophic events that originate in natural and technologic systems. Response strategies to minimize damage before, during, and after events such as floods, hurricanes, nuclear breakdowns. Environmental impact of war. —P. Bower

Alternate years.

3 points. M W 2:40-3:55

ENV BC 3040x

Environmental Law, Policy, and Decision-making

Local to international environmental laws and development of environmental policy. Risk management, land-use planning, and the role of industry, academia, and government in environmental decision-making, economic analysis and policy making, the interplay of common and public law, environmental and toxic torts, and corporate law and contracts and property. Criminal law in environmental cases, environmental rights, wetlands, the Storm King controversy, endangered species and the Spotted Owl, air and water pollution. —P. Bower

Earth Semester/Summer Field Course at Biosphere 2

Columbia University has assumed responsibility for managing the Biosphere 2 Center in Oracle, Arizona. Biosphere 2 is a large enclosed research facility for studying the future effects of global change on living systems. Starting in Autumn 1996, undergraduate programs will offer students an interdisciplinary curriculum focused on the environment. Students may study at Columbia's Biosphere 2 campus for one term (x or y), and/or for the summer term.

Courses will be offered both for the environmental science major and for majors in the social and natural sciences. The curriculum will include courses on the fundamentals of environmental biology, geology, chemistry, economics, political science, and anthropology, as well as more advanced courses in desert ecosystems, pollutant transport, and climate change. Students will typically take 15 points of course work with full Barnard College credit resulting from the successful completion of course requirements, and with full Barnard financial aid awarded on the same basis as for work completed on the Morningside Heights campus.

Biosphere 2 is located about 40 minutes from Tucson, Arizona. Ample opportunities exist for exploring the desert southwest, both during course related field work and in students' free time. Students will reside in apartments with kitchens located on the Biosphere 2 campus. Cafeteria and restaurant facilities are also available on campus. Applications and admissions inquiries should be directed to dcolodner@bio2.edu (phone 520/896-5075) or the Environmental Science Department. More detailed information will be available on September 1.

401B Barnard Hall

854-2101

This program is supervised by the First-Year Seminar Committee:

Professor of Classics: Helene Foley

Professor of Political Science: Dennis Dalton

Professor of History: Rosalind N. Rosenberg

Professor of English: James Basker¹ (Director)

Lecturer in English: Margaret Ellsberg (Acting Director 1996-97)

¹Absent on leave 1996-97

Instruction in the First-Year Seminar Program is provided by the following regular members of the Barnard College Faculty:

Professors: Randall Balmer (Religion), Mark Carnes (History), Sandra Genter (Dance), Joseph Malone (Linguistics), Richard Pious (Political Science)

Associate Professor: Michael Levine (German, Visiting), Catherine Nepomnyashchy (Slavic), Carolyn Ristau (Psychology, Visiting), William Sharpe (English), Herbert Sloan (History)

Adjunct Professor: Theresa Rogers (Sociology)

Assistant Professors: Linda Barrington (Economics), Linda Beck (Political Science), Taylor Carman (Philosophy), Mary Cregan (English), Alan Dye (Economics), JoAnne Hart (Political Science), Jennie Kassanoff (English), Claudia Rankine (English), Lars Trägårdh (History), Margaret Vandenberg (English), Maxine Weisgrau (Anthropology), Barbara Woike (Psychology), Nancy Worman (Classics)

Lecturers and Other Faculty: Vilma Bornemann-Caraley (Spanish), Celia Deutch (Religion), Margaret Ellsberg (English), Steve Friedman (Theatre), Vandana Gupta (French), John Pagano (English), Mark Sussman (Theatre), Timea Szell (English), Christine Valenza (Education)

Purpose and Structure

Every Barnard first-year student is required to take a First-Year Seminar during her first or second semester at Barnard. The purposes of the First-Year Seminars are threefold:

1. To develop further the essential and prerequisite skills a student brings to Barnard in the critical reading and analysis of important texts, in effective speaking, and in writing well—this last especially.
2. To develop these skills within an intellectually challenging context where students and teacher alike, through a close examination of important and relevant texts, engage in an extended consideration of a theme central to human concerns and which goes beyond departmental boundaries.
3. To develop these skills and encounter this intellectual challenge in a small-class setting with instruction by a regular member of the Barnard faculty who has chosen to participate in the program. As such, First-Year Seminars should provide entering Barnard students with an early sense of community.

Accordingly, all First-Year Seminars share a common structure:

- Each will meet twice a week in regularly scheduled class periods and earn 3 points.
- Each will have its enrollment limited to 20 or fewer students.
- Reading assignments will consist of a maximum of six book-length assignments or their equivalent (about 2,000 pages).
- Writing assignments will consist of a minimum of an assignment every other week. These assignments will vary in character (e.g., an assigned topic; a selected topic; reworking a previous assignment; editing the work of others) and length.
- The regular grading practices of the College will be followed. Upon completion of the course, students will have an opportunity to evaluate their First-Year Seminar and to offer suggestions as to how it might be improved in subsequent offerings.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

The First-Year Seminar Program consists of thirty seminars, organized into five clusters:

- I. Literary Reflections on the Human Condition
- II. The Individual and the Social Order
- III. Women in Literature and Culture
- IV. Aspects of the Modern Condition
- V. Cross-Cultural Encounters

These clusters identify thematic concerns or textual emphases common to more than one seminar, while reflecting varying levels of faculty collaboration that went into the development of the individual seminars. They are also intended to facilitate the process by which a student selects the seminar of her first or second choice. (Procedures for selecting First-Year Seminars are described in the First-Year Registration materials.)

I. LITERARY REFLECTIONS ON THE HUMAN CONDITION

Each of these seminars focuses on an enduring theme or genre through a close reading of texts drawn from the sweep of ancient and modern literature.

FSM BC 1116x

Women and the Fantastic in Literature

An examination of the fantastic in literature specifically as the topic relates to women's experience. Emphasis on the use of the fantastic to explore concepts of identity and human relationships, with special attention to sources in oral tradition and the creation and exploitation of myth and legend. Readings include:

- Bruno Bettelheim, The Uses of Enchantment
- Brothers Grimm, selected fairy tales
- Mary Shelley, Frankenstein

Shakespeare and the American Imagination

An examination of how and why American writers and filmmakers have understood, rethought and reinvented Shakespeare's plays. From the streets of urban Seattle to the farmland of Iowa, these novels, poems, stories and films recontextualize the plays in suggestive and innovative ways, throwing into relief the gender, racial, class, and literary concerns of the United States. Readings will focus on four plays in particular: Hamlet (Mark Twain, Huckleberry Finn and Henry James, "The Story of a Year"); King Lear (Jane Smiley, A Thousand Acres); Henry IV, Part I (film: "My Own Private Idaho"); and The Tempest (Herman Melville, The Encantadas, and poetry by H.D., Wallace Stevens, Sylvia Plath, Langston Hughes).

The Politics of Identity

In the United States and most other countries, society contains cultural cleavages rooted in ethnicity, race, religion and/or caste. The dynamics of multiculturalism in different countries will be explored. In each case we will discuss the different forms of identity, the historical construction of cultural differences, and alternative strategies available to states and their societies to address issues of cultural diversity such as ethnic conflict and racial discrimination. Readings will include:

Ralph Ellison, The Invisible Man;

George Fredrickson, White Supremacy;

A Comparative Study on American and South African History;

Clifford Geertz, Islam Observed: Religious Development in Morocco and Indonesia;

Rosa Luxemburg, The National Question;

Salman Rushdie, The Moor's Last Sigh

This program is supervised by the Committee on Foreign Area Studies:

Professor of Anthropology: Abraham Rosman

Professor of French: Serge Gavronsky

Associate Professor of History: Deborah Valenze

deBary Associate Professor in Asian & Middle Eastern Cultures: Irene Bloom

Associate Professor of Slavic: Catharine Nepomnyashchy

Assistant Professor of Spanish: Isolina Ballesteros

Assistant Professor of German: Sigrid Berka

The purpose of Foreign Area Studies is to provide an introduction to the study of a foreign region of the world. Foreign Area Studies majors are encouraged to study abroad in the region of interest. The work is divided into three elements: language, a scholarly discipline, and a diversified approach to a region. The student who wishes to major may choose one of the regions listed below. The courses named under each region include only those most commonly elected. Other courses may be chosen upon approval of the project by an adviser.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

A major in Foreign Area studies is open to qualified students whose applications are approved by the committee in charge. First-year students and sophomores anticipating such a major should consult their class advisers and the officer in charge by March 1 of the sophomore year.

The senior requirements vary according to the region studied. Majors should consult their advisers for details.

There is no minor in Foreign Area Studies.

Asian and Middle Eastern Cultures (Adviser: Irene Bloom) See page 81.

European Studies (Adviser: Deborah Valenze)

Students may focus on one country or one region of Western Europe. Competence in the language of the region is expected. The major includes:

- A. A concentration consisting of five courses in an academic discipline in the Social Sciences chosen in consultation with the major adviser. A maximum of two of these courses that deal with European topics may be counted among the ten courses in the regional concentration (Part B).
 - B. Ten courses focusing on a country or region to include:
 - Two courses in European History;
 - Two courses in the literature or cultural studies of one country in the original language;
 - Two semester senior projects under the direction of the program adviser or an adviser in the minor field;
- Four courses outside the field of concentration dealing with the selected country or region.

¹Absent on leave Spring term

Courses in the French Department have a twofold objective: to perfect fluency in the written and spoken language, and to develop an understanding and appreciation of the literature and culture of France and French-speaking countries.

New students who have already given evidence of advanced training in French (Advanced Placement Examination with a score of 4 or 5; CEEB examinations with a score of 750) may automatically be exempted from the language requirement. All other new students who intend to satisfy their requirement in French will, depending upon their preparation, be placed immediately in the appropriate language course or be asked to take a placement test offered at the start of each semester (see College Calendar for exact dates). Those receiving a sufficiently high grade fulfill the requirement. The others may do so by completing French BC 1204. For additional information about language courses, students should consult the department chair.

Students who have satisfied the language requirement may immediately enroll in literature and culture courses conducted entirely in French (BC 3020, BC 3021, BC 3022, BC 3023, BC 3024); courses in which the readings are in French and English with lectures, discussions, and papers in English (BC 3046, BC 3047, BC 3048, BC 3049); and advanced language courses (BC 3007-3019).

In cooperation with Columbia College, the department offers a program at Reid Hall in Paris open to majors and non-majors. See Study Abroad, page 42.

The department holds many of its advanced classes in a special seminar-library, the French Room (306 Milbank).

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

All majors are required to take the Junior French Test, a short-answer examination on literary history, literary terminology, and translation. Majors will take the Major Examination, a written critical essay on a prepared question, and an individual oral explication de texte.

Students enrolled in the Senior Essay will take the written part of the Major Examination. The defense of the essay constitutes the oral section of the Major Examination.

Majors who plan to do graduate work are encouraged to acquire a reading knowledge of Latin and German.

There are three majors available to prospective students in the department:

Language and Literature: This program emphasizes language, culture, and literature of the country.

Translation and Literature: This program perfects students' abilities to translate from French into English and English into French, together with a knowledge of French culture and literature.

French Studies: This program emphasizes the socioeconomic, political, and historical aspects of language studies as well as the cultural and literary aspects of France and Francophone countries.

In consultation with the adviser of her choice, the student majoring in French may select one of the following options:

FRENCH

Language and Literature

10 courses are required for the major:

Five one-term Advanced Literature and Culture courses numbered
FRE BC 3031-3049

Two one-term courses related to aspects of French Studies in Humanities or Social Sciences selected in consultation with the major adviser.

The student is expected to declare her option by the end of the junior year. Programs may include additional courses in French literature, culture, and language, or in other subjects which vary with the interest of the student. Certain courses in the French and Romance Philology Department at Columbia University may be substituted with the approval of the chair.

A student who elects French as part of a combined double or interdisciplinary major will establish her individualized program with the departments concerned.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

STUDY IN PARIS

Reid Hall Programs
 303 Lewisohn Hall. 854-2559
 Reid Hall, at 4, Rue de Chevreuse, in Montparnasse, is the Paris campus for Barnard College and Columbia University programs. The programs are open to students with majors in all fields. To assure validation of credits, students should work closely with their major advisers. Students should consult the current Reid Hall Bulletin about course offerings, which are subject to change. Students may study at Reid Hall for one term (Autumn, Spring, or Summer) or for an entire academic year. Students in the Autumn programs may stay on for the Spring. Participation in the Reid Hall Programs (except during the Summer) requires a full-time commitment to four courses totaling at least 12 points. Students may enroll in a fifth course with the permission of the Director of Studies. All students should discuss their proposed program with their home college adviser and Dean of Studies prior to departure.

AUTUMN PROGRAMS

Application Deadline: March 1

1. The Intensive French Language and Civilization Program. Open to students with two years of college-level French or the equivalent.
2. The French Studies in the Humanities and Social Sciences Program. Open to students with three years of college-level French or the equivalent. The third-year courses may be in literature, culture, grammar, composition, or conversation. Students may take up to two of their courses in the French university system.
3. The Art History Program. Open to students in good standing who have completed two years of college French or the equivalent and one introductory art history course with grades of B or better.
4. The Supervised Research Program. Open to students with three years of college-level French or the equivalent with grades of A- or better. Students may take up to three courses in the French university system and in addition must complete a mémoire, a research paper of publishable quality of at least 30 pages in length.

SPRING PROGRAMS

Application Deadline: October 1

1. The Intensive French Language and Civilization Program.

For organizational purposes, faculty teaching German language and literature courses will be included in the Department of German, Italian, and Linguistics.

Courses in German are designed to develop proficiency in language skills and to present the traditions as well as the current developments in the literature and culture of the German-speaking countries: Austria, Germany, and Switzerland.

The language requirement in German is fulfilled by the completion of V 1204, Intermediate Course II. Entering students with a previous knowledge of German will be placed in the appropriate course on the basis of their CEEB scores or in accordance with their achievements on a placement test taken prior to registration.

Three levels of language instruction are offered with an equal emphasis on reading, writing, oral comprehension, and speaking. The Elementary Full-Year Course, German V 1001-V 1002, includes a series of videocassettes that the students will view at the rate of one a week to supplement their five classroom contact hours. In the Intermediate Course I and II, German V 1203 and V 1204, fictional prose provides a basis for expanding the students' knowledge of contemporary life and thought in the German-speaking countries. BC 3005x, 3006y Advanced German provides opportunity for intensive practice in speaking and writing German. These courses may be taken in reverse sequence. They are recommended as complementary companion courses to lecture/reading-oriented courses.

Satisfactory completion of or exemption from V 1204 is required for enrollment in any of the advanced courses; the sequences in which these should be taken will be determined in consultation with the department.

The following programs are available to prospective students in the German department:

The Major in German Language and Literature:

The courses comprising this program are all taught in German with the twofold objective of combining the study of significant works, literary trends, and cultural manifestations with advanced practice in the use of German as a medium of intellectual communication.

Requirements: 10 courses

GER BC 3005x and/or 3006y Advanced German Conversation and Composition (3 pts. each)

GER BC 3011 Introduction to German Literature and Civilization

GER BC 3061 Seminar

Five one-term advanced literature courses chosen from GER V 3014-3048

A third advanced language course may be substituted for one advanced literature course:

GER BC 3062x or y Senior Essay

A half-hour oral exit examination is required.

The Major in German Studies:

This major combines a study of literature with other aspects of German culture and civilization by choosing courses from the social sciences such as history, political science, and economics, and from other humanities dealing with the German-speaking regions of Europe.

The department will assist and advise those students who are interested in opportunities to study in Germany or Austria.

Requirements: 14 courses

Two or three of the following language courses or their equivalent:

GER BC 3005-3006

Four or five one-term Advanced Literature and Culture courses numbered:

GER BC 3011-3048

One GER BC 3062x or y *Senior Essay

Six one-term courses in the Social Sciences and Humanities that relate to the German-speaking countries of Europe and define a special field of interest (to be chosen in consultation with the major adviser). Two courses dealing with German history are strongly recommended.

* The major adviser in the German department will work with a second reader in another field if the thesis topic should require it.

A half-hour oral exit examination is required.

The Combined Major: German and Another FieldRequirements: 14 courses

(Seven courses in each department, including a seminar in one of the departments and a senior essay on a topic bridging both fields.)

A student who selects a combined major will establish her special program in consultation with the departments concerned.

The Minor in GermanRequirements: 5 courses

Advanced language courses from GER BC 3005-6

GER BC 3011

A minimum of three additional advanced literature courses from GER V 3011-47/48

History, which includes the whole of human experience, helps us understand ourselves in the context of our own times and traditions through the study of times and traditions different from our own. It provides perspective on the present through examination of change and continuity in the development of our political, economic, social, religious, and cultural ideas and institutions. History means not only the record of the past but also the discipline of investigation and interpretation of the past. There is no one way of doing history, but doing history necessarily involves the collection and evaluation of various types of evidence—quantitative as well as qualitative—from primary sources. The study of history, which develops habits of critical thinking and effective writing, should be of value not only to undergraduates who intend to pursue advanced degrees in the field, but also to all students interested in exploring the diversity and complexity of the human past and in improving their analytical and expository skills.

Barnard history courses are numbered according to the following scheme of classification:

- 1000-level: introductory lecture courses
- 3000-level: advanced lecture courses
- 3400-level: seminars
- 3700-level: senior research seminars
- 3900-level: independent research seminars

Lecture courses are defined more broadly—chronologically, geographically, thematically—than seminars, which characteristically involve reading and discussion of primary and secondary sources on more specialized subjects. Students must apply for admission to seminars by filling out forms available in the departmental office. Deadline for applications for Spring 1997 seminars: November 15, 1996. Deadline for applications for Autumn 1997 seminars: March 28, 1997.

Students should consult the Columbia College catalogue for full descriptions of Columbia history courses and for regulations concerning enrollment in these courses. Application forms for Columbia seminars, due by the deadlines mentioned above, are available in 611 Fayerweather and in 415 Lehman. Certain Columbia graduate ("G") courses are open to qualified history majors with the approval of the Barnard chair and the Columbia instructor. For course descriptions, see the bulletin of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences.

HISTORY

Students will receive six points of College credit for a score of 5 and three points of credit for a score of 4 on the Advanced Placement Examination in American or European history. These credits are not counted toward the history major.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Students who intend to major in history should consult a member of the department in their sophomore year to plan their academic programs.

The history major requires a minimum of eleven courses, eight in the area of concentration and three outside the area of concentration. The three principal areas of concentration are European, American, and Asian history, but majors may, in consultation with their advisers and with the approval of the chair, concentrate in some other field, such as ancient, medieval, Jewish, or African history. The 11 required courses must include:

- 1. Three introductory courses (i.e., 1000-level courses or their equivalent). For Barnard Class of 1998 and those expecting to graduate, two of the introductory courses must be taken in the field of concentration. Students with AP credits may substitute an advanced course(s) for introductory course(s), although AP credits may not be counted toward the 11 required courses.
- 2. Two seminars
- 3. The two-semester senior research seminar (HIS BC 3793-3794).

Majors may, with the approval of their advisers, take two of their 11 courses outside the department, provided that such courses are closely related to their concentrations. American Studies seminars may be substituted for History seminars.

SENIOR RESEARCH SEMINAR

The senior research seminar, in which students write their senior essays (30-50 pages), represents the culmination of the undergraduate history major. Students should discuss tentative topics with their advisers by the end of the junior year. Halfway through the first semester of the senior year students must submit a formal prospectus defining the problem under investigation, outlining the issues involved, and identifying the primary and secondary sources consulted. They must draft part of the essay by the end of the Autumn semester, then complete their research and writing in the Spring.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor in history requires five courses, four in an area of concentration and one outside the concentration. The five courses must include one seminar. Students planning to minor in history should consult the department chair.

Undergraduate instruction in Italian has long been fully and successfully integrated among the various undergraduate schools—Barnard College, Columbia College, and the School of General Studies. All courses are open to Barnard students. For students who have studied other foreign languages and can acquire by intensive study the equivalent of two full years of Italian, the comprehensive elementary and intermediate course is recommended. The advanced Italian course, though part of the requirement for a major in Italian, is open to all qualified students whose main goal is to improve their competence in the language as distinct from its literature.

A major in Italian offers the advantages of closely supervised work for a small number of students. Through the seminar in Italian literature, the major can study in a chosen area under the experienced guidance of a specialist.

The courses given in English have no prerequisites and are open to students majoring in other departments who nevertheless wish to study Italian literature.

The Barnard Italian office is located in 317 Milbank Hall, and the Columbia department is housed in 502 Hamilton.

Graduate courses are open to qualified students with permission of the instructor.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The courses in Italian are designed to develop proficiency in all the language skills and to present the literary and cultural traditions of Italy. The program of study is to be planned as early as possible.

The following courses are required unless advanced standing is attained by the Department placement examination:

ITA V 1101-V 1102 Elementary Full-Year Course

ITA V 1201-V 1202 Intermediate Course

Ten courses are required for the major, including:

ITA V 3333-V 3334 Introduction to Italian Literature

ITA V 3335-V 3336 Italian Written and Oral Style

ITA V 3993-V 3994 Seminar in Italian Literature

plus at least four more courses in Italian numbered above ITA W 1312.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

A minimum of five courses is required for the minor, to be selected from courses including and numbered above ITA V 3333-V 3334.

Language Requirement

The language requirement can be fulfilled with ITA V 1101-V 1102 and V 1201-V 1202 (or their equivalents). Students who have taken courses in Italian elsewhere (whether in high school, in college, or both) but not at Barnard or Columbia must take the Italian placement test before registering for any Italian course. The test is given during the preregistration period in 502 Hamilton.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Students interested in majoring in this discipline may, upon consultation with the Departmental Chair or his designated representative, petition the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing for a special major in Linguistics (see page 32).

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Students minoring in Linguistics must take five courses in the department, including V 1101.

LIN V 1101x

Introduction to Linguistics

Nature of language; characteristics of phonological and grammatical systems and the lexicon; evolution of language; role of linguistics in related disciplines; modern techniques of linguistic analysis. —J. Malone

Enrollment limited to 100 students. Advance sign-up required.

LIN V 3412y

Linguistics and the Translation of Poetic Language

Linguistics as a tool in the translation of poems and other kinds of texts whose structure depends on phonetic and phonological patterns. Recent developments in linguistics (e.g., by Paul Kiparsky) relevant to the analysis of rhyme, meter, parallelism, and other sound-based configurations. Materials include monolingual and bilingual texts (poems, proverbs, etc., in several languages), some chosen by the instructor and others by the students.

Prerequisite: V 1101 or permission of the instructor.

Enrollment is limited to 25 students. Advance sign-up required. Offered in rotation with V 3410.

GENERAL INFORMATION

A passing grade on the Basic Math Skills test is required for entry into any of the offerings of the Mathematics Department. Students who fail that test must take and pass the course QUR BC 1001 Basic Mathematics Skills (see Quantitative Reasoning) before they can be admitted to any mathematics courses.

Students who have special placement problems, or are unclear about their level, should go to Room 404 Mathematics or 404 Altschul to arrange to take the Placement Exam (offered during Orientation Week) or for an appointment with a faculty member or the chair.

Two help rooms, one in 404 Mathematics and one in 404 Altschul, will be open all term (hours will be posted on the door) for students seeking individual help and counseling from the instructors and teaching assistants. No appointments are necessary. However, resources are limited and students who seek individual attention should make every effort to come during the less popular hours and to avoid the periods just before mid-year and final exams.

COURSES FOR FIRST-YEAR STUDENTS

Groups and Symmetries (V 1010) and Surfaces and Knots (V 1011) give an introduction to aspects of contemporary mathematics, with high school mathematics as their only prerequisite. These courses are designed for students who do not intend to continue with any of the calculus offerings.

The systemic study of Mathematics begins with one of the following three alternative sequences: Calculus IA, IIA, IIIA, IVA (Mathematics V 1101-2, V 1201-2); Calculus IS, IIS, IIIS (Mathematics V 1105-6, V 1205); Honors Mathematics I, II (Mathematics V 1107-8), or Honors Math III-IV (Mathematics V 1207-8). In addition, the department has one more special offering in calculus: Calculus for Social Sciences (Mathematics V 1111-2).

Credit is allowed for only one of the many possible calculus sequences: The A-sequence is a standard course in differential and integral calculus. The S-sequence covers the same topics as A, but is taught at a faster pace and assumes that the student has had some calculus in high school. The use of computers is integrated into the S sequence. The Honors Mathematics sequence covers the same material as the A and S sequences, but in more depth and with a more theoretical bent. Honors Mathematics III-IV is for exceptionally well-qualified students who have strong advanced placement scores. It covers second-year Calculus (e.g., V 1201-2) and Linear Algebra (Mathematics V 2010), with an emphasis on theory.

PLACEMENT IN THE CALCULUS SEQUENCE

College Algebra and Analytical Geometry is a refresher course for students who intend to take Calculus but do not have adequate background for it.

Advanced Placement: Students who have passed the advanced placement test for Calculus AB with a grade of 5 or BC with a grade of 4 or 5 receive 4 points of credit. Students with 3 or less on an advanced placement test will receive no credit. Those who passed Calculus AB with a grade of 4 will receive 3 points of credit. They will have to take a placement test with the Mathematics department before being allowed to start with Calculus IIS. They will receive 4 points of credit only after passing Calculus IIS.

Calculus IA: Students who have not previously studied calculus should begin with Calculus IA. Especially talented students should also consider Honors Mathematics I.

Honors Mathematics I: Students with an interest in mathematics for its own sake should consider this course, which is especially designed for prospective mathematics majors. Included in the course is the material for single variable calculus, so it does not presume high school calculus. However, it is a more general introduction to mathematical methods and thought. It will not be repetitious for students who have had high school calculus.

Calculus IS: Students who have had some calculus, but not enough for a placement at a higher level, normally start with Calculus IS. This includes students who earned a score of 3 or less on either of the calculus advanced placement tests.

Calculus IIA: Students who earned a score of 4 on the AB advanced placement test may start with Calculus IIA. We recommend, however, that they either start with Calculus IS or attempt the placement exam for Calculus IIS.

Calculus IIS: Students who earned a score of 5 on the Calculus AB test or a score of 4 or 5 on the BC test should start with Calculus IIS. Those who scored 4 on the Calculus AB test must take a placement test with the Mathematics department before being allowed to start with Calculus IIS.

Honors Mathematics III: Students who have passed the Calculus BC advanced placement test with a grade of 5, and who have strong mathematical talent and motivation, should start with Honors Mathematics III. This is the most attractive course available to well-prepared, mathematically talented first-year students, whether or not they intend to be mathematics majors. Students who contemplate taking this course should consult with the instructor. If this is not possible ahead of time, they should register and attend the first class.

Transfers within the Calculus Sequence: Students who wish to transfer from one calculus course to another are allowed to do so beyond the date specified by the Academic Calendar. They are considered to be adjusting their level, not changing their program. However, students must make the change official through the Office of the Registrar.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The majors program in both mathematics and applied mathematics are appropriate for students who plan to continue their training in graduate school. Students who begin with Honors Mathematics III-IV will need to plan their succeeding course carefully with the help of an adviser.

FOR A MAJOR IN MATHEMATICS: 42 points, including Advanced Placement Credit as follows:

Two years of single variable and multivariate Calculus, A, S, or Honors sequence (12 pts.)
V 2010	Linear Algebra	3 pts.
	(or Honors Mathematics III-IV)
W 4041-2	Introduction to Modern Algebra*	6 pts.
W 4061-2	Introduction to Modern Analysis*	6 pts.
V 3951x, 3952y	Undergraduate Seminar in Mathematics	3 pts.

MATHEMATICS

The remaining points may be in any approved combination of electives and/or cognate courses.

*Note: It is strongly recommended that the sequences W 4041-2 and W 4061-2 be taken in separate years.

FOR A MAJOR IN APPLIED MATHEMATICS: 42 points, including Advanced Placement Credit as follows:

Two years of Calculus or the equivalent, in the S or A or Honors sequence (normally 12 pts.)

V 2010	Linear Algebra	3 pts.
W 4061	Introduction to Modern Analysis	3 pts.
APM E 4901-2	Seminar in Applied Mathematics	0 pts. Junior year
APM E 4903-4	Seminar in Applied Mathematics	6 pts. Senior year
Additional electives, to be approved by the Applied Math Committee, e.g.:
V 2500	Analysis and Optimization	3 pts.
V 3007	Complex Variables
V 3027	Ordinary Differential Equations	3 pts.
V 3028	Partial Differential Equations	3 pts.
V 3030	Dynamical Systems	3 pts.
W 4032	Fourier Analysis	3 pts.
STAT IEOR W 3658	Probability	3 pts.
APM E 4300	Numerical Methods

FOR A MAJOR IN ECONOMICS AND MATHEMATICS, SEE PAGE 131.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

For a minor in Mathematics or Applied Mathematics: 18 points from courses numbered 1200 or above, from the departmental offerings, as listed in the requirements for the major. The approval of the chair is required.

GRADUATE COURSES

Certain graduate courses given in the University are open to qualified majors with the consent of the major adviser. These courses are described in the Bulletin of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences.

This program is supervised by the Committee on Medieval and Renaissance Studies:

Professors of Art History: Keith Moxey, Jane Rosenthal

Associate Professor of Classics: Carmela Franklin¹ (CU)

Professor of Classics: Lydia Lenaghan

Assistant Professors of English: Paula Loscocco, Peter Platt, Timea Szell

Professor of English: Anne Prescott

Associate Professor of English: Christopher Baswell (Chair)

Lecturer in German: Regina Ayre

Professor of History: Caroline Bynum (CU)

Assistant Professor of History: Joel Kaye

Assistant Professor of Italian: Antonella Ansani

Professor of Philosophy: Alan Gabbey

Professor of Religion: Robert Somerville (CU)

Professor of Spanish: Marcia Welles

¹Absent on leave 1996-97

This program enables undergraduates to acquire a thorough knowledge of the most important aspects of Medieval or Renaissance civilizations and to gain an awareness of the interdependence of historical and cultural developments.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Major programs are established individually with a concentration in one of these disciplines: art history, history, literature, philosophy, romance philology, music, or religion. Each student, after consultation with the chair, chooses an adviser in her area of concentration who guides her in developing a sequence of courses to be taken in the field.

A minimum of 11 courses is required for the major in Medieval and Renaissance Studies:

Five courses in the area of concentration;

Two history courses for students who are not concentrating in history;

Two courses in the other disciplines mentioned above for those who are;

Two electives in areas outside the concentration, to be chosen in consultation with the adviser; and MRS BC 3998x and MRS BC 3999y, Directed Research, a two-semester program of interdisciplinary research leading to the writing of the senior essay.

(In some cases, a senior seminar in one of the departments may be substituted for MRS BC 3998x or 3999y.)

Students are required to write an interdisciplinary senior essay based on two semesters of research in their field of concentration and in another discipline, carried out under the supervision of their area adviser and another from the second discipline. The choice of topic for this senior project and the appointment of a second adviser are determined in consultation with the area adviser and the chair of the program.

In addition to the language used to fulfill the general four-semester requirement for graduation, the student must have completed two semesters of a second language (or the equivalent) relevant to her area of concentration.

No minor is offered in Medieval and Renaissance Studies.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

MRS BC 3998x, 3999y

Directed Research for the Senior Project

Two semesters of supervised interdisciplinary research in Medieval or Renaissance Studies terminating in the writing of a senior essay. The program of research is determined in consultation with the chair and under the guidance of the area adviser. It is supervised by the latter and an adviser from the second discipline involved in the project. —Staff

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Program of Study: to be planned with the department consultant before the end of the sophomore year. Prospective music majors should complete the prerequisites by the end of their sophomore year and are encouraged to complete them by the end of their first year. By the end of her first year as a music major she should select a faculty adviser.

Prerequisite: BC 1001 or 1002 or HUM C 1123 or F 1123, MUS V 1002 Fundamentals of Western Music, and MUS V 1312 Introductory Ear-training. Prospective music majors are advised to satisfy the prerequisites prior to their declaration as majors or before the end of their sophomore year. This requirement may be fulfilled either through successful completion of the course or satisfactory performance on examinations administered each semester by the department.

Courses: At least 38 points, including Music V 2318-V 2319 Diatonic Harmony and Counterpoint; V 3321-V 3322 Chromatic Harmony and Counterpoint; four semesters of ear-training unless the student is exempt by exam, and any one of the 3000-level advanced theory electives; and any two of the following four history courses: V 3123 Music of the Middle Ages and Renaissance, V 3124 Music of the Baroque; V 3125 Music of the Classical and Romantic Periods; and V 3126 Music of the Modern Period. The remaining 13 points are chosen from 2000- to 4000-levels. At least one 3000-or 4000-level course must deal with non-tonal music. No more than 6 points of 2000-level courses and no more than 4 points of instrumental or vocal lessons will count toward the major.

Senior Exercise: Working with her adviser, a major must complete an original project in her senior year. Normally, it may be the expansion of a paper done in a 4000-level course (as long as it deals with primary sources), a composition, or a recital.

Keyboard Proficiency: Music majors will be required to take a keyboard proficiency exam, which must be arranged by making an appointment with a member of the piano faculty, immediately upon declaration of the major. Those who do not pass the exam will be required to take MUS W 1517x-W 1518y, for 1 point each term, which will count against the maximum 4 points allowed toward completion of the major.

Languages: For students who plan to do graduate work in music, the study of German, French, Italian, and/or Latin is recommended.

Note: With the permission of Gail Archer, Barnard Coordinator, students may take courses or lessons at the Manhattan School of Music or the Juilliard School. For non-majors, there is a six-semester limit, but majors may continue for the remainder of their program.

Practice rooms: Piano practice rooms are available, at a nominal fee, upon application to the Music Department in 217C Milbank. Application should be made during the first week of classes. Preference in assigning hours is given to students taking piano instruction, majors, and concentrators, in order of application. The organ studio in St. Paul's Chapel is available for organ practice. Arrangements should be made with the chapel organist during the first week of classes.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Courses for the minor: Four terms of Theory, four terms of Ear-training, and two terms of History.

PERFORMANCE ACTIVITIES

Participation in the following activities is open to all members of the University community. Music majors are urged to join at least one of the groups. Students who wish to receive course credit may register for the courses as listed.

Columbia University Orchestra and Chamber Ensemble. George Rothman, conductor and director of the Music Performance Program. See Music V 1591x-92y and MUS V 1598x-99y for the audition schedule and description of activities.

Barnard-Columbia Chorus and Chamber Singers. Gail Archer, director. See MUS V 1593x-94y and MUS V 1595x-96y for audition information and description of activities.

University Jazz Orchestra. Don Sickler, director. See MUS V 1585x-86y for audition information and description of activities.

Instrumental and Vocal Instruction. With appropriate prior approval, qualified students may take music lessons, one course per term, for a maximum of six terms. The first two terms are unrestricted; during the third and fourth terms a student must take two courses in the history, literature, or theory of music concurrently with the music lessons. Only the Music major may take lessons every term. Written permission from the Dean is required.

Collegium Musicum. Auditions are held at the beginning of each term. The aim of the Collegium Musicum is to perform neglected and unfamiliar vocal and instrumental music. Activities are supervised by the graduate student director, and the Collegium ususally gives two public concerts each semester.

PAN - AFRICAN STUDIES

This program is supervised by the Committee on Pan-African Studies:

Assistant Professor of Anthropology: Lesley A. Sharp¹

Associate Professor of Economics: Alan Dye

Assistant Professor of History: Lynette Jackson

Lecturer in Political Science: Leslie J. Calman

Assistant Professor of Religion: Judith Weisenfeld

Assistant Professor of Spanish and Latin American Cultures: Licia Fiol-Matta

Dean of the College: Dorothy S. Denburg

Associate Dean for Student Affairs: Vivian Taylor

¹Absent on leave Autumn term.

The Pan-African Studies major provides students with a multi-disciplinary, comparative perspective in their approach to the study of the history, politics, and cultures, literatures, and experiences of peoples of African origin in Africa and the African diaspora.

The major differs from African Studies, Caribbean Studies and African-American Studies in that its foundation is comparative and it encompasses the African influences in the experiences of peoples of African descent throughout the world.

Each student will choose a concentration within the major that will allow her to explore a particular geographical region or methodological approach to the field and to work towards the research and writing of a senior thesis.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

- I. Two-semester sequence (preferably to be taken before the junior year):

PAS BC 3004x	Introduction to African Civilizations
PAS BC 3003y	Introduction to African-American History and Culture
 - II. One semester Junior Colloquium in Pan-African Studies

PAS BC 3100x	Medicine and Power in African History
--------------	--
 - III. Each student must demonstrate proficiency in any of the languages of Africa or the Diaspora (in addition to English) by completing at least the fourth semester of that language, or its equivalent. This requirement is not in addition to the general foreign language requirement. Languages may include Swahili, Hausa, Arabic, French, Spanish, Dutch, and Portuguese.
 - IV. Each student will select one of the following tracks and, in consultation with the adviser, take four courses (from among those courses designated by the Committee on Pan-African Studies).
 - A. The Regional Track (Africa, the Caribbean, Latin America, or North America)
 - B. The Divisional Track (humanities or social sciences).
 - V. In consultation with the adviser, the student will take two electives (from among those courses designated by the Committee on Pan-African Studies).
 - VI. PAS BC 3998x and PAS BC 3999y, Directed Research, a two-semester program of interdisciplinary research leading to the writing of the senior essay. In some cases, a senior seminar in one of the departments may be substituted for one semester of Directed Research.
- The total number of courses for the major is 11, exclusive of the foreign language.

NO MINOR IS OFFERED IN PAN-AFRICAN STUDIES.

The department offers a wide range of courses designed to acquaint the student with traditional and contemporary work in ethics, metaphysics, theory of meaning, aesthetics, theory of knowledge, philosophy of science, logic, and the history of philosophy. The courses are designed to facilitate student participation and each class is conceived as a workshop. The student is expected to develop a competence in techniques of conceptual analysis, argument, and the interpretation of texts.

Although it is not required for the major or a combined major, or for the minor, students who have not had previous training in philosophy are advised to take either PHI BC 1001, Introduction to Philosophy: Problems and Concepts, or PHI BC 1002, Introduction to Philosophy: Styles and Systems. Credit for both courses will not be given for the major or a combined major, or for the minor.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

I. A major in Philosophy consists of at least 10 courses, as follows:

1. One course on ancient or early medieval philosophy:

PHI V 1101 The History of Philosophy I: Pre-Socratics through Augustine

PHI V 3121 Plato

PHI V 3131 Aristotle

2. One course on early modern philosophy:

PHI V 3230 Seventeenth-Century Philosophy: Bacon to Locke

PHI V 3250 Eighteenth-Century Philosophy: Locke to Kant

3. One course in logic: PHI V 3411 Introduction to Symbolic Logic

4. One course in moral philosophy: PHI V 3701 Moral Philosophy

5. One of the following courses:

PHI BC 3483 Theory of Meaning

PHI BC 3501 Theory of Knowledge

PHI V 3601 Metaphysics

6. One semester of Majors' Seminar: BC 3288x

7. Senior Research Seminar: BC 3290y

8-10. Three electives.

PHILOSOPHY

The sequence of courses for the major is to be determined in consultation with the major adviser. The Majors' Seminar (PHI BC 3288x) may be taken in either the senior or the junior year. The topic for the seminar is set each semester on the basis of consultation between the instructor and the students. No topic of the Majors' Seminar may be taken more than once, but with departmental permission the Majors' Seminar can also be taken (on a different topic) as an elective for the major.

Philosophy combines well with several other subjects in the humanities and the sciences. Students considering a combined major including philosophy, or a double major, should consult the Department Chair as early in their planning as possible.

Senior Essay

All students majoring in Philosophy are required to submit a substantial essay on a topic approved by the department. The essay is to be researched and written as the work for the Senior Research Seminar (BC 3290y).

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Five courses constitute a minor in philosophy. Courses are to be selected on the basis of consultation with the adviser.

Limited Enrollment Courses

First-day attendance required. Instructor will determine and post class list. Prerequisites: one philosophy course or permission of the instructor, unless otherwise specified.

DEGREE REQUIREMENT

Students admitted as first-year students must complete two semesters of Physical Education at Barnard. One semester must be passed in the first year and the requirement must be completed by the end of the sophomore year. Sophomore and junior transfers are required to complete one semester of Physical Education at Barnard. Transfers are expected to complete their requirement by the end of the junior year. Failure to complete the requirement by the specified deadlines will result in a failing grade. Physical Education courses are graded pass/fail based on attendance and participation.

Health Status: Students with permanent or temporary disabilities will be individually advised and placed in a suitable activity, based upon the recommendations of the Director of Health Services.

Curriculum: The curriculum is organized and administered by the faculty of the Department of Physical Education. Instruction is offered in the areas of sports, aquatics, fitness, aerobics, and other specialized courses. Courses are designed to promote the development and enjoyment of lifetime motor skills which will afford opportunities to realize one's potential and to provide vigorous exercise to release tensions often generated by strong academic commitments and intense urban life.

Intramurals: The Physical Education Department offers an extensive intramural program which features basketball, floor hockey, indoor soccer, tennis, and volleyball. The program offers different levels of competitive play and emphasizes participation in a friendly atmosphere; activities are open to all members of the college community. For more information, contact the Director of Intramurals, 206 Barnard Hall, or call 854-6940.

Recreation: Recreational use of the gymnasium, swimming pool, track, and weight room is available at specified times. All students, faculty, and staff are encouraged to use the facilities. In addition, the Physical Education Department sponsors special recreational activities, such as fun runs and sports tournaments, throughout the semester.

Intercollegiate Athletics: The Barnard/Columbia Athletic Consortium provides the opportunity for eligible undergraduate women to compete together as members of University-wide athletic teams. Thirteen varsity sports are currently sponsored: Archery, Basketball, Crew, Cross Country, Fencing, Field Hockey, Lacrosse, Soccer, Swimming & Diving, Tennis, Indoor and Outdoor Track & Field, and Volleyball. Governed by NCAA and Ivy League rules, all teams are Division I. Competition is scheduled with teams from the Ivy League, the metropolitan area, and the eastern region. In addition, students are eligible to qualify for state, regional, and national championships. Physical Education credit may be earned through satisfactory participation on a varsity team.

For more information, contact Merry Ormsby, Associate Director of Athletics, Columbia-Dodge Fitness Center, 854-8373, or check for information in the Physical Education Department in Room 209, Barnard Hall.

Registration: Registration takes place at the beginning of each semester. Information is available in the north lobby of Barnard Hall as well as in the Physical Education office. After confirming registration with the Physical Education Department, students should include the Physical Education course by number, section, title, and I.D. number on final programs filed with the Registrar.

Cross Registration: An agreement between the Department of Physical Education of Barnard College and Columbia College permits limited enrollment of Barnard students in selected Columbia courses. Barnard students must successfully complete one Physical Education course at Barnard before they may elect a Columbia Physical Education course. Columbia College and Engineering School students may register for designated Barnard courses during Barnard's registration period. Other Columbia University students must receive permission from the Physical Education Department to register before filing their final programs with the Registrar. Registration is not open to graduate students.

Courses: Classes are organized in homogeneous skill groups for optimal learning. Students are advised to register according to their own skill level: Beginning or Advanced Beginning.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

AQUATIC COURSES

PED BC 1120x, y

Beginning Swimming

Development of confidence and safety skills in the water. Introduction of front crawl, elementary backstroke, and deep water skills. No previous experience required. Women only.

PED BC 1121x, y

Advanced Beginning Swimming

Review of safety skills, front crawl, and elementary backstroke. Further development of deep water skills. Introduction of breaststroke, side-stroke, and backstroke.

PED BC 3125x, y

Lap Swim

Students determine an individual training program with the instructor on a contract basis.

Completion of one physical education course required. Swimming fitness test for class admission given prior to first class meeting.

PED BC 3131x

Lifeguard Training and First Aid

Pool management, preventive lifeguarding, swimming and equipment rescues; leads to American Red Cross certification in "Life-guarding Today."

Swimming test for class admission given during first class meeting.

SPORTS COURSES

PED BC 1350x, y

Archery

Techniques of shooting target archery. Individualized instruction for all levels; selection and care of equipment; safety; intraclass tournaments and novelty shoots.

PED BC 1353x, y

Badminton

Strokes, strategies, singles and doubles play.

Intraclass tournaments provide competition for all levels.

PED BC 1357x, y

Bowling

Basic techniques of spot bowling and spare conversion; scoring and game play.

PED BC 1360x, y

Fencing

Basic offensive and defensive foil techniques; footwork, rules, officiating, and bouting.

PED BC 1362x, y

Golf

Introduction to the game of golf through a variety of indoor drills to develop all facets of the game; includes proper club selection, effective swing techniques, and the "long and short" game.

PED BC 1364x, y

Beginning Tennis

Fundamentals of forehand, backhand, and serve. Introduction to rules, scoring, and etiquette.

PED BC 1365x, y

Advanced Beginning Tennis

Refinement of forehand, backhand, and serve. Further instruction in scoring, rules, tactics, and etiquette. Introduction of the volley and doubles play. Completion of Beginning Tennis or permission of the instructor is required.

PED BC 1470x, y

Volleyball

Introduction of forearm pass, overhead pass, serve and spike, and basic offensive and defensive strategies of power volleyball.

PED BC 3898x, y

Varsity Team Archery

Practice and intercollegiate competition in Indoor Target Archery.

Permission of coach required. For other varsity teams, see Columbia course offerings.

FITNESS COURSES

PED BC 1359x, y
Self-Paced Cycling

Individualized program of aerobic exercise utilizing stationary cycles performed on a contract basis. Completion of one physical education course required. Cycling test for class admission given prior to first class meeting.

PED BC 1580x, y
Body Sculpting

Introduction to strength and endurance exercises to develop muscle definition for the upper and lower body. Emphasis on correct body placement. Flexibility work included.

PED BC 1582x, y
Aerobics

Combination low/moderate impact cardio-vascular exercise performed to a variety of music. Muscle toning exercises also included.

PED BC 1585x, y
Weight Training

Introduction to principles of weight training; use of the Universal Weight Machine and free weights. Programs tailored to individual needs.

PED BC 1587x, y
Step

Low-impact cardiovascular exercise using the Step Reebok™ bench. Muscular endurance and flexibility work included.

SPECIAL COURSES

PED BC 1101x, y
Lifetime Wellness

Introduction to the fundamental principles of wellness and physical activity, including physical fitness, health, and wellness assessments. Topics include practical concerns for self-management within an active lifestyle and disease prevention.

PED BC 1690x, y
Self-Defense

Development of confidence, using basic defensive and offensive moves, so that a person can handle a threatening situation effectively and with minimal confrontation.

PED BC 1693x, y
Yoga

Basic Hatha yoga positions; body awareness; relaxation; breathing exercises.

PED BC 2799x, y
Independent Study

Enrollment in a course of instruction not offered by the Barnard or Columbia Physical Education Departments.

Not open to first-year or transfer students. Approval of department required. Limited to one semester.

DANCE

See Dance Department (page 118) for course listings. Studio dance courses may be taken to fulfill the Physical Education requirement. Dance courses taken to fulfill the Physical Education requirement do not carry academic credit.

Courses offered are:

- Ballet: Beginning, Low Intermediate, Intermediate, Advanced.
- Jazz: Low Intermediate, Intermediate.
- Modern: Beginning, Low Intermediate, Intermediate.
- Tap: Beginning, Intermediate.

From Aristotle's Physics to Newton's Principia, the term "physics," taken literally from the Greek φυσικς = Nature, implied natural science in its very broadest sense. Physicists were, in essence, natural philosophers, seeking knowledge of the observable phenomenal world. Astronomy, a sibling science to physics, concentrated specifically on the study of natural phenomena in the heavens with the intent to understand the constitution, relative positions, and motions of the celestial bodies in our universe. Though practitioners of these disciplines have become somewhat more specialized in the past century, the spirit that guides them in their research remains the same as it was more than two millennia ago.

In cooperation with the faculty of the University, Barnard offers a thorough preprofessional curriculum in both physics and astronomy. The faculty represents a wide range of expertise, with special strength and distinction in theoretical physics, condensed matter physics, elementary particle physics, and observational astronomy.

Separate majors in physics and astronomy are offered. Furthermore, there are many special interdisciplinary majors possible, such as biophysics, chemical physics, engineering physics, and mathematical physics. There is a physics minor as well. Students should consult members of the department early on in their undergraduate careers in order to plan the most effective course of study.

A major examination is required for both astronomy and physics; there is no senior essay required for either. Qualified seniors are invited to participate in the seniors honors program, in which they carry out a year-long research project leading to the thesis.

The department offers several quite distinct introductory sequences in physics, only one of which may be taken for credit:

1. PHY C 1001-2, General Physics, is a two-semester introduction to physics intended for liberal arts students, taught on the Columbia campus. It satisfies the Barnard Lab Science requirement if taken concurrently with the laboratory PHY BC 1091-2 given at Barnard. It does not fulfill the premedical requirement or the physics requirement for any major. (Starting in 1996-97, the lecture and lab will be given as one course, PHY V 1051-2.)
2. PHY V 1201-2 General Physics is satisfactory preparation for medical school and is appropriate for most non-science major pre-medical students. This course, devoted to algebra-based physics, is taught at Columbia in a large lecture hall setting. It is not recommended as a foundation for more advanced work in the field. PHY V 1301-2 is similar but uses calculus.
3. PHY BC 1206-8, Physics I, II, III, is Barnard's own three-semester, calculus-based introductory sequence in physics. Characterized by modest class sizes, it is designed specifically for Barnard women with a serious interest in any of the natural sciences or mathematics. Moreover, it is especially appropriate for majors in physics, chemistry, or biochemistry, whether premedical or not. Biology majors with some calculus background are also encouraged to take this sequence. Finally, Barnard women contemplating a major in physics or astronomy should take PHY BC 1206-7 in their first year, if possible, or in their second at the latest, to be followed by the third-semester course, Waves and Optics.

PHYSICS AND ASTRONOMY

4. First-year students with exceptional aptitude for physics (as evidenced, for example, by scores of 4 or 5 on the advanced placement C exam) and a good mathematical background may be admitted into the Columbia-taught two-semester sequence, PHY C 1801-02, General Physics, which replaces all three terms of the sequence for majors. Students inclined toward this sequence are strongly encouraged to consult a Barnard faculty member at the start of the term.

Students unsure about the most appropriate sequence should consult members of the department.

The following courses may be substituted for each other:

PHY BC 1206, and C 1601 with W 1691

PHY BC 1207, and C 1602 with W 1692

AST V 1753-4 and C 1403-4

There is a laboratory fee of $25 for each 1000-level physics course with a laboratory.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE ASTRONOMY MAJOR

The courses required for the major in astronomy are:

PHY BC 1206 Physics I: Mechanics

PHY BC 1207 Physics II: Electricity & Magnetism

PHY BC 1208 Physics III: Waves and Optics

Students may substitute a Columbia College three-semester calculus-based introductory physics sequence with lab, as in the physics major.

Calculus through IIIS/IVA is required, with additional work in mathematics recommended.

Also:

AST C 1203, 1204 Introduction to Astrophysics I, II

Students who have taken AST V 1753-4 (Introduction to Astronomy I, II) or

C 1403-4 may substitute an additional 3000-level AST course for AST C 1203-4.

Finally, students are required to take four 3000-level AST or PHY courses, including at least one of AST C 3102 or PHY W 3003 Mechanics, and selected so that at least six total points of 3000-level lecture classes are AST courses. Some of the AST courses offered in recent years include:

AST C 3101 Stellar Structure and Evolution

AST C 3102 Planetary Dynamics and Physics of the Solar System

AST C 3103 Galaxies and the Interstellar Medium

AST C 3104 Cosmology

AST C 3302 General Relativity, Cosmology, and Black Holes

AST C 3461 Order and Disorder

AST C 3646 Observational Astronomy

Students planning to study astronomy or astrophysics in graduate school are strongly urged to take PHY W 3003, 3007-8, 3021-22, some additional courses in mathematics, and Computer Science W 1005 Fortran Programming. Note: When any of the required courses is not being given, the Department will recommend appropriate substitutions.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE PHYSICS MAJOR

The courses required for the major in physics are:

PHY BC 1206 Physics I: Mechanics

PHY BC 1207	Physics II: Electricity & Magnetism
PHY BC 1208	Physics III: Waves and Optics

In lieu of the above, any three-semester Columbia introductory sequence acceptable for the physics major in Columbia College will do (e.g., PHY C 1601-3 taken with PHY W 1691-3). The accelerated two-semester Columbia College sequence PHY C 1801-2 is also acceptable.

Calculus through IIIS/IVA is required, with additional work in mathematics recommended; e.g., Math E 1210x,y Ordinary Differential Equations, APMA E 3102y Applied Mathematics II. The calculus sequence should be completed by the end of the sophomore year.

At the upper level:

PHY W 3003	Mechanics
PHY W 3021	Quantum Physics
PHY W 3022	Statistical Physics
PHY W 3007	Electricity and Magnetism
PHY W 3008	Electromagnetic Waves and Optics are required, as are 4.5 points total of advanced lab work via PHY BC 3082/W 3081. Finally, the student must take Computer Science W 1003 Programming in C, W 1005 Fortran Programming, or PHY W 3083 Electronics Laboratory.

Students planning to study physics in graduate school should include several 4000-level electives in their senior year program.

INTERDISCIPLINARY MAJORS

Special majors in, for example, biophysics, chemical physics, engineering physics, or mathematical physics are all possible and are arranged in conjunction with the relevant second department at Barnard. A student interested in such possibilities should speak to a faculty member early on (i.e., by late fall of her sophomore year) in order to permit the most effective construction of her program of study and the appropriate petition to be made to the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing. The latter is a straightforward procedure associated with the declaration of all special majors at Barnard.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE PHYSICS MINOR

Five courses are required for the minor in physics. They are: any three-semester introductory sequence acceptable for the major (see above); and two 3-point courses at the 3000-level.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

ASTRONOMY COURSES

Astronomy-Physics-Geology C 1234x-C 1235y

AST C 1904y

Stars, Galaxies, and Cosmology Laboratory

This laboratory is for the lecture courses AST V 1754y and AST C 1404y. A lecture course must be taken concurrently. —A. Crotts and Staff

Corequisite: AST V 1754y or AST C 1404y.

1 point. Hours TBA.

AST C 1203x

Introduction to Astrophysics I

The first term of a two-term calculus-based introduction to astronomy and astrophysics. Topics include the physics of stellar interiors, stellar atmospheres and spectral classifications, stellar energy generation and nucleosynthesis, supernovas, neutron stars, white dwarfs, interacting binary stars. —J. Applegate

Prerequisite: A working knowledge of calculus.

3 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55

AST C 1204y

Introduction to Astrophysics II

Continuation of AST C 1203x. Topics include the structure of our galaxy, the interstellar medium, star clusters, properties of external galaxies, clusters of galaxies, active galactic nuclei, cosmology. —J. Van Gorkom

3 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55

AST C 3101

Stellar Structure and Evolution

Topics include the physics of stellar structure, stellar atmosphere, nucleosynthesis, stellar evolution, interacting binary stars, white dwarfs, and neutron stars. —N. Baker

PHYSICS COURSES

PHY V 1051x, 1052y

Elementary Physics

An introduction to physics with emphasis on quantum phenomena, relativity, and models of the atom and its nucleus. —S. Ritz

No previous background in physics is expected; high school algebra is required. Includes laboratory given at Barnard. Satisfies the Barnard science requirement if taken with BC 1091-2, but not the physics requirement for admission to medical school.

4 points. Tu Th 1:10-2:25

General Physics Laboratory

Laboratory to accompany PHY C 1001, 1002.

First semester: statistics, falling motion, harmonic motion, collisions, pressure, and heat. Second semester: light, electrons, atoms. —R. Friedberg
This lab may be taken alone with permission of the instructor. Identical to lab of V 1051, V 1052.

1 point. Hours TBA.

General Physics

Mechanics, heat, electricity, magnetism, optics, and modern physics. —B. Winer

No prerequisite. Non-calculus based approach. Should be taken with accompanying lab PHY V 1291x, 1292y.

3 points. Lecture M W 11:00-12:15

PHY V 1900x, y

Seminar in Contemporary Physics and Astronomy

Lectures on current areas of research with discussions of motivation, techniques, and results, as well as difficulties and unsolved problems. Each student submits a written report on one field of active research. —Instructor TBA.

Prerequisite or corequisite: any 1000-level course in the Physics or Astronomy departments. This course may be repeated for credit only with the instructor's permission.

1 point. Hours TBA.

PHY BC 1206x

Physics I: Mechanics

Fundamental laws of mechanics. Kinematics, Newton's laws, work and energy, conservation laws, collisions, rotational motion, oscillations, gravitation. —Instructor TBA.

Corequisite: Calculus I or the equivalent.

4.5 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50

Laboratory hours TBA.

PHY BC 1207y

Physics II: Electricity and Magnetism

Charge, electric field, and potential. Gauss's law. Circuits: capacitors and resistors. Magnetism and electromagnetism. Induction and inductance. Alternating currents. Maxwell's equations. —Instructor TBA.

Prerequisite: Physics BC 1206x or the equivalent.

Corequisite: Calculus II.

4.5 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50

Laboratory hours TBA.

PHY BC 1208x

Physics III: Waves and Optics

Classical wave phenomena: slinkies, strings, sound, water, light, rainbows, Green Flash; geometrical optics; interference, diffraction. —T. Halpin-Healy Prerequisites: Physics BC 1207y or the equivalent.

Corequisite: Calculus III.

4.5 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50

PHY C 1801x, 1802y

General Physics

Mechanics, heat, electricity, magnetism, and light. —A. Blaer

Prerequisite: Advanced placement in mathematics or some knowledge of differential and integral calculus and permission of the departmental representative.

(A special placement meeting is held during Orientation Week.)

4 points. Lecture Hours TBA.

Laboratory: 3 hours TBA at the first class meeting.

PHY W 3003x

Mechanics

Newtonian mechanics. Conservative forces and potential energy. Central forces. Planetary motion. Rutherford scattering. Free and forced oscillations. Relativistic mechanics. —P. Kaaret

Prerequisites: General physics and integral calculus.

3 points. M W 11:00-12:15

PHY W 3007y

Electricity and Magnetism

Electrostatics and magnetostatics. Laplace's equation and boundary-value problems. Multipole expansion. Dielectric and magnetic materials. Faraday's law. AC circuits. Maxwell's equations. Lorentz covariance and special relativity. —M. Schwartz Prerequisites: BC 1207 or the equivalent, and differential and integral calculus.

3 points. M W 11:00-12:15

PHY W 3008x

Electromagnetic Waves and Optics

Maxwell's equations and electromagnetic potentials. The wave equation. Propagation of plane waves. Reflection and refraction. Geometrical optics. Transmission lines, wave guides, and resonant cavities. Radiation. Interference of waves. Diffraction. —M. Schwarz

Prerequisite: W 3007.

3 points. M W 9:35-10:50

PHY W 3021y

Quantum Physics

Wave-particle duality and the Uncertainty Principle. Order-of-magnitude estimates in atomic physics. Basic principles of the quantum theory. Energy levels in one-dimensional potential wells. The harmonic oscillator, photons, and phonons. Reflection and transmission by one-dimensional potential barriers. Introduction to atomic and molecular physics. Electron spin resonance. Nuclear magnetic resonance. —M. Shaevitz

Prerequisite: BC 1208 or C 1802 or the equivalent.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50

PHY W 3022y

Thermal and Statistical Physics

Thermodynamics, kinetic theory, and statistical mechanics presented from a unified point of view. Classical and quantum statistics. The ideal gas. Black-body radiation. Liquid helium and superfluidity. Introduction to solid-state physics. Properties of metals, semiconductors, and insulators. Transistors. —P. Kaaret

Prerequisite: W 3021x.

3 points. Tu Th 9:00-10:15

PHY W 3072y

Seminar in Current Research Problems

A detailed study of a selected field of active research in physics. The motivation, techniques, and results obtained to the present, as well as the difficulties and unsolved problems. —Instructor TBA.

Open only to senior majors. May be taken for Pass/D/Fail credit only.

2 points. W 4:10-5:25

PHY BC 3082x, y

Advanced Physics Laboratory

Barnard College physics laboratory has available a variety of experiments meant to complement 3000-level lecture courses. Each experiment requires substantial preparation, as well as written and oral presentations. Quantum experiments: hydrogenic spectra, h/e measurement, Frank-Hertz apparatus, electron diffraction. E&M experiments: transmission line solitons, Faraday rotation, Michelson interferometer, Fresnel diffraction. Numerical experiments in statistical physics and chaos are also possible, using the department's minicomputer facility. —T. Halpin-Healy

To be taken concurrently with W 3021y and W 3008x.

1.5 points. Laboratory hours TBA.

PHY W 3083x, y

Electronics Laboratory

Experiments in solid state electronics, with introductory lectures. —B. Knapp

Permission of the instructor required.

Corequisite: W 3003 or W 3007. Registration is limited to the capacity of the laboratory.

2 points. M W 1:00-4:00

PHY V 3500x, y

Supervised Readings in Physics

Readings in a selected field of physics under the supervision of a faculty member. Written reports and periodic conferences with the instructor. —Staff
Prerequisite: Written permission of the faculty member who agrees to act as supervisor and the permission of the departmental representative.

The purpose of the study of political science is to develop understanding of the basic political institutions and processes in human society. This understanding involves analysis and evaluation of political systems and public policies in the context of the challenges they face and the changes they undergo. The major is designed to equip the student to play an effective role as citizen in a democratic political order, to participate more actively in political life as public or party official, civil servant, lawyer, or political commentator, or to undertake graduate training in political science in preparation for a career in college teaching. Students interested in public service careers should inquire about the two five-year joint-degree programs at Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs (SIPA): the Graduate Program in Public Policy and Administration (MPA) and the Master of International Affairs Program (MIA).

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

A student majoring in Political Science is required to take a minimum of nine semester courses from the department's listed offerings, including:

A. Political Science BC 3001

Dynamics of American Politics

B. One of the following courses:

Political Science V 3501

Introduction to Comparative Politics

Political Science V 3601

International Politics

Political Science BC 3013

Political Theory

C. Two colloquia or other courses requiring a research paper from among those courses designated by an asterisk (*); and

D. Two semesters of research seminar for the senior thesis (see below).

In order to have the opportunity for independent specialized work in depth, and to explore more fully the techniques of scholarly investigation, both majors and concentrators are required to write a senior thesis as part of the work for the required two-semester research seminar (either Political Science BC 3761-BC 3762, Research Seminar, or V 3711-V 3712, Research Seminar in American Politics).

The department's requirements are flexibly drawn to permit a major, in consultation with her adviser, to plan an overall program that, while providing some background in various areas of government and politics, can place special emphasis on such particular interests as the American political system (including its urban subsystem), foreign political systems, international relations, or political theory.

Departmental approval must be granted for transfer courses used toward the major. Only three transfer courses may be counted.

REQUIREMENTS FOR URBAN AFFAIRS MAJORS WITH POLITICAL SCIENCE CONCENTRATION

A student majoring in Urban Affairs with a concentration in Political Science is required to take a minimum of six semester courses, including:

Political Science BC 3001	Dynamics of American Politics
Political Science V 3313	American Urban Politics

Two from the following courses:

Political Science BC 3322	The American Congress
Political Science BC 3326	Colloquium on Civil Rights and Liberties
Political Science BC 3327	Colloquium on the Content of American Politics
Urban Affairs BC 3535- BC 3537	Colloquium—Workshop in Urban Administration and Management
Political Science V 3306	Political Economy of Cities
Political Science G 8232	Colloquium on Urban Politics, Policymaking, and Administration

Two semesters of research seminar for the senior thesis.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

A student minoring in Political Science is required to take a minimum of five semester courses, including Political Science BC 3001.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

In addition to Barnard offerings, the following list includes the titles, instructors, days, and times of selected Columbia offerings for the 1996-97 academic year. For detailed descriptions of these courses, see the Columbia Bulletin.

Psychology is the study of behavior and experience, and therefore of a diversity of phenomena, from love to aggression, from the first babbling of infants to creative intellectual behavior, from sexual behavior to the mechanisms of taste. Faculty members in Psychology have a wide range of research interests, including social and cognitive development, memory, sexual and parental behavior, animal learning, interpersonal behavior, the self-concept, and the resolution of conflict.

Common to all areas of psychology is a concern with adequate and appropriate method. The student will encounter many perspectives on psychological evidence and technique through lecture, laboratory, field courses, and other offerings.

Opportunities are available for supervised research, teaching, and field experience. Independent study and the Senior Seminar involve participation in research with a faculty member. The Toddler Center and a course in Field Work in Psychological Services also provide first-hand contact with the study of psychology.

The department sponsors a Psychology Club.

Psychology as a major is good preparation for many careers. Many majors enter graduate school in psychology, neurosciences, education, and professional schools, including medical, law, and business schools. There is no set sequence for a major with a given career goal, but the department recommends a balance between courses that are directly preparatory and those which establish a broad intellectual foundation.

Science requirement: Students desiring to fulfill the science requirement through psychology are encouraged to take their lab courses in their early years at Barnard, because seniors do not receive priority in lab placements. To ensure exposure to different methods in psychology, the two lab courses will be drawn from different groups in psychology. See the description of lab groups under Requirements for the Major.

A laboratory fee of $30 is charged for each laboratory course: BC 1105, BC 1108, BC 1117, BC 1123, BC 1127, BC 1130, BC 1136, and BC 1156.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The student majoring in Psychology is exposed to the diversity of the discipline through the required core courses and the selection of appropriate electives.

Eight courses in psychology (of which two must be lab courses) and three courses in related disciplines are required for the major. Six of the eight required psychology courses must be taken at Barnard College. Statistics cannot be taken during the summer. Students who have passed the Advanced Placement exam with a score of 4 or 5 are exempt from BC

PSYCHOLOGY

1001 and receive 3 points of AP credit.

Students must take:

Psychology BC 1001	Introduction to Psychology (prerequisite for further psychology courses)
Psychology BC 1101	Statistics (preferably in the sophomore year)

Students must take one course from each group, of which two must be laboratory courses:

Group A

Psychology BC 1105 or 1107	Psychology of Learning
Psychology BC 1130 or 1132	Human Learning and Memory

Group B

Psychology BC 1108 or 1110	Perception
Psychology BC 1117 or 1119	Physiological Psychology

Group C

Psychology BC 1123 or 1125	Psychology of Personality
Psychology BC 1136 or 1138	Social Psychology
Psychology BC 1127 or 1129	Developmental Psychology

A maximum of two of the following courses may count toward the major: BC 3465, BC 3466, BC 3591, BC 3592, and BC 3599.

The three required courses in related disciplines should be distributed in this manner: one-year course sequence in a science, accompanied by a three-hour laboratory section (astronomy, biology, chemistry, environmental science, geology, or physics); and one course from the cognate disciplines (anthropology, computer science, economics, linguistics, philosophy, or sociology).

The eight required psychology courses must be taken for a letter grade; the grade must be C- or better.

The major examination consists of either the Graduate Record Examination in Psychology or satisfactory completion of Psychology BC 3591-BC 3592, Senior Research Seminar.

When in doubt the student should consult with her major adviser, whom she should select when she decides to major in psychology. The student should select the appropriate adviser by consulting with the administrative assistant or the chair.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Five courses are required for the minor, including Psychology BC 1001, BC 1101 and one laboratory course. Two additional electives, excluding Psychology BC 3465-BC 3466, BC 3591-BC 3592, and BC 3599, are required. These electives may be selected from the Psychology Department course offerings. Three of the five psychology courses must be taken at Barnard.

QUANTITATIVE REASONING

Elliott Hall

854-1317/7172

This program is supervised by the Quantitative Reasoning Committee.

Senior Associate and Director of Computing and Network Systems: Jean Follansbee (Director)

Professor of Economics: Duncan Foley¹

Associate Professor of Mathematics: David Bayer

Instruction in the Quantitative Reasoning Program is provided by regular members of the Barnard and Columbia College Faculty.

QUANTITATIVE REASONING REQUIREMENT

All entering students must take the Basic Math Skills test during their first week of matriculation. Students with scores lower than 11 out of 20 must take QUR BC 1001, Basic Math Skills, during their first year at Barnard before registering for any of the courses listed on page 36 that satisfy the Quantitative Reasoning Requirement. Basic Math Skills topics are arithmetic (including fractions, decimals, and percentages), exponents and logarithms, equations and graphs, and word problems.

In order to graduate, students must pass one of the courses listed on page 35 in which the major topics are mathematics, methods of empirical analysis using quantitative data, or the use of symbolic manipulation to solve problems. These courses can count both toward a major or distribution requirement and for the Quantitative Reasoning Requirement.

Students may fulfill the Quantitative Reasoning Requirement by securing Advanced Placement or transfer credit for a course listed on page 35 or for an equivalent course. A student who fulfills the Laboratory Science Requirement in Chemistry, Physics, or Astronomy simultaneously satisfies the Quantitative Reasoning Requirement.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Quantitative Reasoning courses assume that students know the basic math skills topics. QR courses introduce students to the use of computers but assume no previous computer experience.

QUR BC 1001x, y Basic Math Skills

Arithmetic (including fractions, decimals, and percentages), exponents and logarithms, equations and graphs, and word problems. Required for students who score below 11 out of 20 on the Basic Math Skills exam. Open to other students only with permission of the instructor. A student who wishes to select the P/D/F grading option or drop this course must do so by the fifth week of the section in which she is enrolled. —TBA.

Approaches to the study of religion are as diverse as the world's religious traditions themselves. The student of religion encounters men and women—and our courses give explicit attention to both genders—as they explore the boundaries of their perceptions of the real. The challenge of this encounter inspires our involvement in the academic study of religion, even as it leads us to examine and question the boundaries of our world views.

The inquiry into religious theory, practice, and institutional life demands a variety of methodological tools in addition to an integrating framework. The program in religion sponsored by the Departments of Religion of Barnard College and Columbia College offers a unique context and extensive resources for this interdisciplinary study. The areas of expertise of the religion faculty (philology and the interpretation of texts, philosophy of religion, sociology and anthropology of religion, the history of specific religious traditions, comparative religion) provide the prospective student with a clear picture of the range of specialization available.

Moreover, the larger University community provides training in a broad spectrum of disciplines related to the study of religion: the social sciences, humanities, arts, and the professions. Programs and institutes for specialized area studies —Middle East, Southern Asia, East Asia, etc.—explore in depth the linguistic, literary, and sociocultural milieus of a particular Eastern or Western religious tradition. Barnard and Columbia offer intensive training in the languages of the major religious traditions of the world: Arabic, Chinese, Greek, Hebrew, Japanese, Latin, Persian, Sanskrit and other Indic languages, Tibetan, among others. Students are encouraged to take full advantage of these and other opportunities available throughout the University.

The Jewish Theological Seminary of America and Union Theological Seminary are located near the campus. Students are encouraged to use the resources they offer, including their world-renowned libraries.

All courses, except those limited to majors, satisfy the College's distribution requirements in the Humanities.

DEGREE REQUIREMENTS

FOR THE MAJOR

Program of study: To be planned with the departmental adviser, taking into account the educational aims of the student. A religion major is expected to acquire knowledge of at least three sorts: (i) an acquaintance with the linguistic, social-scientific, historical, and philosophical theories and methods that concern the study of religion; (ii) an in-depth knowledge of one religious tradition; and (iii) a critical, comparative understanding of the broad range of the world's religious phenomena, requiring some familiarity with all of the major world religions.

Courses: for the major, 10 courses in religion (for a minimum of 30 points) are required:

- (i) Religion V 1001, Introduction to the Study of Religion.
- (ii) Two survey courses in the major religious traditions, one Western, one non-Western—V 2600 Hinduism, V 2607 Buddhism: Indo-Tibetan, V 2608 Buddhism: East Asian, V 2610 Christianity, V 2620 Judaism, V 2630 Islam, and V 2640 Chinese Religious Traditions.
- (iii) Three advanced courses in the study of religion, with two chosen in the tradition of main concentration; the third course must be from a substantially different tradition or area. Where appropriate, selected courses offered in other departments may be applied toward the fulfillment of this requirement, subject to the approval of the religion adviser.
- (iv) The Junior Majors' Colloquium, Religion V 3799. Religion majors planning to study abroad in their junior year are strongly advised to take the required Junior Colloquium in their sophomore year.
- (v) Any advanced departmental seminar.
- (vi) The Senior Majors' Colloquium, V 3800, Critical Issues in the Modern Study of Religion.
- (vii) A Senior Essay prepared in consultation with a member of the department; the essay may be written in connection with Religion V 3901-3902, Guided Reading and Research and is taken into consideration when recommendations are made to the Faculty Committee on Honors.

It is strongly recommended that majors, especially those considering graduate work in religion, pursue the study of the language of one religious tradition in addition to fulfilling the College language requirement.

For a Minor in Religion

Program of Study: to be planned with the departmental representative, taking into account the educational aims of the student.

Courses: For the minor five courses are required, including:

- (i) Religion V 1001, Introduction to the Study of Religion; Religion V 1101, Introduction to the Study of Western Religion, or Religion V 1102, Introduction to the Study of Eastern Religion.
- (ii) Two survey courses in the major religious traditions, with a Western/non-Western distribution.
- (iii) One departmental seminar or colloquium.

Note: A grade of C- or above is required for credit of major or minor requirements.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

For courses offered by other departments and the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences that bear upon the study of religion, students are urged to consult the appropriate bulletin. Some graduate courses are open to qualified undergraduates with the permission of the instructor.

The Slavic Department at Barnard offers instruction in five Slavic languages and literatures, with special emphasis on Russian. The department insists upon a strong foundation in language study, because this best prepares students for future graduate study in literature, history, economics, or political science, as well as for careers in government, business, journalism, or international law.

The department offers a major and minor program in Russian, and for this purpose has an extensive array of courses designed to help the student obtain reasonable fluency in the spoken and written language, a reading ability adequate for interpreting texts of some difficulty, and a general knowledge of Russian literature and culture, especially of the 19th and 20th centuries.

Foreign Language Requirement for the degree: satisfactory completion of the second semester of the intermediate level course or any course above that level. Entering students should see Professor Frank Miller (708 Hamilton, 854-3941) for a placement examination: a sufficiently high grade will automatically fulfill the requirement; other students will be placed accordingly. Those who speak a Slavic language natively should consult with the department chair.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE RUSSIAN MAJOR

Students must have completed two years of college Russian before entering the program. Prospective majors or minors should consult with the department chair as early as possible. A total of 11 courses are required for the major:

Usually taken in the second year:

Russian V 3220	Nineteenth-Century Russian Prose
Russian V 3221	Twentieth-Century Russian Prose

Usually taken in the third year:

Russian V 3331-V 3332	Advanced Russian
Russian V 3333-V 3334	Introduction to Russian Literature

Usually taken in the fourth year:

Russian V 3443-V 3444	Fourth-Year Russian
Russian V 3595	Senior Seminar

Plus two additional electives in literature.

Independent study with any of the faculty at Barnard and Columbia can usually be arranged, and study in Russia is possible as part of the major.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE RUSSIAN MINOR

A total of five courses beyond the second year of Russian are required for the minor. No courses in translation count toward the minor.

Sociology aims to uncover the theoretical principles that illuminate social life. In pursuing this goal, sociology exhibits a diversity of perspectives. This pluralism is one source of the discipline's vitality. Some scholars reach out to the sciences for their model of sociological inquiry; others look to more humanistic and historical endeavors for their inspiration and identity. But in all its different forms, the discipline as a whole strives to develop rigorous methods, both qualitative and quantitative, for analyzing social life.

Sociology involves more than the accumulation of theory and method for its own sake. Perhaps above all else, sociology is devoted to the exploration of actual social life in all its variousness. Thus it is that sociology majors examine the dynamic processes through which human beings express their social being: cooperation, conflict, power, exchange, morality, symbolism, domination, dependency, deviance, social control, and violence. Students also study the forms to which these processes give rise: social networks, small groups, face-to-face interaction, subcultures, families, gender divisions, religion, popular and high culture, social class, structures of race and ethnicity, bureaucracy, social movements, professions, and the state. The Barnard Department of Sociology tends to focus on these forms and processes as they unfold in the United States. At the same time, we seek to guard against provincialism by grounding our analyses comparatively and exploring the social life of less developed, developing, and other mature industrial societies.

There are no special admissions requirements or procedures. Students (majors and non-majors) are encouraged to consult with members of the department regarding their choice and sequence of courses. Combined and double majors may be arranged. In addition, the Columbia department offers a wide variety of sociology courses which are open to interested Barnard students.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The major prepares students for graduate work in sociology as well as in other disciplines; for professional schools (law, business, social work, journalism, urban planning), and for all occupations requiring general knowledge of society and social interaction as well as basic skills of social research.

A minimum of 10 courses is required for the major, including

SOC BC 1003

Introduction to Sociology

SOC BC 3082

Junior Colloquium—Sociological Theory

SOC V 3211

Quantitative Methods (not later than the junior year)

SOC BC 3087-BC 3088

The Spanish major trains the student to express herself fluently in both oral and written Spanish. It provides her with an intellectual grasp of both the literature and culture of Spain and Latin America.

Foreign Language Requirement for the Degree: First-year students with prior training in Spanish who wish to satisfy Barnard's foreign language requirement in Spanish will be placed in the appropriate language course on the basis of either their CEEB score or the pre-registration placement test administered by the Spanish Department. Students scoring 4 or above on the placement test will be exempted. All others must complete BC 1204. Transfer students should consult the department chair.

The Spanish Club facilitates joint faculty-student projects. The club sponsors discussion sessions and films and lectures by writers, artists, and visiting scholars.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Interested students should consult members of the department as early as possible in order to create a course of study suited to their particular interests. The Spanish Department also provides guidance for students interested in the Spanish subdivision of the Foreign Area Studies major. The Spanish Department actively encourages students to study abroad and may be consulted about these programs.

There are three majors available to prospective students in the department: I. Language and Literature, II. Spanish Studies, III. Latin American Studies. Each option requires a Senior Essay (BC 3999x or y Independent Study for Majors).

I. Language and Literature: This program emphasizes a knowledge of Spanish language and the literature of Spain and Latin America. The major consists of 11 courses.

The six required courses are:

- | | |
|---------------|---|
| BC 3115 | Latin American Culture I |
| BC 3121 | The Literature of Latin America: From the Colonial Period to Modernism |
| BC 3123 | Spanish Literature in the Middle Ages and the Early Renaissance |
| BC 3125 | The Struggle of Two Spains |
| BC 3127 | Don Quijote |
| BC 3999x or y | Independent Study for Majors (thesis topic and adviser to be selected) |

Five electives of (3 points each) are to be chosen from literature and culture courses at the 3000 level (in Spanish).

Requirements for the Minor: Six courses: BC 3121, BC 3123, BC 3127 and three electives (of 3 points each) from the language and literature options at the 3000 level (in Spanish).

II. Spanish Studies: This program emphasizes the literature, history, and culture of Spain. The major consists of 12 courses (eight within the Spanish Department, four within other disciplines).

SPANISH AND LATIN AMERICAN CULTURES

The five required courses are:

BC 3123	Spanish Literature in the Middle Ages and the Early Renaissance
BC 3124	Literature of the Golden Age
BC 3125	The Struggle of Two Spains
BC 3129	The Culture of Spain
BC 3999x or y	Independent Study for Majors (thesis topic and adviser to be selected)

Three electives of 3 points each are to be chosen from the Peninsular literature and culture courses at the 3000 level (in Spanish). BC 3004, Section 5 Language and Film: Issues in Contemporary Spanish Cinema and DAN BC 2558 Evolution of Spanish Dance Style are recommended.

Four courses are to be chosen from offerings in the Social Sciences or Humanities that relate to Spain and define a special field of interest (to be chosen in consultation with the major adviser). History BC 1011 and 1012 Introduction to European History are strongly recommended.

III. Latin American Studies: This program emphasizes the literature, history, and culture of Latin America. The major consists of 14 courses (eight within the Spanish Department; six within other disciplines).

The four required courses are:

BC 3115	Latin American Culture I
BC 3116	Latin American Culture II
BC 3121	The Literature of Latin America: From the Colonial Period through Modernism
BC 3999x or y	Independent Study for Majors (thesis topic and adviser to be selected)

Four electives of 3 points each are to be chosen from the 3000 level, two of which must pertain to specific regions of Latin America (BC 3143 Literature of the Spanish Caribbean; BC 3117 Literature of the Southern Cone; BC 3118 Contemporary Mexican Literature; BC 3119 Literature of the Andes; BC 3120 Twentieth-Century Puerto Rican Literature).

Six courses in the social sciences or humanities that pertain to Latin America and define a special field of interest (to be selected in consultation with the major adviser).

COURSES AT COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY,
CONSULT COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY BULLETIN.

Officers of the University offering courses in Statistics:

Professors: William Dumouchel (School of Public Health), Joseph Fleiss (School of Public Health), Christopher C. Heyde, Ioannis Karatzas, David H. Krantz (Psychology), Bruce Levin (School of Public Health), Shaw-Hwa Lo (School of Public Health), Paul Meier (Chairman)

Associate Professors: Victor de la Peña, Guillermo Gallego (IEOR), Marianthi Markatou, Karl Sigman (IEOR), Wei-Yann Tsai (School of Public Health), Christine Waternaux (School of Public Health), David Yao (IEOR)

Assistant Professors: Melissa Begg (School of Public Health), Jaksa Cvitanic, Myonghee Paik (School of Public Health), Daniel Rabinowitz, Yongzhao Shao

Adjunct Assistant Professors: Demissie Alemayehu, Eva Petkova

Barnard Representative: Victor de la Peña, x 45360

The Department of Statistics offers a wide range of courses in probability and statistics. Probability and statistics deal with phenomena involving uncertainty. Probability theory describes the behavior of given random systems, while statistical methods facilitate the discovery of hidden regularities in such systems from observed data. The department trains students to apply statistical methodology in their later careers in the biomedical or social sciences, business, engineering, etc., or to continue with graduate study in statistics, business management, operations research, and related fields. Members of the department are actively engaged in both theoretical and applied research. Students may not take both 1001 and 1111 for credit. Certain majors require 1111. Consult the respective major department.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

All majors should consult the departmental representative regularly in planning their programs of study. The requirements listed below are special to this department and must be read in conjunction with the general requirements for the bachelor's degree. As a rule, no more than 12 points of transfer credit may be accepted toward the major.

A total of 13 courses are required for the major, including:

Mathematics V 1101, V 1102 and V 2010, or their equivalents

STAT-IEOR W 3600 or W4150, IEOR W 4105, Statistics W 3659 or W 4107, W 4315, and W 3701

One approved course in computer science beyond the introductory level and four additional courses to be chosen with departmental approval from statistics, mathematics, computer science, or operations research, at least two of which must be statistics courses numbered above 4200.

A major examination set by the department must be passed in the senior year. By special permission, a Senior Project may be substituted.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor in Statistics requires a minimum of six courses, five in statistics, including: W 4105, W 3659, or W 4107, W 4315, and any statistics course numbered above 4200, and one approved course in Computer Science.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

STA W 1001x, yIntroduction to Statistical Reasoning

Designed for students in non-quantitative fields. Probability concepts and basic theory of sampling distributions are used as aids to quantitative reasoning and data analysis, with illustrations drawn mainly from the social sciences. Problems of data quality and causal inference; graphical and numerical summaries of data; statistical modeling of relationships between variables; use of computer for data management, evaluation of models, and estimation of parameters. —x: M. Markatou; y: TBA.

Prerequisite: Some high school algebra.

STA W 2201yIntroduction to Data Analysis

Designed for students in non-quantitative fields. The role of statistical methods within the realm of scientific research methods. Utility of statistics to describe and analyze human, societal, and natural phenomena. Fundamental stages of methodological statistics: identification of objectives, information collection, organization, analysis and interpretation of data. Case studies using a computer statistical package. —D. Krantz

Prerequisite: STA W 1001 or the equivalent.

3 points. M W 10:35-11:50

STA-IEOR STI W 3600xIntroduction to Probability and Statistics

Fundamentals of probability and statistics used in engineering and applied science. Probability: random variables, useful distributions, expectations, laws of large numbers, central limit theorem. Statistics: point estimations, confidence intervals; hypothesis tests, linear regressions, ANOVA.

Prerequisite: A working knowledge of calculus.

4 points. Sec. 1 M Tu Th 1:10-2:25 —P. Sharabudin

Sec. 2 Hours TBA. —K. Sigman

STA-IEOR STI W 3658xProbability

Fundamentals of probability theory. Distributions of one or more random variables. Moments. Generating functions. Functions of a random variable. Law of large numbers and the central limit theorem. —Instructor TBA.

Prerequisite: A working knowledge of calculus.

3 points. Hours TBA.

STA W 3659x, yStatistical Inference

Principles of statistical inference. Population parameters, sufficient statistics. Basic distribution theory. Point and interval estimation. Method of maximum likelihood. Method of least squares, regression. Introduction to the theory of hypothesis testing. Likelihood ratio tests. Nonparametric procedures. Statistical design theory. Applications to engineering, medicine, and the natural and social sciences.

Prerequisite: STAT-IEOR W 3600 or STAT-IEOR W 4105 or the equivalent.

3 points. x: Tu Th 6:10-7:25 —C. Heyde

y: Tu Th Hours TBA. —TBA.

Linear Regression Models

Theory and practice of regression analysis. Simple and multiple regression including testing, estimation and confidence procedures, modeling, regression diagnostics and plots, polynomial regression, fixed effects ANOVA and ANCOVA models, nonlinear regression, multiple comparisons, collinearity and confounding, model selection. Geometric approach to the theory and use of the computer to analyse data will both be emphasized. —D. Rabinowitz

Prerequisite: Probability and statistics at the level of W 4150 or W 4105 and 4107 taken concurrently, linear algebra, and calculus.

3 points. x: Hours TBA. —D. Rabinowitz

y: Hours TBA. —E. Petkova

STA W 3701y

Advanced Data Analysis

Data analysis using a computer statistical package and selected exploratory data analysis subroutines. Topics include editing of data for errors, exploratory and standard techniques for one-way analysis of variance, linear regression, and two-way analysis of variance. Material is presented in case-study format. —D. Alemayehu

Prerequisite: A one-term introductory statistics course.

3 points. M W 6:10-7:25

Two hours of laboratory TBA.

STA-IEOR STI W 4105x, y

Probability

Fundamentals, random variables, and distribution functions in one or more dimensions; moments, conditional probabilities, and densities; Laplace transforms and characteristic functions. Infinite sequences of random variables; weak and strong laws of large numbers; central limit theorem.

Prerequisite: STA W 4150 or STAT-IEOR W 3600.

3 points. x: Tu Th 6:10-7:25 —Y. Shao y: Tu Th 6:10-7:25 —TBA.

The study of theatre at Barnard is the study of world theatre. We are part of that world. We recognize that theatre in all cultures borrows from other cultures and has analogues across time. A working knowledge of how theatre is and has been created and performed around the world is essential to the development of a theatre artist in the twenty-first century.

Every good work of theatre, every production and performance, reinvents the art form and re-affirms its value. What can theatre do that can be done only by theatre? How does our understanding of this ephemeral art contribute to our understanding of the world?

Theatre is the art form which brings together all the arts. The Barnard Theatre Department seeks to introduce students to the many aspects of theatre, separately and in combination, with equal respect for the theoretical and the practical. Theatrical production at Barnard is closely related to coursework: performance is the defining event of the art form. Courses in theatre history, design, playwriting, dramatic literature, acting, directing, and critical theory all lead to understanding how live theatre is created and how it is experienced by both its makers and its spectators.

Theatre is the most social of the arts, and its successful realization requires collaboration among theatre workers and between spectator and performer. Students are required to collaborate in class and in production and to become conversant with several aspects of the work. There is also the expectation that students will participate fully as audience members for department productions.

We believe that theatre skills are life skills. Self-expression, improvisation, transformation, empathy, courage, and cooperation are learned as one studies theatre. History, literature, and psychology are among the many humanistic disciplines that theatre calls on as it brings new work to life. The means to make theatre can best be found, and the integration that the art form requires can best be taught, in a liberal arts setting.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The following requirements apply to students who begin the Theatre major in the fall of 1996 or later. Students who have declared the major before this time can choose to remain with the major requirements as they have been outlined previously, or change over to the new major.

Students intending to major in Theatre should consult with the chair in their sophomore year or earlier to plan a program. Twelve courses and a senior project or thesis are required, as follows:

I. Theatre history, theory and literature (6 courses as set forth below):

- A. One full-year course in theatre history, THR BC 3150-3151
- B. Seminar in Drama, Theatre, and Theory, THR BC 3166
- C. ENG BC 3163 or BC 3164 or ETR 3136, Shakespeare.

Another course in Shakespeare may be substituted with the Chair's permission.

- D. One course in Dramatic Literature selected from courses in English or other world literatures. A comprehensive list of Barnard and Columbia courses that meet this requirement is available in the theatre office.

NOTE: Either (C) or (D) above must be a seminar.

E. THR BC 3888 Senior Seminar.

II. Theatre Practice (6 courses as specified below, to be taken in the following suggested sequence when possible):

A. Introduction to World Theatre: THR 2001

B. One course in theatre design: THR 3134, 3135, or 3136

C. One course in acting. This should be chosen from the wide range of offerings in the umbrella course THR BC 3004x, 3005y.

D. One course in directing; THR 3201 is recommended.

E. Two courses that continue work in one of these areas: acting, design, directing, or playwriting. These choices should be made in consultation with the major adviser. Courses in dramatic literature or theatre history/theory may be substituted with the Chair's permission.

III. The senior Theatre major must complete a semester-long thesis course (3 points) either:

THR BC 3997 Senior Project: Performance or

THR BC 3998 Thesis Course in History, Dramaturgy, Criticism

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Please note that there is an 18-point limit on studio courses for non-majors. A major may take 24 studio points in Theatre and an additional six in another discipline for a total of 30 studio points. Theatre Department studio courses are THR BC 2003, THR BC 2004x, y, THR BC 2120, THR BC 3001-3006, THR BC 3122 Rehearsal and Performance.

Acting Lab

This is an umbrella course whose offerings will change each year. Some are narrow, some broad; all are designed with five objectives in common:

- To focus on a particular genre, playwright, or approach to live performance.
- To combine theory and practice. Each class will have an on-going balance of academic and on-one's-feet work throughout the term. Homework assignments will include scene preparation, reading, research, and both individual and group projects.

- c. To become aware of some of the many approaches to acting in world theatre, and to develop respect for this diversity.
- d. To explore the social and political context of the work at hand.
- e. To realize the integration required in all acting: ultimately, this is an acting course, and the end goal is what happens on stage.

There will be one department audition each semester for all acting lab sections to be held the night before the first day of classes.

The acting lab courses are intentionally non-sequential. Students come to the study of acting with widely varying talents and backgrounds. The mix of levels enriches the collaborative experience and offers greater flexibility for students.

No more than six courses can be taken from the Acting Lab/Advanced Acting Lab offerings during a student's Barnard career.

THR BC 3004x

Acting Lab

Enrollment in each section is limited to 14 students. 3 points.

1. Acting American Naturalism

An eclectic approach to naturalistic acting techniques; an examination of performance practice through scene study. Emphasis will be placed on works by Inge, Williams, Miller, and others; and on American naturalism as a foundation for the exploration of other acting styles. —A. Gale
Audition required. Hours TBA.

2. Acting Brecht

Intensive monologue and scene work, along with theoretical analysis and discussion. Practical applications of the "alienation effect" and other Brechtian concepts; readings of critical and dramatic work; performance assignments will be selected from the wide range of Brecht's plays, poems, and songs. —S. Friedman
Audition required. Hours TBA.

3. Acting Social Comedy

Improvisation and scene study from Roman farce, commedia dell'arte, Restoration comedy, and melodrama. Physical approaches to style and character; the handling of period props and costume; in-depth examination of dramatic texts. —J. Rosenfels
Audition required. Hours TBA.

4. Acting the Avant-Garde

Not offered in 1996-97.

THR BC 3005y

Acting Lab

Enrollment in each section is limited to 14 students. Prerequisite: THR BC 2001, audition required. 3 points.

1. Acting Character Through Movement

An exploration of physicality as the basis for acting. Group and individual observation and improvisation; experimentation with puppetry, masks, and stilting. Principal source material includes Augusto Boal, Peter Schumann, and the Bread and Puppet Theater. —P. Hernandez
Audition required. Hours TBA.

2. Acting Chekhov

Scene study, improvisation, character, and monologue work from the plays and short stories of Anton Chekhov. An examination of the artistic and social context of Chekhov's work, including the acting theories of Stanislavski and the politics of naturalism. —J. Rosenfels
Audition required. Hours TBA.

3. Acting Chinese Opera

Training in the four performance skills of Chinese Opera: song, speech, stylized movement/acting, and stage combat. Looks at Chinese Opera in its historical context in order to understand the nature of the performance tradition. —S. Jain
Audition required. Hours TBA.

4. Acting the Song

Singing as an extension of speech—the heightened necessity of song. A song performance workshop with special attention paid to lyrical analysis: Porter, Gershwin, Berlin, Harburg, Mercer, Hammerstein, and others. Song as it emerges from scene, and as an individual entity —A. Gale
Audition required. Hours TBA.

THR BC 3006y

This program is supervised by the Committee on Urban Affairs:

Professor of Political Science: Demetrios Caraley (Janet H. Robb Professor)

Associate Professor of Urban Affairs and Political Science: Ester Fuchs (Chair)

Professor of Anthropology: Paula G. Rubel

Assistant Professor of Economics: Linda Barrington

Assistant Professor of History: David Farber

Assistant Professors of Political Science: Judith Russell, J. Phillip Thompson

Associate Professor of Urban Affairs: William McAllister (Visiting)

The purpose of the Urban Affairs Program is to develop understanding of the basic institutions, problems, and achievements of city life.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

A major in Urban Affairs can be taken only in conjunction with a concentration in one of the regular departments.

In order to major in Urban Affairs, a student must fulfill the following requirements:

A. One course each in three of the following departments dealing primarily with urban subject matter: Anthropology, Economics, History, Political Science, Sociology.

N.B.: If you are concentrating in one of these five departments, you can count one "A" requirement course to fulfill also your concentration requirement, e.g.:

Anthropology V 3100	Anthropology of Urban Life
Economics W 3228	The Urban Economy
History W 4673/W4674	American Urban History
Political Science V 3313	American Urban Politics
Sociology V 3324	Urban Sociology

B. One course dealing primarily with urban subject matter from one department other than those list above (such as Art History, Education, English, Environmental Science, Psychology, or Urban Planning) or one quantitative/methodology course (such as Statistics, Computer Science, Urban Affairs BC 3200 Program Evaluation, or a quantitative/methodological course in your concentration).

N.B.: If you are concentrating in one of the departments listed above, you can count one "B" requirement course to fulfill also your concentration requirement.

C. Three or more courses in a concentration in one of the participating departments as specified in the Urban Affairs/Urban Studies handout.

D. In the junior year, the two junior colloquia in Urban Affairs:
UST V3545 Shaping of the Modern City
UST V3546 Contemporary Urban Problems

E. In the senior year, two semesters of research seminar in the department of concentration. For Columbia College students, either:

- Urban Studies UST V 3994x-V 3995y New York Area Undergraduate Research Program or
- The seminars in Urban Studies C 3610x Boom and Bust in Downtown Development, Gentrification, and Neighborhood Abandonment AND C 3880y American Suburbanization.

The list of specific courses and of the departments that offer specializations for urban affairs majors is available in the Political Science Department office. Appropriate courses can be substituted with the approval of Professor Fuchs.

There is no minor in Urban Affairs.

Women’s Studies is an interdisciplinary department for students who wish to explore the basic questions raised by recent scholarship on gender and its relation to other systems of cultural/political difference: race, class, ethnicity, and sexual orientation. Some of the issues touched on in these fields are: questions about the distribution of power, work, and resources in the U.S. and elsewhere; the symbolic representation of identity in literature, religion, and art; the redefinition of “history” through the study of gender, ethnicity, race, and class; the historical place(s) of lesbian lives; the notion of cultural “roles” for women and men; and the shape of political movements which take gender as an organizational basis.

Early in their sophomore year, students interested in the major should consult the chair or any one of the faculty members teaching Women’s Studies courses for a list of advisers and required courses in the disciplines of concentration.

Students also have the option of electing a joint or double major and have access to Columbia graduate courses, since some cover special areas not otherwise available at Barnard.

Complementing the Women’s Studies Program, the Barnard Center for Research on Women maintains an extensive and expanding resource collection on women’s issues. The Center also sponsors a variety of lectures and discussions devoted to the exploration of the relationship of feminist studies to traditional scholarship.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Majors in the department are trained in interdisciplinary research skills and usually focus their studies in one of two areas of concentration: humanities or social sciences/history. The major in Women’s Studies is taken in conjunction with study in one of the other departments.

The requirements for the major are 14 courses to be distributed as follows:

WMS V 3116	Feminist Texts I: Wollstonecraft to Beauvoir
WMS V 3117	Feminist Texts II: Beauvoir to the Present
WMS V 3112	Colloquium in Feminist Theory
WMS V 3521-3522	Senior Research Seminar

Four other courses in Women’s Studies (see listing below), three within the student’s area of concentration (humanities or social science/history) and one in the other area (V 1001 may count in either area); and

Five additional courses in the department within the student’s area of concentration. One of these five courses may be selected from a closely related department in the student’s area of concentration.

The thesis, Women’s Studies V 3521-3522, provides an opportunity for senior majors to engage in original interdisciplinary research and to bring to bear the theoretical emphasis of feminist scholarship on a particular area of empirical investigation. Further, in the senior seminar, majors have the opportunity to discuss methodological issues and problems of research in a directed and supportive environment.

Special projects using the city's resources may be developed into term papers or incorporated into the senior essay. An extensive project under the sponsorship of at least two faculty members may be offered for course credits as Women's Studies BC 3599, Independent Research.

The Combined Major Option

The combined major option includes seven courses in Women's Studies to be distributed as follows:

WMS V 3111	Feminist Texts I
WMS V 3113	Feminist Texts II
WMS V 3112	Colloquium in Feminist Theory

Four other courses in Women's Studies (see listing below), three within the student's area of concentration (humanities or social sciences/history) and one in the other area (V 1001 may count in either area).

The requisite number of courses in the combining field, to be determined by the chair of that department or program; and

Two terms of a senior seminar to be taken in one of the fields combined in the major. The senior essay shall be designed to integrate the two areas of inquiry.

The combined major should be planned early in the sophomore year.

No minor is offered in Women's Studies.

THE ASSOCIATE ALUMNAE OF BARNARD COLLEGE

Barnard graduates number more than 28,000 and have distinguished themselves in almost every field. The most recent edition of Baccalaureate Origins of Doctorate Recipients for the decade 1981-90 ranks Barnard third in the country among all private, four-year undergraduate colleges in the number of graduates who go on to receive Ph.D.s in all fields; first among all colleges in the number of graduates pursuing Ph.D.s in psychology; and fourth in pursuing Ph.D.s in the sciences.

Alumnae serve Barnard in three important ways: recruiting students for Barnard, interpreting and promoting Barnard in their communities, and supporting the College financially. Alumnae also support the College by volunteering for leadership positions, participating in alumnae events and programs, and hiring Barnard students, interns, and graduates. A network of more than 80 clubs and regional representatives links alumnae in the United States and abroad, providing a source for potential friendships as well as business and professional contacts for alumnae when traveling or relocating.

The Associate Alumnae of Barnard College (AABC) is headed by a twenty-member Board of Directors that develops programs designed to connect alumnae to each other and to the College through class and regional groups in the United States and abroad, as well as through career, young alumnae and other affinity networks. All graduates and former students who have completed at least one year of undergraduate study at Barnard and have left in good academic standing are members. There are no alumnae dues.

Barnard alumnae receive Barnard Magazine, the Barnard Reporter, and invitations to alumnae events and other academic and career programs. Alumnae can audit courses and use campus facilities such as the Barnard and Columbia libraries and the Office of Career Development.

The central office of the AABC is the Office of Alumnae Affairs on the Barnard College campus.
